NEW INTERBORO SUBWAY OFFER IN

Would Spend $24,000,000 More and Yields on Matter of Elevated Extensions.

PROPOSES LINES IN QUEENS

WOULD MEET B. R. T. TERMS

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company submitted yesterday its amended subway and elevated extension offer. The amended offer follows very closely the forecast printed in yesterday's TIMES, and adds to the features there outlined. The principal features of the Interborough's amended offer are:

First—The expenditure of $67,559,000 of its own money in construction of new lines, and $31,965,000 of its own money in equipment, raising the city's contribution from the $53,000,000 contemplated in the company's offer of Dec. 5, 1910, to $67,559,000, and the company's contribution from $75,000,000 contemplated in that offer, to $99,524,000. Thus a total proposed cost of new construction of $135,780,000, and a total cost of construction and equipment of $167,745,000 is involved in the proposition.

Second—Construction by the company of a two-track subway from a junction with the Lafayette Avenue line in Brooklyn, through the Eastern District of Brooklyn, and under the East River to Broadway in Manhattan; thence under Broadway to Fifty-ninth Street, and under Fifty-ninth Street to the Queensboro Bridge.

Third—Construction by the company of two-track elevated extensions in Queens, one running from the Long Island City end of the Steinway Tunnel to the Queensboro Bridge Plaza, and thence to Woodside; the other from the Queensboro Bridge Plaza north to Astoria.

Fourth—Construction by the company of the proposed Bronx elevated extensions, up Jerome Avenue to Woodlawn Cemetery and out White Plains Road, to become a part of the subway, and not extensions, respectively, of the Ninth and Third Avenue elevated lines, as laid down by the company in its offer of Dec. 5.

New Division of Profits.

Fifth—The company's profits on the extensions, after all operating expenses are paid and the interest and sinking fund on both the company's and the city's investment provided for in that order of preference, to be restricted to 3 per cent. additional on its investment, until such time as the city may have made up any deficit on extensions to be built in future, or on lines operated under a guarantee to the company, like the Fourth Avenue (Brooklyn) line; the city, however, to apply any profits which it might realize from the original extensions operated as a part of the main system to the deficits on the possible new extensions, or on its guarantees to the company against loss on the Fourth Avenue (Brooklyn) line.

Sixth—The city to have the right, "if it can be legally carried out, provided the lien of any duly authorized mortgage be not disturbed," to retake at any time after ten years either the present Subway south of Forty-second Street or the present Subway in Broadway north of Forty-second Street, upon payment of the difference in value, this "to be adjusted by agreement between the Interborough Company and the city, or, if they cannot agree, to be settled by arbitration upon terms and conditions to be agreed upon."

Seventh—Provided the city reacquires half of the present Subway as above described, the city to have the right, at the end of thirty-five years from the commencement of operation, to acquire the rest of the present Subway upon tendering to the company a sum equivalent to the estimated net profits for the remainder of the lease, this estimate to be based upon the average annual net profits for five years preceding the date of such acquisition.

Eighth—Construction to be begun in all boroughs at once; the elevated extensions in the Bronx and Queens to be put in operation in two years from the beginning of construction, as well as a shuttle subway line between Times Square and the Pennsylvania Station, at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-first Street.

Will Accept the B. R. T. Basis.

Ninth (The exact language of the offer)—Before formulating these changes in our current offer, which will then fully express our ultimate ability in the matter of subway construction, equipment and operation, we will say in response to an inquiry that has been made of us, that if the public authorities prefer an offer upon the basis of the terms recently proposed to the city by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, the Interborough Company, upon those terms will undertake to build any road in any of the five boroughs that the public authorities may designate, including one or more through lines to Coney Island and Staten Island, and operate them all in connection with its present Subway system for a single five-cent fare.

Points It Does Not Yield.

The amended offer says that the company will not accede to the suggestion of the city's transit conferrees that an arrangement be made for the sharing of

ROOSEVELT WON'T HUNT.

THE TIMES is able to state upon the very highest authority that Col. Theodore Roosevelt will not spend the Summer of 1912—Presidential year—in hunting polar bears in the arctic with an expedition led by Capt. Robert Bartlett, late of the Peary polar expedition, but will be right here in the United States attending to such matters of importance as may develop at that time. There can be no higher authority for this than Col. Roosevelt himself, and the Colonel provides the authority.

A contrary impression had been given in an item sent out to the newspapers last night, which quoted Capt. Bartlett as authority for the statement that big game hunting in the arctic has more attractions for Col. Roosevelt than the next Presidential campaign, as the Colonel now sees it.

"Capt. Bartlett, who commanded Peary's ship, the Roosevelt, on her last and successful trip," the item said, "has the Colonel's acceptance pledged. The Captain wanted the Colonel to go along this year, but the Colonel was too busy.

"'Next year,' said the Colonel, and Captain Bob believes he is sure of his man."

It went on to quote Capt. Bartlett as saying yesterday afternoon: "He'll come. You can take my word for it."

THE TIMES telegraphed to Col. Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, telling him what was being said about his plans for next Summer and asking him if it was true that he proposed putting in the Summer months preceding the Presidential election in an arctic hunting trip. Quick as the telegraph wires could carry it came back this reply from the Colonel:

LARZ ANDERSON FOR BERLIN?

Latest Report in Regard to the American Ambassadorship.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 9.—The latest name which has reached Berlin from the United States in connection with the United States Ambassadorship is that of Larz Anderson of Boston.

Mr. Anderson is understood here to be a particular intimate friend of President Taft. Mrs. Anderson visited Berlin a year ago.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—No confirmation can be obtained here of the report that Larz Anderson of Boston will succeed Dr. Hill as Ambassador to Germany, but Mr. Anderson's diplomatic experience and social prominence put him well within the list of possibilities.

Mr. Anderson was born in Paris in 1866 and has traveled extensively. He spent many years in the Diplomatic Corps and saw military service as Captain of volunteers in the Spanish war. His home in Massachusetts Avenue is one of the largest in Washington, and, though it is closed during most of the year, Mr. Anderson is a close personal friend of President Taft, while Mrs. Anderson was one of the party that accompanied Mr. Taft when he was Secretary of War on his trip around the world.

Mr. Anderson was Secretary of Embassy at London from 1891 until 1893 and First Secretary and Chargé d'Affaires at Rome from 1893 until the outbreak of the Spanish war. He is a Commander of the Italian Order of St. Maurice and St. Lazare and a Grand Officer of the Crown of Italy. He is a member of the Order of the Cincinnati and of many American and foreign clubs.

TUG TOWS BALLOON ADRIFT.

Rope Thrown to Boat When Philadelphia II. Is Becalmed Over the Delaware

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., May 9.—A balloon, Philadelphia II., was to-day towed up the Delaware River 200 feet in the air, its anchor rope tied to the bow of a tug. Mrs. Ada Turner Kurtz, a singer; Dr. Thomas E. Eldridge, President of the Philadelphia Aeronautical Recreation Society, and John E. Nugel, President of the Penn Chemical Company, were aboard the balloon.

The party ascended from the U. G. I. Athletic Association grounds this morning and were evidently becalmed while drifting over the river, five miles below Reedy Island. The anchor rope was dropped and caught by the crew of the tug, and the novel towing started.

Dr. Eldridge says the balloon was sailing southeast over the bay near the lighthouse when they discovered that their supply of ballast was exhausted. Signaling to the tug, which was steaming below in the bay, they managed to throw their rope and anchor to the deck of the boat. Once on their way to this city the basket of the balloon dipped and the three aboard were threatened with drowning. Nugel, who was on the edge of the basket, lost his balance as the balloon hovered near the water and fell forward, but landed on his feet on the deck of the tug.

Upon their arrival in Delaware City, and as the balloon was being brought to the ground by the aid of a derrick, considerable gas escaped from the bag, overcoming two soldiers stationed at Fort Du Pont. The two men were revived later.

Before the start was made Mrs. Kurtz expressed the hope that the balloon would remain in the air long enough to allow her to surpass the long distance record flight made by Violet Ridgeway, for which she holds the cup.

Dr. Eldridge claims to have achieved all local balloon records. His highest altitude is 17,050 feet; long distance record, 315 miles, and time record for remaining in the air twelve hours and thirty minutes. The long distance record was made when the doctor reached Danbury, N. H., and the time record when he landed in the mountains of Maryland.

SUBWAYS FOR CHICAGO.

Committee to Study Plans and Routes —Fund of $6,000,000 Available.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Mayor Carter H. Harrison laid the foundation to-day for an early start on the construction of an elaborate system of subways for Chicago, which is to cost approximately $50,000,000. The Mayor ordered Alderman Peter Reinberg, Chairman of the Local Transportation Committee, to appoint a sub-committee of three to take up subway plans at once and report recommendations for the actual starting of work.

Members of this committee in reality will form the first subway commission. They may employ a special engineer to assist them.

Plans prepared by City Engineer John Ericson, Bion J. Arnold, and others for subway construction will be considered immediately. Within a month, it is claimed, the Aldermen will decide the subway routes to be first built and ask the Council for authority to go ahead and let contracts.

The city now has at its disposal a fund of $6,000,000 immediately available for subway construction.

KOENIG IS ELECTED AFTER BITTER FIGHT

CHARGES OF BAD FAITH MADE

Ex-Secretary of State Samuel S. Koenig was elected President of the Republican County Committee last night to succeed Lloyd C. Griscom after one of the bitterest fights in the history of the organization. The special meeting of the committee to elect the new President was held in Eldorado Hall, at Fifty-second Street and Seventh Avenue, and did not adjourn until 12:45 this morning.

The depth of the feeling against Mr. Koenig was shown in the speech of Edward Lauterbach nominating State Senator Josiah T. Newcomb, whom the Old Guard leaders finally decided upon as their candidate. After recounting the past glories of the Republican Party and touching upon its recent defeat in this city, Mr. Lauterbach said: "I am not sure, Sam Koenig, judging by the past, that those with whom you are affiliated will not continue the downfall and degradation of the Republican Party."

Mr. Koenig was elected over Senator Newcomb by a vote of 336 to 257. The Old Guard had previously made a fight for further adjournment. After the long roll-call of the full membership of the County Committee the motion was beaten by a vote of 334 to 261.

In making the motion for adjournment Senator Newcomb charged Mr. Koenig with bad faith in having refused to withdraw his candidacy after having promised to do so if it could be shown to him that Vice President Woodward could be elected unanimously. Mr. Koenig and Herbert Parsons both replied to this that it had not been shown to them that Mr. Woodward could be elected unanimously. This question of veracity went unsettled, and was referred to by each speaker on both sides throughout the meeting.

The meeting opened with a motion by V. W. B. Brown, leader of the Twenty-seventh Assembly District, that the committee proceed with the election of a new President. Mr. Woodward was presiding. Senator Newcomb rose to object, and was greeted with loud applause and cries of "Platform! Platform!" The Senator took the platform and said:

"If my public record in this country and State amount to anything I believe that it is wise for this committee to pause for a moment. Otherwise I believe that all that has been done for good and decent politics in the Republican Party in this State and county will be nullified. Many of you know the efforts I have made to bring about harmony in this committee. Many of you also realize that conditions recently in this committee have not been satisfactory. We all regret the reasons for the retirement of President Griscom, but at the same time I believe it is patent to every one of you that under him the causes for good politics in the County Committee have been disintegrated and that many leaders have been forced out in sympathy with the powers that be.

"Things that Herbert Parsons stood for have been forgotten. Who is Mr. Griscom that he should choose his successor? You are prepared to take hasty action here to-night and do something which will not represent the sentiment of the rank and file of this committee. I am told that two men were considered for the Presidency, when or where or how I do not know, and that all other names were eliminated.

"This process of progressive elimination seems to be all that is left of the recent progressive platform in our organization. I am told that it was decided that one of these two men was stronger than the other, but now I want to tell you that I think it only right and decent to widen out the circle until it comes somewhere near being representative of this committee. I ask this not on my say so alone for I can show you that the other of the two names could have been unanimously elected President of this committee. The number of delegates to be had seems to have been more important in the quarters where Mr. Koenig was selected than the welfare of the party. I went down to the office of Herbert Parsons and there met Mr. Koenig. He told me that he would withdraw if Mr. Woodward could be unanimously elected."

"That's it, that's it, peace with honor," cried a delegate from the back of the hall.

"Mr. Koenig also wanted the assurance," continued Senator Newcomb, "that the leaders who voted for Mr. Woodward would continue their support of him, or, in other words, that no primary fights would be conducted against him this Fall.

"The opposition formally replied that it would unanimously support him and make no fights against him, and I suppose that settled the matter and he would withdraw."

"Will the gentleman yield to a question?" cried Mr. Parsons, jumping to his feet. The committee immediately burst into an uproar.

"I will yield when I get through!" cried Senator Newcomb.

"I beg that the Senator be permitted to finish," interposed Mr. Koenig.

"I think the committee will allow me to finish without Mr. Koenig's assistance," replied the Senator. "Understand that I do not make any charge of bad faith—"

"You'd better not," interrupted Koenig.

"Was it not the proposition that Woodward could be unanimously elected last Tuesday evening?" continued Mr. Parsons.

"It was so stated next day," said the Senator.

"Is not that the Senator's recollection?" persisted Mr. Parsons.

"Absolutely not," cried Mr. Newcomb amid shouts of applause. "I want to tell you that I believe Mr. Koenig was bound by the condition of grasping the opportunity to produce harmony in this committee."

Senator Newcomb moved as an amendment to Mr. Brown's motion that a committee of fifteen be appointed to select a candidate to succeed Mr. Griscom, with instructions to consider "among others" the following names: Ex-Congressman Bennet, William H. Douglas, Ernest Hall, Job E. Hedges, ex-Senator Brough, Louis Stern, Moses M. McKee, Samuel Strasbourger, ex-Judge Olcott, Albert Ottinger, Mr. Woodward, and Frederic C. Tanner.

Mr. Koenig took the platform and said:

"A question of veracity has been raised here, and I want to state my case before you, not in pieces as Senator Newcomb has done, concealing parts which he does not dare tell you, but the whole of it. He did not dare tell you of a message he received from a certain great power in which we saw the fine Italian hand of the Old Guard."

"Three cheers for the Old Guard," cried a delegate, and the shouting that followed lasted nearly five minutes.

"We replied to Senator Newcomb's

STRIKE MOB PELTS WORKMAN AND POLICE

MISSILES HURLED AT THEM

A mob of 3,000 persons, among them many women, hooted and jeered early yesterday evening as eight mounted policemen, eight men on foot, and two bicycle policemen escorted Harry Gorrie to his home at 511 Fifty-third Street, Brooklyn, from the E. W. Bliss Projectile Works, at Fifty-third Street and First Avenue.

The mob threw stones and bottles at the police and the machinist they were escorting, for Gorrie refused on April 29 to go on strike with 300 fellow-workers, who wanted shorter hours, and the strikers, though not molesting the strikebreakers, have attacked Gorrie daily.

So great was the crowd that it filled the street from curb to curb. The police turned off Fifty-third Street and passed along Fifty-second Street as far as Fourth Avenue in the hope of eluding some of the throng, which they knew was waiting further along Fifty-third Street, but the strikers and their sympathizers ran though other avenues and congregated in Fifty-second Street.

Bricks and bottles came flying through the air from the rear of the crowd and the police were kept busy dodging the missiles. The mounted men rode along the sidewalk, forcing the throng back before them, and in their rear came the eight men grouped around Gorrie, who calmly puffed on a big calabash pipe. It was the police who were excited and angry. At their sides swung the ornate dress sticks, adorned with handsome blue tassels and cords, which replaced the heavy locust night stick by Mayor Gaynor's order. As bottles, bricks, clods of earth and other missiles fell about them the police now and then instinctively reached for their belts, only to let their hands drop again and walk along powerless to resist the attack.

At last the procession reached Gorrie's home, and the crowd surrounded the house, hooting and continuing to hurl missiles as Gorrie thanked his escort and entered the house. The police went back to the Fourth Avenue station and the mob dispersed, shouting insults after them.

"Just ten minutes with a good old night stick," muttered one of the policemen, angrily, "and we'd fix that mob so they wouldn't bother us again, I can tell you. But what do they care for us now? The best we can do is march along and look foolish while they throw things at us. Why, we don't dare use even these toothpicks that they've given us in place of night sticks, and if we did, some one would run to the Mayor, and then we'd be up on charges and probably dismissed for assaulting a citizen."

Residents of the neighborhood through which Gorrie and his escort march mornings and evenings were as much aroused as were the police by the actions of the mob, and several announced their intention of complaining against a rule which ties a policeman's hands in the face of such attacks. Householders in Fifty-third and Fifty-second Streets are in constant fear of having their windows smashed by the missiles of the mob, and already several persons have been struck by bricks aimed at Gorrie or his police guard.

The crowd was more daring last night than on other occasions. Ever since Gorrie refused to go out on strike he has been met in the streets on his way to and from work by groups of strikers, who at first tried to argue with him, and, finding him firm, ended by throwing things at him, although not actually attacking him with their fists.

Finally the Bliss company appealed to Capt. Donald Grant of the Fourth Avenue station for protection for Gorrie, and on Monday morning the escort of eighteen men appeared at Gorrie's home and took him to work. By evening the news had spread through the neighborhood that the police were helping Gorrie, and on Monday evening a great crowd collected to see him go home. The appearance of the police at first had a quieting effect on the throng, but the throwing of the first missile renewed their courage, for the police did not resent it.

Yesterday morning and last evening the crowd grew bolder as the continued inactivity of the police convinced them that the uniformed men were afraid to make reprisals. Capt. Grant declared last night that he was powerless to do more than he had done.

"I shall provide an escort for Gorrie just as long as he wants one," said the Captain, "and I shall make the escort as large as occasion demands. I can do no more than that."

He did not speak of the inability of the police to control the crowds. But the men were loud in their complaints of the Mayor's order which made them helpless in the face of attack.

"We'll have to keep on being targets for that mob," said one of them. "There's nothing else we can do. But just arrange it so we can use our old nightsticks for a few minutes and there won't be any more trouble. No one'll have to be worried about having windows broken. There won't be any strikers in the streets."

Judge Ratifies Georgia Central's Tender to New York Trust Companies.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 9.—Judge Walter G. Charlton of the Superior Court to-day directed the payment forthwith of $200,000 to the Metropolitan Trust Company of New York, Trustee for the bondholders of the first income bonds of the Georgia Central Railway Company, and $197,478 to the Central Trust Company of New York as interest on the second income bonds.

The order expressly reserves to Capt. W. W. MacKall, auditor, the right to hear and determine whether additional payments are to be made, if interest is to be allowed on interest, and the various questions of compensation. The order simply ratifies the tender made by the defendants to conform to the decision of their Directors at a meeting held on May 6. The Trustees will accept these payments on account only, and waive none of their rights, privileges, or contentions.

BRITISH MONARCHS HOLD FIRST COURT

LADY DECIES MUCH ADMIRED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 9.—The first Court of the new reign was held to-night at Buckingham Palace, where a glittering spectacle was provided, the ceremony being on the same scale of magnificence as that inaugurated by the late King Edward, who revived much old world ceremonial that had been allowed to fall into disuse in Victorian days.

It was seen when the Royal procession entered the Throne Room that the Queen wore the blue ribbon of the Garter across her breast and the star at her side. She wore many of the large jewels that were noted at the opening of Parliament—a return to the Victorian style of huge stones in heavy settings.

The women of American birth present at this first Court were numerous, and the usual presentations were made in the American circle by Mrs. Whitelaw Reid. It is now de rigueur that no American lady, unless married to an Englishman, shall be sponsored at Court by other than the wife of the Ambassador.

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid wore a beautiful gown of white brocaded satin in a bold design outlined with glittering black diamante, which followed the pattern, and in front were long lines of exquisite lace. The dress had a little square train and over it fell a manteau de cour of brocaded white velvet embellished with black diamante and lace.

The ladies of the United States Embassy at this court were Mrs. William Phillips, wife of the Secretary of Embassy; Mrs. Simpson, wife of Commander Simpson, the naval attaché, and Mrs. Slocum, wife of Major Slocum, the military attaché, who were presented in the diplomatic circle. Mrs. Phillips was much admired in a dress of rose satin with a train of silver tissue and a diamond tiara, from which fell a drapery of some diaphanous material that does duty as a veil on these occasions.

The number of presentations other than in the diplomatic circle was strictly limited, and it may be supposed that the American Ambassador had a hard task to make his selection among his countrywomen invading London just now.

Those presented were Mrs. W. H. Crocker and her daughter, Miss Ethel Crocker of San Francisco, Miss Mazie Delafield of New York, Miss Eleanor Webb, daughter of H. H. Webb, an American resident in London, and Miss Agra Bennett, daughter of Louis Bennett of West Virginia.

Mrs. Crocker and her daughter wore charming dresses, which were greatly admired. They are staying at a house in New Cavendish Street, having no fancy for hotel life.

Miss Mazie Delafield is on a visit to her kinswoman, Mrs. Archer Shee, and Major Archer Shee at their house in Park Street. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Delafield of New York.

Miss Eleanor Webb is making her début here, where her people have lived for many years past.

Of the Americans married to Britishers presented at this Court none attracted more attention than Lady Decies, formerly Miss Vivien Gould. This beautiful young woman was the cynosure of all eyes when she made graceful curtsies to King George and Queen Mary. She wore a dress of shimmering white satin embroidered with diamonds, pearls, and crystal, with crystal fringe. The white satin train had a design of silver lilies with diamond and crystal hearts and was bordered with ermine. Lady Decies wore her feathers and veil in a distinctive fashion that was extraordinarily becoming, and her jewels were remarked even where such a show of sumptuous gems was to be seen.

Mrs. Lewis Harcourt was wearing an exquisite half mourning dress of black charmeuse. It was closely embroidered in fine jet, with a train to correspond, and her magnificent diamonds gained in effect against the black, especially as white and gay colors prevailed.

Never have the dressmakers achieved such a success before, and with the fiat sent out that "hobble" skirts were not to be permitted there was a lack of exaggeration in cut and style. It was realized that it was too much to expect that the Court officials could decide what was a "hobble" and what was not, so in order to avoid all doubt on the subject a few folds fell gracefully at the back of the gowns.

Lady Lister-Kaye and the Duchess of Manchester went together to the Court. Lady Lister-Kaye with a satin dress wore a rose du Barri train of soft velvet and had gorgeous jewels.

The brides of American nationality awaiting presentation at other Courts are unusually numerous. Lady Acheson, who was Miss Mildred Carter; Lady Maidstone, daughter of A. J. Drexel; Mrs. Montague Eliot, and Mrs. Sheridan are among those married in the last twelve months.

SEVEN DIE IN THEATRE FIRE.

Lafayette, Variety Actor, Lost in Burning of Edinburgh House.

EDINBURGH, May 9.—Toward the close of a performance in the Empire Palace Theatre to-night fire started on the stage.

The fire curtain was promptly lowered and the house was quickly emptied of the audience, none of whom was injured.

A search of the ruins of the theatre at an early hour this morning, revealed seven charred bodies in the neighborhood of the stage. One was partially identified as that of Lafayette, who was performing when the fire started. The others are thought to be members of his troupe and theatre employes.

The theatre was destroyed.

It was in this theatre that King George had promised to attend a "command" performance on the occasion of the royal visit to Edinburgh in July.

DAMAGES LOUVRE TREASURES

PARIS, May 9.—An individual named Vigoreux, taking advantage of the temporary absence of an attendant, to-day broke a Graeco-Roman statue of Esculapius in the Louvre and cut a portrait of Michelangelo. When arrested he declared that he was homeless and had committed the vandalism in order to force the police to take him in custody.

Vigoreux recently returned from the United States, where he had engaged in several vocations unsuccessfully.

PENSION FOR MRS. CLEVELAND

$5,000 a Year Also for Mrs. Harrison Provided in Senator Root's Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Senator Root to-day introduced in the Senate a bill giving to Mrs. Frances Folsom Cleveland, widow of President Cleveland, and Mrs. Mary Scott Lord Harrison, widow of President Harrison, pensions of $5,000. It is expected that the pensions will be granted without opposition, though no action was taken at the last session.

Mrs. Cleveland already has the franking privilege of the mails.

FOR AIRSHIP REGISTRATION.

Connecticut Senate Passes Bill for Control of Flying Machines.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 9.—The Senate to-day passed the bill which provides for the registration, numbering, and use of airships and the licensing of operators. It was sent to the House, which is expected to approve it. It happens that the first general aviation meet in the State will be held at Bridgeport this week.

Connecticut is the first State to provide for the State control of flying machines.

MRS. CORBETT SUES WIFE NO. 2

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, May 9.—Mrs. Fannie Corbett, wife of Harry Corbett, commercial agent of the Iowa Central Railroad, has brought suit against Mrs. Dora Pollock Corbett of this city, charging that illegal means were used to win her husband.

Mrs. Fannie Corbett has entered suit for $50,000 damages. Mrs. Corbett declares that the divorce her husband secured from her at Reno was illegal, and that he at no time was a resident of that city; that her husband plotted to divorce her so he could marry a woman with money, and that his marriage to the daughter of Mr. Pollock of the Pollock Boiler Company of Youngstown is illegal.

TO CORNER MAY COTTON.

Bull Leader Offers to Buy Entire New Orleans Stock at 15.48.

NEW ORLEANS, May 9.—Frank B. Hayne, a cotton bull leader, threw the New Orleans Cotton Exchange into excitement twenty minutes before closing today, when he offered to purchase the entire stock of cotton in New Orleans at 15.48 cents.

Pandemonium reigned for a few minutes, recalling the days of the great "Sully" pool. When the gong sounded it was estimated that Mr. Hayne had bought perhaps 5,000 bales. But his sudden and startling move puzzled the bears and May cotton, along with that of the other active months, closed at the advance. The price before his offer, was 15.40.

There are whispers here of a big corner in May cotton, but those believed to be in the deal refuse to talk.

DENIES SLANDERING WARD.

The $50,000 slander suit brought by John M. Ward, the lawyer, golf player, and former baseball star against Ban Johnson, President of the American League of Baseball Clubs, went to trial yesterday before Judge Hand in the United States Circuit Court. The suit has to do with an interview said to have been given out by Ban Johnson at the time Ward was proposed as a member of the National Commission which arbitrates matters at disputes between the National and the American League. It is contended that Johnson called Ward a "trickster," and said several other uncomplimentary things about him.

Johnson denies using the language attributed to him, and most of yesterday's session was used by the lawyers for the two sides fighting over the admission of depositions of newspaper writers who are said by the plaintiff to have obtained from Johnson the interviews in which the alleged slanderous statements were made.

Admiral's Son Expires of Indigestion After a Hurried Luncheon.

An attack of acute indigestion, brought on by eating his luncheon too rapidly in order to catch a train, caused the death last evening of Luther G. Billings, Jr., 34 years old, son of Rear Admiral Luther G. Billings, U. S. N., retired.

Mr. Billings, who was a member of the law firm of Billings & Peck, 115 Broadway, had an engagement to accompany his father to Pelham Manor, where they both live, from Grand Central Station yesterday afternoon. Business delayed him, and he ate his luncheon hurriedly. He missed the train, and when he reached Grand Central Station was in great pain. He took a taxicab to the Yale Club, of which he is a member, and later was removed to the office of Dr. Charles P. Gray, 29 West Forty-sixth Street. Alleviative measures were applied, but he died in great agony.

Figueroa's Envoy Agrees to Terms That Will Free the Capital from Menace—Troubles Elsewhere Increase.

Gen. Madero's army has captured most of Juarez. Gen. Navarro and his defenders, in an all-day battle yesterday, were driven back to the church, the barracks, and a few other buildings, where they are making a last stand. They are defending themselves with artillery and machine guns, and are well supplied with ammunition and food. In an effort to drive them out, the rebels set fire to many buildings, and a large part of the business and residential district has been destroyed. Casualties in the fighting are not known.

Some Americans were hit by bullets fired across the Rio Grande, but spectators were kept well back from the border by the United States troops and casualties were fewer than on Monday. With the consent of the Mexican Consul, dead and wounded have been brought to the American side.

President Taft, his Cabinet, and Congress leaders unite in the opinion that the shooting of Americans in El Paso will not bring intervention. An attempt of Senator Stone to stir the Senate to approval of such a course ended in laughter. Representative Sulzer, head of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, opposes intervention.

The Mexican War Department announces that peace has been made with the envoy of Gen. Figuero, leader of the Guerrero rebels, who have been threatening the capital. The force sent to relieve Cuernavaca, where foreigners were endangered, has been withdrawn to help the hard-pressed Federals in Puebla.

Socialist rebels have captured Tia Juana, Lower California. An attack on Saltillo has been made. Hermosillo is surrounded by Yaqui Indians. Cananea is in danger from a large rebel force. Oaxaca City, birthplace of President Diaz, is threatened by Puebla rebels. Parras, the seat of the homeplace of the Maderos, is the seat of anarchy, with each side holding part of the town.

HARD FIGHTING ALL DAY.

Federals Driven Back Steadily—Rebels Set Fire to Buildings.

EL PASO, Texas, May 9.—Federal defenders of Juarez to-night are holding only a few places in the city. Gen. Madero's rebels, in a battle beginning at dawn, have steadily driven them back to the last fortified places they had prepared for the struggle, and to-night they are ringed about with little chance of escape unless outside aid comes. The rebel leaders declare that another day will see them in possession of the whole city, as reinforcements are coming up to renew the battle.

On behalf of the Federals, however, it is said, and not without good basis, that they can hold out until the relief column of Gen. Rabago, with its strong artillery, can come up from Terragas and put the rebels to rout. The position of the Government forces is so well fortified that it is well nigh impregnable. They are said to have supplies that will last a week.

The strength of the Federal position is largely due to the fact that the rebels are scattered. If they were lined up in battle formation they probably could storm the Federal strongholds, which apparently consist of six places: the barracks, the church, the theatre, the schoolhouse, a hotel, and the Custom House. The insurrectos suspect that a detachment of nearly 300 Federals with a machine gun is concealed in some unknown place in town and they are hesitating to move in close formation for fear of a flank attack.

Gen. Pascuel Orozco and Col. Villa, two of the rebel chiefs, have their men gathered about the church and the bull pen, while Col. Blanco, with about 300 men, has taken up a position in the shrubbery near the foothills, ready to meet flank movements. The insurrectos control the river bank and are aiding refugees, especially women and children, in reaching places of safety. They have taken possession of many stores, and are procuring food in the houses where they have quartered themselvs.

Widespread Wreck in City.

Juarez looks as if a hurricane had struck it. Wires are suspended from jagged telegraph poles, and the streets are filled with plaster, adobe débris, window glass, and splinters. Signs and awnings are punctured and torn. Many brick buildings have holes in them, and not a few of the characteristic adobe houses of the town are without roofs.

The rebels fired the Post Office and other buildings, probably with bombs. Many buildings, particularly in the business district, were burned, and the streets were filled with clouds of suffocating smoke. The fire still smolders to-night in the ruins of the Post Office and several adjoining buildings. The light from the fire gives the rebels an occasional glimpse of the church where the Federals are cooped up. The cracking of rifles is intermittent.

The terrorized inhabitants of Juarez were under cover all day, and many were injured by the hail of bullets. Bullets continued to sing across the Rio Grande to the American side, but the casualties were fewer than yesterday, owing to the efforts of the United States troops who have kept sightseers several hundred yards from the river. Dead and wounded men have been brought across the river.

The mortars of the Government troops kept up a deafening fire for several hours, but without any effect other than to prevent the rebels from swooping down from the foothills west of Juarez. The insurrecto artillery proved of little value and the revolutionists wrought more destruction while within Juarez by tossing dynamite bombs about wherever they thought Federals were concealed than with their cannon.

Various reports were current during the day that rebel chiefs as well as Federals had been killed or wounded. For a long time it was believed that Col. Garibaldi, grandson of the Italian liberator and commander of the American Legion of insurrectos, had been injured, but to-night he was seen among his men, apparently unhurt.

Madero Stubbornly Held Out.

Gen. Madero held out until midnight against the pleas of his military chiefs for a general attack in support of the small force that had gained a lodgment in the city. His commanders remained obedient, but insisted that the army should not desert its comrades. Gen. Madero, however, insisted that as the men in the city had disobeyed his orders in making the attack they were not entitled to aid. He still sought to arrange an armistice with Gen. Navarro, with the idea of resuming peace negotiations. Gen. Navarro referred him to Judge Carbajal and the envoy of the Mexican Government said that he would do nothing while part of the rebel force was in Juarez.

The decision finally turned on a report which was made to Gen. Madero in behalf of the detachment in the town. They said that they had not begun the fight yesterday; that the responsibility lay with men of a Federal outpost in an adobe house, who had fired on them. They set out to punish these Federals, drove them out, and followed them up. They declared that they felt they could not relinquish the positions they had gained legitimately, although they were completely loyal to Gen. Madero.

When the question came as to whether these men should be ordered to retreat the pressure from the army became too strong for Gen. Madero to resist. At midnight he gave his consent to a general attack in the morning, and his commanders joyfully set about the task of arranging details of the battle and preparing their commands for the struggle. Gen. Madero sent couriers by automobile to Gen. Navarro demanding the surrender of the city. The reply was a refusal unless he was ordered to capitulate by Judge Carbajal.

Gen. Madero declared to-day that no armistice had been violated by the fight of yesterday. It had been reported that one had been arranged just before the insurrectos rushed the town, but the revolutionary leaders said that the negotiations had not been carried to a conclusion. He was talking on the telephone with Gen. Navarro, arranging the matter, when he was informed of the attack and the subject was suddenly dropped and he went out to try to control his men.

Rebels Begin Rush at Dawn.

Firing could be heard inside and outside the city at times all during the night. The little force of rebels that had gained important points in yesterday's fighting—said to have numbered about 300—was on the alert to prevent surprise, and occasionally fired upon suspicious bodies of men. Some of the rebel outposts also drove in outlying Federals.

The real fighting began at dawn. By this time the main rebel army had been disposed to the south and west of the city and was merely awaiting the signal to make the rush. Firing in the battle opened inside the city. A squad of insurrectos had taken up a position in an adobe house at the Mexican end of the Stanton Street bridge. They had a machine gun and were plentifully supplied with ammunition. This they used to keep all the surrounding streets and houses free of Federals. It was under their guard and that of other rebels stationed along the river bank that a large portion of the rebel force was able to get into the city for the later fighting.

It was 4:30 when the general assault began. The few rebel guns had opened on the city preparing the way. Then out of the trenches along the whole rebel front squads of men emerged, dropped to the ground and fired,, jumped and ran a short distance, dropped and wormed along, fired, ran again, and came closer and closer. From the outlying trenches, from the houses, whose roofs had been fortified with sandbags, from every other cover, the Federals sent a shower of bullets on the advancing foes. Gen. Navarro had two modern field guns, other older cannon, and twelve machine guns, and shells and shrapnel were sent by the artillery at the advancing squads. Many a time they were seen to scatter as a shell fell among them. It was believed by observers that large execution was done by Federal guns, as they seemed to have the range perfectly.

Fight from House to House.

From the rebel artillery also came shells and shrapnel intended to silence the Federal guns, while sharpshooters in the advancing army were concentrating their fire on the gunners. Part of the rebel artillery was composed of guns made under the direction of Col. Garibaldi at the locomotive shops at Madera, and it seemed to be effective.

The advance of the rebels was steady. They withheld their fire whenever possible in order to save ammunition. Their sharpshooters seemed to inflict large damage on the Federals. The forenoon was not far gone before they had driven the enemy from the trenches and were gaining positions within the city. Once that was accomplished the houses became forts. Rebels and Federals took refuge in them and fired upon every one in sight. The rebels continued their rushing tactics and slowly carried the fight into the centre of the city. At every point of vantage Gen. Navarro put his machine guns in action to stop advances along the open streets, but the gunners were subjected to a murderous fire and compelled to retreat.

When the rebels were well inside the city their artillery was silenced in order that damage might not be done to them. The guns were then ordered to be brought inside to aid in battering down buildings in which the Federals took refuge.

Americans in the Advance.

Prominent in the advance on the march through the city was the American Legion, commanded by Col. Garibaldi, descendant of the great Italian warrior. In this legion were many former soldiers, not only of the American Army but of Canadian and European training. It was part of this contingent that led the way into Juarez yesterday. They were not always in the front, however, for they found themselves racing with detachments of the native rebels.

The chief defenses of the Federals were the large military barracks and the small one, and the large church at the head of Commercio Street, which had been transformed into a citadel. The large barracks was battered with artillery and finally rushed and was captured shortly before noon. The Federal defense after that was confined chiefly to the small barracks and the church, around which they concentrated their artillery and machine guns, and swept all the approaches. The rebels took station in all the buildings near by and from this cover concentrated fire on the gunners. Guns were brought up to batter down the buildings, but great difficulty was had in finding stations for them.

All through the street fighting bombs were used by the soldiers on both sides. They were particularly efficient in the hands of the rebels, being used to drive Federals out of houses that could be captured in no other way. The Federals also exploded mines, which they had placed along the approaches to the city and in the streets.

Rebels Appeal to Carbajal.

When the Federals had finally been driven to the church rebel leaders made an appeal to Judge Carbajal to use his authority to stop any further loss of life and property. In their message they said:

> The undersigned members of the provisional government of Mexico address ourselves to you in the character of special envoy of the government of Gen. Diaz and beg you to consider the critical situation in which Juarez is at present, almost completely occupied by the revolutionist army, and that the whole force there will be powerless under the circumstances to hold it, since extensive reinforcements will arrive to-day. Consequently also it will be useless to shed more blood and lose more lives in this combat.
> Gen. Navarro expressed his resolution absolutely to follow your orders in respect to surrender of the town. For these considerations we come to beg of you that, inspired by the dictates of the highest patriotism and the noblest sentiments of humanity, at a time when the situation depends on you, that you will resolve to order in a satisfactory manner Gen. Navarro to surrender Ciudad Juarez in as brief a time as possible.
>
> You will understand that in these things you have at the present moment become the sole arbiter who is empowered to act with respect to avoiding bloodshed and the loss of lives in the battle of Juarez and, as the government of Gen. Diaz is unable to recognize the true gravity of the situation, which will follow in consequence, you will be the only one responsible for that which happens later in Juarez.
>
> We present to you our compliments, and beg of you the most earnest consideration.
>
> GUSTAVO MADERO, Financial Agent.

Gen. Madero was in the field when the communication was drawn up. The demand was transmitted to Judge Carbajal in person by all those who signed about 12:40 o'clock. Judge Carbajal replied that he would communicate with Gen. Navarro at once by telephone. He afterward informed the committee that he had been unable to reach the Federal commander.

Gen. Navarro smiled when he at last learned of this letter and continued to give orders to his staff. He was reported to have been seen walking about the streets directing the fighting, but insurrectos denied this. Members of the insurrecto army are known to have been watching for him. Though they had orders not to shoot him, they wanted to take him prisoner.

At least five persons have been killed on the American side of the line since the skirmishing began yesterday, and about fifteen have been wounded, while the loss on the battlefield is variously estimated at from thirty to sixty dead on both sides and about seventy-five to one hundred wounded. Fifteen insurrecto wounded already have been brought to the American side, but more are believed to be lying far within the town. Gen. Navarro at 7 o'clock to-night agreed to stop firing while the insurrecto wounded were removed. The Federals have adequate medical facilities and are caring for their wounded within the town.

Rebels Brave Machine Guns.

The rebels forced the fighting in face of the deadly fire of the Federal machine guns. Many deeds of bravery on the part of the insurrectos were witnessed from the American side of the line to-day. They dared not gather in too great number for an attack on the Federals, because the artillerymen of Gen. Navarro many times demonstrated the accuracy of their range when they shelled adobe houses behind which insurrectos had sought protection a half mile from Juarez while skulking along the river front. Gen. Navarro is said to have mined many houses in Juarez, and when he gets word of an insurrecto gathering it is believed he will be able to inflict a terrible slaughter.

During the afternoon a body of insurrectos sallied from the town to swing around and get at the machine guns. They were driven to the river bank by a hot fire from the Federals. They took refuge in the trenches once ocupied by the Federal outposts and tried to pick off the Federal artillerymen. The Federals shot shell into the trenches. The fighting was in full view of the American side.

In the middle of the afternoon the rebels probably with a bomb set fire to the Post Office. The blaze has spread to the drug store and stationery store nearby. These buildings were near the church, where the Federals were gathered. The flames spread rapidly and could be seen for miles around. The entire northwest section of Juarez was threatened.

As the smoke arose the insurrecto reserves under Col. Blanco came over the hills near to Juarez. The smoke was so dense that the Federal fire was not so effective. Under cover of the smoke, the insurrectos under Gen. Pascual Orozco and Col. Garibaldi have surrounded the church.

At 6:30 o'clock Gerald Brandon of New York, correspondent of El Diaro, Mexico City, crossed into Juarez with a flag of truce bearing a letter from Judge Carabajal, the Federal peace envoy, imploring the commanders of both factions to stop fighting for a few hours so that the dead and wounded could be removed. This was agreed to, although some firing continued.

Madero Joyful Over Success.

Gen. Francisco I. Madero, Jr., leader of the rebels, observed the progress of the battle from a distance. He used a powerful field glass, and not infrequently gave shouts of exultation at the advance of the insurrectos. When a detachment of insurrectos ran across the plain in direct fire of the Federals to effect a sortie, which might draw the Federals from the church, he became greatly excited. He was eager to go to the front and thrust himself into the battle, but his staff officers restrained him.

The large force of United States troops at El Paso was busy all day in keeping Americans as far as possible out of the zone of fire and preventing supplies from being taken to the rebels in Jaurez. Sightseers were kept back three blocks from the river and a patrol went all along the border. Col. Steever's decision that no supplies should be taken to the insurrectos caused a great protest, but he was firm. He let the War Department know what he had done and was not overruled.

This officer also met with many protests when he announced last night that he would not permit wounded men to be brought across the river from Juarez. There were many persons on this side who wished to give aid, but the soldiers would not let them until the afternoon. This attitude on the part of Col. Steever was due to orders from Washington. When wounded rebels were brought across the line at Agua Prieta the Mexican Government made representations to Washington that it was a violation of neutrality, and our Government decided not to give further cause for complaint.

As the fighting progressed, however, and further attempts were made to bring in wounded men protests grew. Col. Steever telegraphed to San Antonio for instructions. He was told that the wounded might be brought over with the consent of the Mexican Consul. This was obtained, and volunteers brought over such rebels as they could find.

Americans among the wounded are Leonard Borowski of Chicago, who is shot in the right eye and left hand; Edward Boughtman, Coldwater, Mich., and A. E. Anderson, residence unknown. The latter two were shot in the leg.

Madero Defends His Army.

Gen. Madero to-night made the following statement:

> I ought to make a statement about that which has taken place yesterday, and will do so with frankness. A skirmish of my outposts with the enemy and a quick retirement of the latter from their position inspired a few of my brave troops to pursue their victory, though sustained by a much smaller number. Once within the city their ranks, however, were increased by a number of sympathizers, whom they met among the people and who unitedly awaited the first signal of attack to unite with my forces. Also there passed numerous Mexican sympathizers from El Paso.
>
> As that morning I intended to ask for a cessation of hostilities with the Federal Government I did all that was possible to turn back my troops, and accordingly sent an officer with a white flag, who was not able to arrive, because he was fired upon by the enemy. It was an indignity to some of my soldiers, who wished to reach their companions. Nevertheless I made strong efforts to make my people return, but they had united to my forces several persons from El Paso who were not soldiers and little accustomed to obey orders.
>
> Afterward, not having arranged a cessation of hostilities, and having received news that the manifesto of Gen. Diaz was very vague and permitted of divers interpretations, I wished to take advantage of the military opportunities which the situation presented, and, though the forces of the enemy had several cannon and machine guns and occupied good positions, I nevertheless resolved to order an attack on Juarez.
>
> My chiefs did not make this attack without having received express orders from me. If my conduct has been interpreted equivocally it is because, having nothing to conceal, I permit the newspaper men to walk about in my headquarters, as well as numerous other persons who are not affiliated with us, and many times they do not understand my words or orders and put various interpretations upon them.
>
> At 4 o'clock in the afternoon I gave a final order to my troops to prepare for an attack. I supposed that some of my chiefs did not rightly interpret my order and went to attack immediately, and I ordered them to suspend operations until an hour could be fixed and because I wished to advise Gen. Navarro by telephone of the attack. I approved the moment for arranging my men, and they as well as the officers showed their submission to my orders.
>
> If I wavered much in attacking Juarez, it was for fear of some international complication, and even though such complications would be against the Government of Gen. Diaz, who is my adversary, I did not wish to involve my country in any difficulty. But, again, since the attack had been begun, the consequences could not be taken into account, since I was continuing to apportion to myself the military advantages of the situation.
>
> If I should triumph I shall not claim for myself any of the glory, for it will be due to the valor of my soldiers and the bravery of my officers, but if I claim all the responsibility, in case the attack is a military or political failure or whatever kind it may be, I have a quiet conscience, because I have acted with good faith and right intentions. With that motive, I serenely await the verdict of public opinion.
>
> With reference to the negotiations of peace I always have manifested my disposition to carry them to a conclusion, and if they have not arrived at any arrangement it is not due to my ambition, for I am disposed to renounce my position as Provisional President, but because of the ambition and aloofness of Gen. Diaz, who has been asked by the national will to retire.
>
> The promises which he makes in his manifesto are vague, and there is little hope that they will be fulfilled, if we take into consideration that he has laughed at promises much more precise.
>

Rebels Say They Will Renew the Attack When It Dies Down.

EL PASO, Texas, Wednesday, May 10.—Fire in Juarez started anew at 12:15 o'clock this morning. The entire town seems to be ablaze. The Mexican Northwestern freight depot, the Mexican Central passenger station, and the city market place are burning.

Red Cross physicians returning from the insurrecto stronghold were informed that no more wounded would be cared for to-night, for as soon as the blaze died down they would renew the attack.

DECLARE FIGUEROA HAS ARRANGED PEACE

TO GO TO PUEBLA INSTEAD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
From Another Correspondent.

MEXICO CITY, May 9.—According to the War Office, a peace treaty has been consummated with Gen. Figueroa, leader of the Guerrero and Morelos rebels, who have been threatening the capital. If this be the case—and all announcements from Government officials must be taken with many reservations—it is thought probable that Figueroa will have similar trouble to that of Madero at Juarez, and that the men will refuse to abide by the leader's decision.

Moreover, the recent successes of the Maderistas are likely to hurt the cause of peace, as the minor leaders seem to be throwing caution to the winds and yielding to the men's demands, that they start on marches of conquest, loot being the incentive.

Gen. Huerta and his men, who were ordered to go to the relief of Cuernavaca and Balas when diplomats here appealed to the Government to save the large foreign colony trapped by the sudden advance of Figueroa's rebels from Guerrero, have now been instructed to go instead to the aid of the hard-pressed Federals in the State of Puebla. This alteration of plans is probably a result of the arrangement made with Figueroa. Whether the foreigners in Cuernavaca are now really safe remains to be seen.

The Puebla rebels are fighting desperately to capture Atlixco, a Federal stronghold. If it should fall the way would be open to the capital of the State. In the city there are about 1,500 Federals behind armored parapets. In a fight near the city which involved the looting of a cotton mill, a German named Muller was killed. He was the foreman of the factory.

Diaz's Birthplace Threatened.

Oaxaca City, the birthplace of Gen. Diaz, heretofore considered secure, is now menaced by the insurrectos. The news was brought by passengers on a train on the Mexico Southern Railway, which came through to-day from Oaxaca after long interruption of the line. They say that rebels from Puebla have invaded the State, determined on spreading the insurrection there. They have had an easy time of it, for Oaxaca in its loyalty has furnished more soldiers to the Government in this crisis than any other State, and many of its best fighters are at other places. There are tales of many horrors perpetrated on the loyal inhabitants.

The National Railway between Aguas-calientes and San Luis Potosi was put out of commission by the rebels yesterday.

The railroad strike in Yucatan continues, adding to the general demoralization on account of the revolt in that State. Morena Canton, who is apparently the people's candidate for the Governorship of Yucatan, has arrived at Merida and has been received with a great demonstration, hundreds carrying banners inscribed "Down With Bad Government." There were torchlight processions at night in his honor and addresses to a great concourse of people from the balcony of the principal hotel.

Federal Officer Defies Moya.

Gen. Luis Moya, the rebel commander in Durango, has appeared before Sombrerete, an important town in Northwest Zacatecas, which is defended by the Eleventh Cavalry. He sent a messenger under a flag of truce to demand the surrender of the place. The [illegible] commander, before the eyes of the messenger, grabbed a rifle from a soldier, rammed Moya's letter into the barrel, and fired in the direction of the rebel outposts. He then sent the messenger back, saying: "Tell Moya there is his answer." The siege began immediately. There is little hope for the town, despite the bravery of its defenders.

Valparaiso, Zacatecas, was the scene of a heroic act by a fifteen-year-old girl, Amalia Sifuentes, the daughter of the Mayor of the town. The rebels took the place, and the Mayor hid himself with the Government funds. His daughter was captured and tortured to wring from her the location of the hiding place of the Mayor. She refused to tell and was so injured that she afterward died. A Federal force came up and drove away the rebels. The girl was buried with all possible honors.

Anarchy at Madero Home.

Details of horrors that are extreme come from Parras, Coahuila, the ancestral home of the Maderos and the centre of their vast Coahuila estates. This town has been a point of great activity almost since the opening of the revolt. Around no other place in this fratricidal war have passions raged more fiercely. It was in the hands of the rebels until within recent weeks, when a Federal detachment, which marched through jungles in order to escape the mines the rebels had planted in the highways, surprised the sleeping town. When morning broke they held the church and the municipal palace and other points of vantage, while the blood of rebels spotted the streets and doorways as evidence of the desperation with which they fought before retiring.

That night the ranks of the rebels were swelled by loyal Maderists from the surrounding countryside, and they again forced their way to the heart of the city. Ten Federals, who were captured, were hanged on trees in the Plaza, and the bodies were still there at the last accounts. Rebels and Federals then had separate parts of the town. An armistice was arranged, but lack of confidence on both sides caused it soon to be broken.

Since then anarchy has ruled, and the fighting has been continuous. Dynamite is playing an important part in the work of destruction that is going on. Not a wall of the Jesuit Church has been left standing. Buildings that will lend themselves to fortification have been blown up for fear that the enemy might use them. Rapine and destruction are rampant. Even pianos and other furniture are chopped up with axes. Children, forced by hunger into the streets, are killed or wounded by stray bullets or caught in débris flying from discharges of dynamite. The dead in many instances have been left lying in streets into which no one dares to venture.

Mail advices tell of imminent danger to Torreon, Coahuila, and Tuxpam, Vera Cruz. The Federal forces are bottled up in both places. The Torreon people are not sure of conditions at Durango. For several days they thought the place was in the hands of the rebels, but the latest reports are that the Federals and rebels are locked in a last desperate struggle for the city.

Jojutla, Morelos, is in desperate straights following the rebel raid in that section. Foodstuffs are unobtainable at prices within reach of the common people.

The Villa del Refugio, Zacatecas, has been taken by rebels and mail burned and a rural carrier taken prisoner.

Jalisco rebels have invaded the territory of Tepic in two columns. The first was defeated by the Federals in a fight at Villa Hermosa, but the second has won an engagement at Amatian de las Canas in Topic. The latter victory has frightened the territorial capital. Gen. Ruiz, the Federal commander, has ordered hasty fortifications thrown up, and is preparing the city for a siege.

Women Leaders in Revolution.

Women have taken a spectacular part in the revolution. With the first outbreak in Puebla in November a woman of the family of Serdan made appeals to the people from the house tops amid flying bullets to join the small bands fighting within, and was wounded. Since then another sister, widow of the rebel leader Serdan, has suffered imprisonment. A few days ago she was freed on $15,000 bond.

In Guerrero Margarita Neri, a wealthy girl and land owner, furious over excessive taxes, placed herself at the head of 200 laborers two months ago. She is now said to command 1,000 men under Gen. Figueroa.

While he was under arrest last Fall one of Gen. Figueroa's most active agents was Maria Rendon, commonly known as La Bella Rendon. She has just joined that leader south of Cuernavaca, after conducting an active propaganda in Mexico City and other places.

The wife of Gen. Madero shared his prison cell in Monterey and San Luis Potosi and cooked his food, saying she feared he would be poisoned.

Diaz's Defiance Has Gained Friends.

A fear entertained by property holders and the more conservative class generally in Mexico, regardless of their political affiliations, is being realized by the events of Juarez. The Madero organization is naturally a loose one, and now his failure to control the military chiefs in his personal command is regarded as a certain indication that his control over the revolutionary leaders throughout the country is unstable.

Gen. Diaz has really gained friends by the manifesto of Sunday. Instead of the cringing resignation that was expected on so many sides came an implied determination that again turned the hero side of the old warrior to the public. On the other hand, the manifesto meets the rebel demands technically, although not in spirit. His half-way course bids fair to go down in the history of this revolt as a diplomatic victory of more importance than any feat of arms yet accomplished.

PEACE AGREEMENT DOUBTED.

MEXICO CITY, May 9.—While residents of the capital continued to-day to betray the keenest interest in developments at Juarez, their attention this afternoon was divided by the announcement that a tentative peace pact had been entered into by the Government and the rebels in the State of Guerrero. Prof. Francisco Figueroa, brother of Ambrosio Figueroa, ranking rebel leader in the south, who captured Iguala last week, to-day left the capital to tell his brother of his success in negotiating terms. Prof. Figueroa is confident that his brother and his followers will accept these terms.

The rebels under the agreement are to retain control of Iguala, and they will have a full share in the conduct of local affairs in their State, including the selection of a new Governor. On their part the rebels promise to disband and return home. They also agree that they will use all efforts to suppress brigandage.

The rebels do not consent to forsake the Madero movement, however, and reserve the right to fight in Madero's name, should he march southward and demand their services.

While this agreement appears not to count for much, inasmuch as the rebels do not promise to eliminate themselves entirely from the revolutionary movement, it is regarded as highly important in this part of the republic.

It was not without skepticism that the news of an agreement was received. The fiasco at Juarez has not served to make the public eager to accept, unquestioned, talk of peace in any quarter. It is pointed out that the man who conducted the negotiations is not one of the active participants in the field, although he declared he had the telegraphic approval of his brother, the fighter.

On all sides here to-day the situation was discussed as freely as in a political campaign in the United States. Partisans of the Government frankly argued on street corners with friends of the revolution, and none appeared to think of interference by the police, not even when men loudly proclaimed their belief in the justice of Madero's contentions.

FEAR ATTACK ON CAPITAL.

Merchants Ask Leave to Arm Themselves and Their Clerks.

BY STEPHEN BONSAL,
Special Correspondent of The New York Times.

Copyright, 1911, by The New York Times Co.

MEXICO CITY, May 9.—Merchants here, apprehensive that conditions may grow worse, held a special meeting in the Chamber of Commerce to-day.

They elected and sent a committee to the Ministry of War with a petition addressed to Gen. Cosio asking that they be permitted to arm themselves and their clerks so that they might successfully defend themselves and their places of business in case of attack. The members of the committee are all Mexicans, though there are foreigners in the chamber.

The Americans who, as reported to you several days ago, were beaten at Sangil turned out to be mining, not railroad, men. They are named Hamilton and Kruttschnitt. The latter is reported to be a son of the General Manager of the Harriman railroads. They own a mine at Arenos, near Aguas-calientes, and our Consular officer at that place reports that they were driven away from their property by insurgents, and that Mr. Hamilton was badly beaten and Mrs. Kruttschnitt grossly insulted.

The capital is greatly excited by the news from Juarez. The streets surge with news seekers and bulletin buyers, all very orderly.

Last night we went to bed informed on the highest authority that Juarez had fallen. This evening, however, the same authority would have us believe that it has fallen again. We may get more wary with time.

In Government circles here, the news of the day which is most industriously propagated is that Madero's Lieutenants have gotten beyond control.

This is very grave news, if true—the very worst that could come from Mexico. We have no reliable information on the subject here.

Revolutionists here claim that the renewal of the fighting was provoked by the taunting words of Federal officers and the feeling that the rebels had been duped by the first version of Diaz's manifesto that they received.

Great crowds were greedily reading this afternoon placards posted everywhere signed "Enrile," evidently a war name. In a placard entitled "Selling the Fatherland" the Maderistas are called upon to open their eyes. They are assured that if they will only do so they will see that they are the puppets of filibusterers, who have been employed by Wall Street to steal away the fatherland.

As some of my good colleagues are inclined to believe that what they do not see does not exist, I would say that I read the above to-day posted at the corner of San Felipe Neri and Bolivar Streets, in company with a large and interested but rather non-committal crowd.

ATTACK ON SALTILLO BEGUN.

LAREDO, Texas, May 9.—Passengers arriving to-day say that a serious fight has occurred between the Federals and revolutionists in the outskirts of Saltillo. A Federal Lieutenant and twenty-two soldiers were killed. The insurrecto loss is not known.

Another battle has occurred at Concepcion del Oro, about eighty miles from Saltillo. Information is that the Federal garrison, believed to number fifty men, was annihilated.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., May 9.—Hermosillo, capital of Sonora, is surrounded by several hundred Yaqui Indians, according to a report received to-day by courier.

The Yaquis left Haciendas along the Yaqui River several days ago to confer with Jose Mayterino, Provisional Governor of Sonora, who employes most of them on plantations. They did not find Mayterino in Hormosillo, but learned that the city was defended by only 300 Federal troops, commanded by Col. Pedro Ojeda. He led the Government forces during the first fight at Agua Prieta.

The Yaquis determined to besiege the town. A Southern Pacific train was held up and looted of 500 rifles and 20,000 rounds of ammunition. The Indians then surrounded the city. All telegraph wires were cut.

News of this activity was reported in a letter to the rebel junta, but was not believed until a courier reached Douglas to-day with details.

According to reports received to-day, Cananea, a big mining camp in Sonora, is about to be attacked by rebels. Jean Cabral, Frank Langston, and Juan Antonio Garcia are said to be nearing Cananea with 1,600 insurrectos. Only 150 Federals hold the town, but machine guns have been mounted on all advantageous points.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Consul Garrett, at Nuevo Laredo, just across the Rio Grande from Laredo, Texas, reported that the revolutionists, numbering 100, with recruits coming in daily, have established a camp about fifty miles south of that city.

Consul Haskell, at Salina Cruz, down in the southeastern tip of the republic, on the Pacific Ocean, telegraphed that the situation was worse in the vicinity of Tonala, which lies eighty miles eastward, in the State of Chiapas. A large force of revolutionists is operating there; one American plantation has been burned and other American property is threatened. The State Department promptly called upon the Mexican Foreign Office for protection to Americans in that part of Mexico.

REBELS TAKE TIJUANA.

Desperate Defense Made by Small Garrison in Lower California.

TIJUANA, Lower California, May 9.—Three companies of independent rebels, comprising 280 men, are encamped to-night in the buildings and streets of Tijuana. The town was taken by assault to-day, the battle lasting from 5:30 until 9:40 o'clock. At that hour resistance ceased.

Conservative estimates of the dead and wounded on both sides place the number at 75, but the exact figure may not be known for a day or two.

The assault was made by a company of eighty men. The rest of the rebel force held the passes to Tecate and to Ensenada, east and south of Tijuana. Out of about 100 men who were in Tijuana yesterday, guarding it against attack by the rebels, twelve made their way to the American side, where they surrendered to the United States troops. There are six bodies in the main street. Two of them are rebels. In the underbrush and behind rocks are more wounded and dead men. The wounded are brought in as fast as they are found and cared for by an American Red Cross party under the direction of Dr. James Jackson of San Diego, Cal.

The leader of the rebels, Gen. Sam Pryce, who succeeded to command when Capt. Woods was killed last night, planned and executed the attack.

UNITY IN WASHINGTON ON HANDS-OFF POLICY

NO POWER IS PRESSING US

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The accidental killing and wounding of Americans in El Paso during the heavy fighting in Juarez yesterday and to-day has not changed in the slightest the determination of the Administration and Congress not to send soldiers across the border. The situation was discussed at length at a meeting of the Cabinet this morning, and it is understood that complete agreement on this point exists among the Cabinet officers. At the same time, speeches in the Senate disapproving of a second jingo effort by Senator Stone of Missouri and a statement by Representative Sulzer, Chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, showed conclusively that the course of avoiding aggressive action meets with the indorsement of the lawmakers.

President Taft is determined that only two reasons shall have weight with him in asking Congress for authority for armed intervention—the wholesale and wanton slaughter of American citizens, or the demand from foreign Governments that their citizens be protected. As far as the first condition is concerned the Diaz Government and the revolutionist authorities seem to be vieing with each other to prevent it being ever realized. As to the second condition, it is becoming more and more apparent that, at least for the present, no foreign Government intends to assume the onus by asking us to commit what would be beyond question an act of war. Indeed, such care has been exercised by the two Mexican factions toward all foreigners that no power feels itself particularly aggrieved with the possible exception of Spain. It is not thought that Spain is prepared to ask the United States to assume responsibility for the protection of her citizens and their property in Mexico.

The President told callers to-day that so far no foreign Governments had suggested that the United States take action to protec American and oher foreign property. Italy merely asked several months ago what steps this Government would take to protect its own citizens in Mexico.

France, Germany, and England, the President understood, were handling the situation from their own viewpoint through their representatives in Mexico.

Another jingo speech by Senator Stone of Missouri this afternoon gave his colleagues in the upper house opportunity to declare unequivocally that no change has been brought about by the fighting at Juarez in the attitude forcibly expressed by Senators Root, Lodge, Cullom, and Bacon some weeks ago opposing all idea of intervention under present conditions.

The significance of the whole discussion, which lasted for about two hours, was the serious expression by Mr. Stone's Democratic colleagues, Mr. Bacon and Mr. Williams, and a brief statement from Senator Works of California, entirely disagreeing with the aggressive stand assumed by the Senator from Missouri.

"The Senator says that many Americans are being killed along the border," said Mr. Bacon, "and that is the lamentable fact. But has the Senator thought how many would be killed if we followed his suggestion and authorized the President to send our armies across the Rio Grande? Thousands of Americans are living within the confines of Mexico, and what is the accidental death of a few persons along the border—regrettable as those deaths are—in comparison to the fate that would meet the Americans surrounded in Mexico?

Mr. Works of California is known not to sympathize at all with the move of the Administration in sending troops to the frontier, which he interprets as an indirect aid to Gen. Diaz and against his progressive idea. He confined himself, however, to the simple statement that many Californians live in Mexico and that they would be greatly imperilled should we make a hostile move across the border.

These references to the disastrous results of intervention seemed to excite Mr. Stone.

"It seems to be the fear of war that holds these Senators in check while Americans are being killed," sneered Mr. Stone. "There was a time when Americans were made of sterner stuff, when protection would be accorded to a single American citizen, regardless of consequences. What would the Senator from Georgia suggest to the harrassed citizens of El Paso since he is opposed to defending them with our armies?"

"I would suggest," replied Mr. Bacon smiling, "that as due notice has been given of the coming battle the inhabitants might remove themselves out of the danger zone. A walk of fifteen minutes in the right direction would take them out of reach of bullets."

None of the Republican leaders or Senator Culberson of Texas permitted himself to be drawn into the discussion.

A statement issued to-day by the Mexican Embassy declares that tranquillity continues in the City of Mexico, and that great surprise is expressed there in rumors to the contrary. The statement in part says:

> All the ports, all the cities, all important towns and centres are under the control of the Government. The rebels have only secured some points of very secondary importance. In view of this fact it is well to caution the public against any alarm that might be caused by these misrepresentations, which can only be attributed to malice or ignorance on the part of those that furnish such wild reports.

SEEK MADERO'S BACKERS.

Private detectives, employed by agents of the Mexican Government, are at work in this city, it was learned yesterday, trying to ascertain the source of income that has been supplying Francisco I. Madero, the Mexican rebel leader, with funds to keep his forces clothed and armed. More than 200 detectives are employed in the work, it was said, and so eager is Mexico to establish the source of Madero's funds that a bonus has been offered to the detective obtaining this much desired information.

So far the detectives, who have scoured Wall Street and the financial district, have not obtained a single iota of evidence as to the origin of the funds, it was said. They have been at work for more than a month, yet recently a sum approximating $6,000,000 is believed to have passed into Madero's hands from San Antonio.

Gustavo Madero is said to have acted as agent here for the revolutionists, and a Mexican official now in this city said yesterday that news of Madero's activities had reached Mexico City when he tried and failed to obtain a loan from a banking firm here that does business in Mexico. The loan of $6,000,000, said this man, is believed to have been made in the West.

Manuel Esteva, the Mexican Vice Consul here, said last night that while the Consulate was not in charge of the investigation he knew that it was being conducted and had been informed that his Government suspected Gustavo Madero of obtaining the funds.

"It is a well-known fact that the Madero family have not invested a penny of their fortune in this war," said Mr. Esteva, "and yet the treasury of the rebels seems to be well filled. This money cannot be obtained in Mexico and the conclusion that it comes from the United States is obvious."

profits on the elevated third tracks with the city. In the company's proposal of Dec. 5 it proposed payment to the city for these third tracks of 2 per cent. of the estimated increase gross receipts at the express stations on the elevated lines so third-tracked. No concession is made either from the request for 999-year franchises for the third tracks on the elevated structures.

Further than this the offer does not modify the demand of the Interborough in its first proposal that the city guarantee it against loss on the operation of the Fourth Avenue (Brooklyn) subway, under a separate contract from the rest of the system, and that such a guarantee be given on any future extensions, including those to Coney Island and Fort Hamilton. These were points on which the company was urged by the city's transit conferrees to present some modification. The suggested modification of the Interborough's method of determining the net income on all extensions to which the city's conferrees have objected, is not conceded by the company.

The proposal to adopt the basis underlying the offer of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company constitutes one of the most interesting things about the new Interborough offer. As the Brooklyn Rapid Transit offer is in two parts, one relating to lines classed as "original lines," and the other relating to "extensions" as to which the company and the city might not agree, some doubt existed last night as to which branch of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit offer the Interborough referred. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit proposed, as to existing lines, to have all the receipts put into one pot, and then that it should receive, annually after operating expenses were paid, a sum as return for the elevated system which it turned over, equivalent to the net profits in the year before the commencement of operation of the enlarged system.

Last year such profits were approximately 6 per cent. on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit's investment in its elevated lines; the Interborough's net profits on its present Subway for the year ended June 30, 1910, were 17.2 per cent. on its investment in the Subway. The proposal which the Brooklyn Rapid Transit advanced as to possible future extensions as to which it did not agree with the city was that after setting off against the station receipts an operating factor based on the average cost of transporting a passenger on the entire system, it should receive, under guarantee, interest and sinking fund on its investment in the extensions, next that the city should receive interest and sinking fund on its investment, and the net profits be divided three-quarters to the city and one-quarter to the company.

As Col. Williams Views It.

After the Interborough offer came out Col. Timothy S. Williams, President of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit, issued a statement in which he referred to the Interborough's proposal to accept the Brooklyn Rapid Transit's terms, and said:

> The meaning of this is not at all clear. If, however, the Interborough Company proposes in lieu of the financial basis suggested in its offer of Dec. 5, 1910, which is renewed in the offer made public to-day, to pool the receipts from its entire system, present and extended, as the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company has offered to do with its system, it would seem to me that this fact should be set forth rather more clearly.
>
> If, on the other hand, the paragraph referred to means that the Interborough would adopt with respect to its proposed and present extensions the basis suggested by the Brooklyn company for such future extensions as it might undertake to operate at the direction of the city and without its own acquiescence, then the apparent generosity of the Interborough offer fades away.
>
> If I were to make any further comment on that section of the Interborough offer, I should say that its language was of the indefinite character that is so often employed to conceal a corporate gold brick. I do not care to discuss the Interborough's proposition in detail until I have had a chance to examine it. Indeed, it would seem to require the assistance of several Philadelphia lawyers to determine exactly what it does mean.

Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission and Chairman McAneny of the Board of Estimate said last night that they could not properly discuss the merits of the Interborough's offer while it was before them. They both requested, however, that it should be made clear that the proposal of the Interborough to take part of Broadway was not made in response to any request or suggestion from the city's transit conferrees, but was a move made by the Interborough entirely upon its own initiative.

The offer referred to certain legislation which would have to be obtained if the modifications of leases proposed by the company were to be put through. A statement issued last night by the Interborough Company brought out the fact that legislation was necessary in order to provide for both the proposed exchange of leases and the shortening of the terms of the existing leases. On this basis the Interborough urged action on its offer before the present Legislature adjourns.

THE INTEROROUGH OFFER.

Text of Amended Proposal Submitted to City Transit Conferrees.

The amended offer of the Interborough is addressed to Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission and Chairman McAneny of the Special Committee of the Board of Estimate. In full it reads:

In our letter of Dec. 5, 1910, to the Public Service Commission we submitted a comprehensive proposition for the construction of additional subway and elevated lines in four boroughs of the City of New York, which was intended to place at the disposition of the city the entire resources of the Interborough Company, relieve the city from the undivided burden of subway construction, and correspondingly release its credit to other purposes. Notwithstanding that this offer gave up so much that it left the company little margin for further concession, we have joined in a long series of conferences with the Public Service Commission and a committee of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, in which the entire subject of the rapid transit necessities of the city were again carefully reconsidered. As the result certain modifications have been proposed, which, after grave hesitation, we have decided to accept. But with these concessions made we can offer nothing more, because we have nothing left to give.

It is manifest that if after extending our lines largely at our own cost through the main arteries of travel, we should be met immediately with an unnecessary duplication of lines by the city the result would be our financial ruin. With this in view and for the express purpose of avoiding the need of duplicated lines, we have decided to extend our offer to cover other additional routes, so as to afford a service and a capacity equal to the growing needs of the population of this city for many years to come.

A misapprehension has long existed as to the immensity of the future profits possible to the Interborough Company if our offer of Dec. 5, 1910—to say nothing of the additions thereto we are now prepared to make—should be accepted by the city. The non-existence of excessive profits is absolutely demonstrated by all the statistics we have been able to collect, but in order to place a limit upon such profits should they develop we propose as hereinafter stated certain contractual limitations upon future profits.

How It Meets Objections.

It has been pressed upon us that if our future service should be unsatisfactory or inadequate, the non-terminable leases under which our present lines ar held will prevent the city from supplementing the deficiency save by an unnecessary expenditure of time and money. To meet this objection we propose, as hereinafter provided, when certain difficulties over which we have no control are eliminated, to make any portion of the old Subways subject to recapture by the city after a period of ten years.

It is objected that our proposed lay-out does not immediately reach the distant portions of all the boroughs. It is the only plan, however, which, while furnishing an operator at a single fare, makes feasible the construction in the near future of extensions to the undeveloped portions of the city, including the untouched territory of Staten Island, by releasing, to the extent of the $67,500,000 which we propose to contribute ourselves to subway construction, city credit which may hereafter be devoted to that purpose.

It has been objected that under the system of leases now in effect terminating at unequal periods, a virtual monopoly of subway construction and operation is conferred upon this company; because it is said the portion of the property which might be taken over under an earlier termination could not be efficiently operated without awaiting the falling in of some other essential part of the system. To meet this argument, we first proposed the synchronizing of all leases to a uniform term of fifty-five years from the date of placing the new extensions in operation. As the result of conferences prior to Dec. 5 ultimo we consented to reduce this period to forty-nine years.

It has been urged that the proposed elevated extensions in the Bronx should be built as extensions to the existing Subway, thus reducing the term of the lease from eighty-five to forty-nine years and subjecting these lines to the profit-sharing provisions of our general proposal. We have decided to yield this point and consent that they be thrown into the proposed enlarged subway system as an integral part thereof.

No Third-Tracking Concession.

It has also been urged that the third-tracking privileges on the elevated lines be likewise subjected to a profit-sharing arrangement. But inasmuch as the Interbrough Company is already contributing 60.70 per centum of its profits from the elevated lines to the payment of taxes, there manifestly remains no just ground for a profit-sharing arrangement here.

It has been pressed upon us that if the leases be synchronized, and if the new extensions should be taken over under the ten-year clause some privilege should be extended to the city after thirty-five years to take over the present subways as well, upon payment of a fixed compensation for the unexpired portion of the proposed forty-nine-year term. This demand requires a material concession upon the part of the Interborough Company, inasmuch as it is estimated that at that time, through the operation of the sinking fund, the city bonds issued for the original subway construction will be amortized and that the profits to the Interborough Company would be correspondingly enhanced. This option we have nevertheless decided to extend to the city upon terms much less favorable to the company than if it remained in the undisturbed possession of the present subway lines until the expiration of the forty-nine-year period.

Before formulating these changes in our current offer, which will then fully express our ultimate ability in the matter of subway construction, equipment, and operation, we will say, in response to an inquiry that has been made of us, that if the public authorities prefer an offer upon the basis of terms recently proposed to the city by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, the Interborough Company upon those terms will undertake to build any road in any of the five boroughs that the public authorities may designate, including one or more through lines to Coney Island and Staten Island, and operate them all in connection with its present subway system for a single five-cent fare.

Modifications in Detail.

Reverting now to our original offer, we propose the following modifications:

First—In our offer of Dec. 5 we proposed the construction of a four-track subway upon the lower west side of Manhattan and a four-track subway upon the upper east side, with a two and three track extension to Pelham Bay Park, thus affording the City of New York two direct north and south lines, one upon either side of Manhattan Island. We also proposed the extension of the elevated lines upon one side of the Bronx to Woodlawn Cemetery and upon the other side to within four blocks of the City of Mount Vernon. In Brooklyn we proposed the construction of new subways through Lafayette Avenue to Broadway and through Eastern Parkway to Buffalo Avenue—the Brooklyn system of subways to be connected with the Manhattan system by a new tunnel under the East River in the vicinity of Liberty Street. In addition to these lines, to be paid for in the proportions stated in our offer, the Interborough Company now proposes to build, and at its own cost equip and operate for a single five-cent fare in connection with its present subway system, the following lines, one-half of the construction cost of which to be paid by the city and one-half by the Interborough Company.

(a) A two-track subway commencing at Lafayette Avenue and Stuyvesant Avenue in Brooklyn; thence under Stuyvesant Avenue, private property, Bushwick Avenue, Metropolitan Avenue, North Seventh Street, by tunnel under the East River and Fourteenth Street, Manhattan, to Broadway; thence under Union Square and Broadway to Times Square; thence up Seventh Avenue to Fifty-ninth Street and easterly on Fifty-ninth Street to a connection with the Queensboro Bridge, omitting the two easterly blocks on Lafayette Avenue heretofore proposed as no longer necessary.

(b) A two-track elevated line in Queens, commencing at the Plaza of the Queensboro Bridge at Crescent Street; thence via Bridge Plaza, Jackson Avenue to Debevoise Avenue; thence northerly over Debevoise Avenue to Ditmars Avenue, Astoria; the northerly one mile of this structure to be three tracks.

(c) A two-track elevated line in Queens, commencing at the present terminal of the Belmont Tunnel, Van Alst Avenue and Fourth Street, northward under Hunter's Point Avenue; thence over the yards of the Long Island Railroad northward, curving into Davis Street; thence via Davis Street, Ely Avenue, Williams Street, such private property as may be necessary, to the Queensboro Bridge Plaza, and thence along the Queensboro Bridge Plaza to Jackson Avenue, and via Diagonal Street, Thomson Avenue, and Greenpoint Avenue to Woodside.

The Elevated Extensions.

Second.—We now propose to build the proposed Jerome Avenue elevated extension to the Ninth Avenue line north of 162d Street as an extension to the Subway, the term of the franchise being thereby reduced from eighty-five years to forty-nine years, the proposed consolidated expiration period for the entire Subway system, at the same time reserving trackage rights to the elevated roads. It is understood, however, that the proposed line between 194th Street and Woodlawn Road, encompassed as it is by the Jerome Park Reservoir upon the one side and the Woodlawn Cemetery upon the other, will be abandoned.

Third.—We also now propose to build the proposed White Plains elevated extension to the Third Avenue line north of Gun Hill Road and White Plains Road as an extension to the Subway, reserving trackage rights to the elevated road.

The modified additional routes herein proposed will increase the total cost of construction and equipment from $128,000,000, the original estimate, to $167,745,000, of which amount the cost of equipment, to be wholly borne by the Interborough Company, will be $31,965,000. The construction cost will be $135,780,000, of which amount $67,559,500 will likewise be borne by the Interborough Company, a total of $99,524,500 thus being contributed by this company.

Fourth.—In our original offer we proposed that for five years all of the net profits of the new extensions should go to the city, thereafter to be equally divided between the city and the Interborough Company. We now propose that all profits, as therein defined, ultimately distributable to the Interborough Company under this provision in excess of three per centum upon its investment in the construction and equipment of the proposed extensions shall first be applicable to meet any deficit that the city may be compelled to pay upon additional branch lines or extensions built under the omnibus clause of our original offer after applying to such deficit the profits received by the city from the original extensions.

Termination of Franchises.

Fifth.—Under the terms of our offer the periods of the termination of all subway franchises are to be synchronized at forty-nine years from the date of beginning complete operations of the new extensions. We propose, however, at any time after thirty-five years from that date, provided the city in the meantime shall have taken over the proposed extensions under the ten-year clause, to extend to the city the privilege of taking over the present Subway upon tendering to the Interborough Company a sum equal to the aggregate estimated profits of the company for the unexpired portion of the lease, estimated upon the basis of the average annual net profits of the property for the five-year period immediately preceding the time at which the city may hereunder accept said option, and upon otherwise complying with the terms of the lease.

Sixth.—If it can be legally carried out, provided the lien of any duly authorized mortgage be not disturbed, we will consent to modify the present leases with the city so that either the present East Side Subway, from Forty-second Street south to the Battery, or the present West Side Subway, from Times Square north, shall be held by the lessee under the ten-year re-caption clause, thus enabling the city to possess a through line upon either the east side or the west side, in exchange for an indeterminate lease of forty-nine years from the time of beginning complete operations upon, respectively, the proposed West Side Subway extension from Times Square to the Battery, or the proposed east side extensions from Forty-second Street north, reserving to those extensions trackage rights for the elevated lines over the White Plains and Jerome Avenue lines and the right to connect the southerly end of Lenox Avenue extension under the terms of Contract No. 1—the difference in value upon the exchange to be adjusted by agreement between the Interborough Company and the city, or, if they cannot agree, to be settled by arbitration upon terms and conditions to be agreed upon.

Financial Arrangements Made.

In conclusion, we invite your attention to the fact that we have long since made the necessary financial arrangements to carry out our several offers; that if they be accepted we are prepared to immediately and simultaneously begin construction upon all lines in all boroughs; to complete the construction within five years; to open up the lines for public use in sections as completed, in connection with the existing subways, and, when the entire system is completed, to operate it for the equal benefit of the inhabitants of all boroughs reached for a single five-cent fare. In advance of opening up the complete system we will construct and put in operation within two years the Jerome Avenue line, the White Plains Avenue line, the Astoria line, the Woodside line, and that portion of the new subway from Times Square to Pennsylvania Station, and complete the third-tracking upon the elevated system—thus giving the earliest possible relief from the present aggravated condition of traffic congestion. Our proposition likewise carries with it an offer to operate all other extensions which the city may hereafter build for a five-cent fare. It is, moreover, the only offer which will at once release to the city credit, which may be devoted to other public improvements, and leave available for similar purposes, as it hereafter accrues, all the additional debt margin of the city. Including the elevated improvements and the Belmont Tunnel it represents a construction cost to the Interborough Company of $88,478,500 and an equipment cost of $45,346,000, or a total contribution by that company of private capital in the amount of $133,824,500—or almost two dollars for each dollar invested by the city.

The necessity for additional legislation to render this offer fully effective indicates, that unless a year is to be lost, it must be acted upon before the Legislature adjourns.

Respectfully submitted,
INTERBOROUGH RAPID TRANSIT COMPANY,
By P. T. SHONTS, President.

An Extraordinary Sale of
Made-to-Measure Shirts
With Your Initial Embroidered on the Sleeve or Cuff of Each Shirt.
Special, Four for $10.00

At Seventy-nine Orange Street, Newark, I conduct a Shirt Factory. It is organized and equipped to produce shirts as high in character as head-and-hand can make them.

To your measure, I shall be pleased to make four shirts of imported fabrics, drafting a pattern and cutting the shirts to conform with your physical needs. Throughout the tailoring will be of the highest grade. On the sleeve or cuff of each shirt you may have your initial embroidered in one or two colors.

Now, then, should at any time the garments be other than entirely satisfactory in quality, in color, in size or service, before or after you shall have worn them, return the garments, and I shall refund the purchase price without quibble or controversy and with an apology.

Do you like your collar to set like this: || in front? Then, the LION ALCO. It will set closely, parallel. A patented knack will keep it set all through a strenuous day. Two heights in LION ALCO—Quarter sizes, two for a Quarter.

Interesting auto items for Women

Women's Auto Hats and Bonnets, 4.50 to 10.00

¶New and exclusive things for feminine wear in the Saks Auto Department. Notably hats and bonnets in a variety of fascinating colors and designs. There are auto bonnets of rafia cloth, damoiselle cloth, pongee and soft straws, to say nothing of tantalizing little creations in striped messaline and in Persian bordered silks, light as air and effective with that simplicity which is the chief attribute of a bonnet. Some with auto veils, some without.

¶And the auto hats are just too ineffably sweet for words. Made in various materials, with soft straw predominating, trimmed with cloths, messalines, silks or soft straw bows.

Women's Dusters, 4.00 to 25.00

¶Made of linen or pongee, and most reasonably priced. That you need one goes without saying. And with most people it goes without saying, that Saks' is the only place to get dusters or any other item of auto apparel.

A polo auto coat special for to-day at 25.00 that will be 32.50 tomorrow

¶Just the stunningest auto garment that ever woman wore. Made of white polo cloth, blanket border, kimono sleeves, deep cuffs, wind shields, patch pockets, and large pearl buttons. You will be perfectly crazy about it. It will put the average auto coat to shame.

Protection for your furs

One swallow does not make a summer, but one moth in your furs will make a summer colony! Better send for us at once and let us put your furs in the Saks' Cold Storage Vaults. They are the latest to be built and will insure the safety of your furs beyond peradventure. A few dollars now for storage is more economical than having to replace your furs when next winter comes round. Write or telephone today. Nominal charges; phenomenal protection.

MARINIS CONFRONTS CAMORRA'S BETRAYER

REPORT OF AUTOPSY READ

Cuocolo Died After 47 Dagger Thrusts; His Wife After 13—Triangular Nature of Wounds Solved.

VITERBO, May 9.—Although unable to appear at the morning session, Gennaro Abbatemaggio, the informer, took the witness stand again this afternoon at the trial of the members of the Camorra and was confronted by Gennaro de Marinis, who, like all the other prisoners, made a sweeping denial of the accusations against him. Abbatemaggio, however, was insistent and maintained his charges to the end.

"There is also a rod in pickle for you, Lawyer Lioy."

All the lawyers for the defense here entered a violent protest, accusing the President of the court of partiality to Abbatemaggio. To this the President responded with contempt:

"There never was an impartial lawyer."

Another of the attorneys shouted:

"The lawyers are not protected. If the present system continues we shall give up the case."

[The criminal record of Gennaro de Marinis, alias "o' Mandriere," (the cattle driver,) has already been detailed in these columns—two homicides, one assault with intent to kill, ten robberies, and extortions, minor assaults, and smaller crimes innumerable. In spite of the fact that fifteen indictments and twelve convictions stand in his name, the number of years he has passed in prison total less than five. He was for a short time under police surveillance, but sued the Judge who had caused his name to be placed on the list of "sorvegliati speciale" and recovered heavy damages.

Capt. Fabroni asserts that de Marinis is the most conspicuous proof he has of collusion between the police and judiciary of Naples, where the fate of a Camorrista was concerned.

Abbematemaggio's retort to de Marinis's lawyer will be understood when it is known that Alessandro Lioy of Naples has the reputation of being one of the most successful Camorra lawyers of that city, one who had several times successfully defended de Marinis there or was instrumental in securing light sentences for serious offenses]

The confrontation seemed to have little to do with the murder of Cuocolo and his wife, the passages between the men being largely devoted to a denunciation of their respective characters and the character of their relatives. Abbatemaggio accused de Marinis of having engaged in the white slave traffic, while de Marinis retorted that Abbatemaggio's mother and sister were of evil repute. The exchanges became so violent and personal that the President cleared the courtroom and the sitting continued behind closed doors.

In the absence of Abbatemaggio during the morning, the session was taken up with a reading of the opinions of medical experts who examined the bodies of Cuocolo and his wife.

The experts found forty-seven wounds on the body of Cuocolo and thirteen on that of his wife. Death was due to dagger thrusts delivered in such manner as to leave triangular scars. Abbatemaggio has testified that the greater number of the knife blows were inflicted on Cuocolo by Corrado Sortino.

The physicians expressed the opinion that if this were true Sortino's clothing need not necessarily have been covered with blood and that he might have gone from the scene of the assassination of Cuocolo at Torre del Greco to Naples without attracting particular attention.

This testimony appeared to make a great impression upon those in the courtroom.

proposition," continued Mr. Koenig, "that we havs the assurance that Mr. Woodward would be re-elected in September. The Senator got his great power on the telephone and then told us that he would have to go up and see him. I was told personally that several of the Old Guard leaders would not stand for Woodward. Newcomb failed to make good. We adjourned last week's meeting, and then twenty-three of the leaders met and indorsed me. Then the Old Guard men back of the Senator were willing to take anybody—that is, anybody but Koenig.

"I regret to see a man of the Senator's high standing attempting to make a deal. His high-sounding professions sound very well, but I move to lay his amendment on the table, for it is not an amendment, but a substitute."

A long parliamentary wrangle followed. Mr. Woodward finally ruled that the Senator's motion was a substitute, and should be voted on separately. The first rollcall was taken, and the Senator's motion was defeated by a vote of 334 to 261. It was the real test of the strength of the two factions.

The following districts produced split delegations: Seventh, Ninth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-first, Twenty-third, Twenty-sixth, Thirty-first, Thirty-third, and Thirty-fourth. The following districts voted solid for the Newcomb amendment: Third, Fifth, Thirteenth, Fifteenth, Thirtieth, and Thirty-second, south. The first defection from the Old Guard ranks to the Koenig forces was the vote of Albert Ferguson, a delegate from Mr. Halpin's district. His vote was greeted with loud cheers. Edward Lauterbach's vote for the Newcomb amendment was also greeted with cheers.

Julius Mayer put Mr. Koenig in nomination. He said he had faith in the man and believed he would be Chairman of the whole committee.

Otto T. Bannard, Dr. Frederick L. Marshall, and Frederic C. Tanner seconded Mr. Koenig's nomination.

"This committee evidently wants to see if a new way is not better than the old way," began Mr. Lauterbach in nominating Senator Newcomb. "Only a few years ago we had fifteen members of the Assembly and a proper quota of representatives in the State Senate and in Congress. In Washington to-day we have only one Republican Congressman from New York City. Something should be done to change this, and here we have a fight which is stirring the very foundation of our organization."

Ex-Congressman Bennet and Mr. Strasbourger seconded Mr. Newcomb's nomination.

The changes in the vote on the second rollcall were in the Twenty-first, Twenty-sixth, and Thirty-third Districts. In the first one of the noes switched over to Mr. Koenig, in the second the same thing happened, and in the third two of the noes failed to vote.

The Executive Committee met at county headquarters in West Thirty-ninth Street and elected Mr. Koenig Chairman of it. This office always goes with the Presidency. Last night's fight was presaged at that time, the thirteen Old Guard leaders walking out of the meeting.

CAPE TOWN PRINTERS OUT.

Newspapers Appear as Leaflets—Long Struggle Is Expected.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 10.—A Cape Town dispatch to The Daily Mail says the printers' strike is now extending through all the printing houses in the city.

The master printers are cordially supporting the attitude of The Cape Times in refusing to accept the dictation of the typographical union and employ only union men.

The morning newspapers yesterday appeared in the form of short leaflets stating the causes of the strike, but giving no other news. Even these leaflets were printed with great difficulty by members of the editorial and managerial staffs. The Cape Argus was issued at midday, the men immediately afterward going on strike.

The newspapers are now collaborating. Each journal is to appear on alternate days, but there are extraordinary difficulties owing to the almost complete lack of non-union printers. Only the barest news can be published, the matter being set in small lots of half a column or so at nine or ten different offices.

The whole of the general printing trade is paralyzed, and no Government work is being done. The majority of the newspaper employes resent the strike as unnecessary, but nevertheless are determined to continue it.

A long and bitter struggle is anticipated.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Low barometric pressure over the north plains States has caused south winds and a decided rise in temperature throughout the Middle West and the South, where the warmest weather of the season prevailed Tuesday, the highest temperature being 96 degrees at Pierre and Huron, S. D. Decidedly cooler weather is reported from the Rocky Mountain region, under the influence of an area of high barometric pressure that is moving eastward from the Pacific Ocean.

There have been scattered rains within the last twenty-four hours in the Atlantic States from Virginia to Massachusetts and in the Ohio Valley.

The indications are that the weather will be generally fair Wednesday and Thursday over the East and South, where temperatures will continue high, followed by a change to cooler weather Thursday.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate southwest and west; Middle Atlantic Coast, light, variable; South Atlantic Coast, light, variable, mostly west.

Steamships departing Wednesday for European ports will have moderate, variable winds and overcast weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair Wednesday and probably Thursday; moderate west winds, becoming variable.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Probably fair Wednesday and Thursday; continued warm; light to moderate variable winds.

New England—Fair in interior, unsettled and somewhat warmer on the coast, Wednesday. Thursday, probably fair; moderate south and west winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

8 A. M.	56	51	4 P. M.	69	59
6 A. M.	57	50	6 P. M.	70	57
9 A. M.	58	56	9 P. M.	64	62
12 M.	63	62	12 P. M.	68	58

This thermometer is 108 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 56; for the corresponding date last year it was 63; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 57.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 54; at 8 P. M. it was 60. Maximum temperature, 63 degrees, at 11:45 A. M.; minimum, 50 degrees, at 5:30 A. M. Humidity, 80 per cent., at 8 A. M.; 65 per cent., at 8 P. M.

CHINA AUTHORIZES $30,000,000 LOAN

Agreement with American, British, French, and German Financiers Approved.

NEW PREMIER IS LIKELY

Cabinet and Throne to be Jointly Responsible to the National Assembly—Anti-Opium Edict.

PEKING, May 9.—An imperial edict issued to-day authorizes the conclusion of the loan of $30,000,000 for railroad construction in Central China. The loan was signed a year ago, despite provincial opposition, by groups of financiers representing the United States, France, Great Britain, and Germany. The amount of the loan to the Chinese Government remains at $30,000,000, notwithstanding the elimination of a branch section of the railroad, and the four groups of bankers will participate.

Another edict exhorts the Viceroys to abolish the production of opium expeditiously, Great Britain having consented, by the Anglo-Chinese agreement signed yesterday, to reduce the exportation of Indian opium to China as rapidly as the home growth is exterminated. The anti-opium societies are most active, and as the country has been aroused, it is believed that the Government will succeed in abolishing the production of the poppy within a few years.

The important edicts of to-day and the one of yesterday, which abolished the Grand Council, substituting for it a constitutional Cabinet of ten members, indicate that the Government is assuming a responsibility which it has heretofore lacked and that the evidences of a revolutionary spirit and the Assembly's unabated hostility have forced the Government to lead or be led.

It is believed that the appointment of Prince Ching as Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs in the new constitutional Cabinet is only temporary and that the Prince will be superseded as soon as the Assembly reconvenes, that body having warred relentlessly against his ancient methods.

The administrative regulations now promulgated make the Cabinet jointly responsible with the Throne to the National Assembly. It is believed that the Government has greatly strengthened itself, and it is already showing self-confidence and determination.

Credit Men to Meet.

Plans for the sixteenth annual convention of the National Association of Credit Men at Minneapolis, June 13, 14, 15, and 16, were completed yesterday at the general offices of the organization, 41 Park Row. A representative gathering of the 14,000 credit men throughout the United States is expected.

FAMINE IN LABRADOR.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 settlers on the Labrador coast are suffering severely from food shortage and the effects of a severe Winter, according to advices received yesterday by the Grenfell Association of America. The news came in a telegram from Dr. John Grieve to Dr. W. T. Grenfell, the missionary and explorer and head of the Grenfell Association. The telegram, dated Battle Harbor, Labrador, April 29, read:

Dr. Grieve is one of the missionary doctors in charge of the hospital at Battle Harbor. Every Winter he makes a trip of from 1,200 to 1,500 miles along the coast, and it is assumed that he has reported on the conditions he found as soon as possible after returning to Battle Harbor.

In response the Grenfell Association is sending $500 to St. John's, Newfoundland, where supplies will be purchased for forwarding to Battle Harbor by volunteer doctors who are starting at once for the scene. The relief party consists of Dr. and Mrs. Hugh P. Greeley, who are going to Green Bay, and Dr. Harrison, B. Webster, who will proceed to Battle Harbor.

All reports from the mission field are that dry flour is the only means of subsistence the settlers have had for some time, and that their clothing supplies are short.

Jacob H. Schiff Off to Europe To-day.

Jacob H. Schiff sails to-day on the Lusitania for his annual vacation trip in Europe. He is not expected to return until late in the Summer.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

RIO JANEIRO, May 9.—President Fonseca's nomination of Domicio da Gama, now Minister to Argentina, as Ambassador at Washington, has been held up in the Senate by the opposition of Senator Ruy Barbosa, who suggests three candidates, favored by him in the following order: Manoel de Oliveira Lima, Minister to Belgium; Dr. J. F. de Assis Brazil, ex-Minister at Washington, and David Campista, Minister to Russia.

PARIS, May 9.—Albin Hallar and Henry Le Chatelier were to-day chosen by the Academy of Sciences to represent the French Government at the eighth International Congress of Applied Chemistry, which is to be held at Washington in September, 1912.

Smith Gray & Co.

Foremost Clothiers Since 1845

The tailoring of fine clothes is an art, acquired only after years of hard study under able masters.

For upwards of sixty years the Smith Gray & Co. tailoring organization has enjoyed the continuous supervision of masters, and the impress of their training, coupled with the cumulative experience of all these years, is indelibly stamped on every Smith Gray & Co. garment.

Smith Gray & Co. clothes are the fine tailoring standard for all fine ready-for-service garments—the prices range consistently from 18.00 to 50.00.

SEVERAL THOUSAND
regular 20.00 to 25.00 values

Spring Suits and Coats
15.50 & 18.50

Every garment is a regular stock Smith Gray & Co. garment—tailored, designed, styled and trimmed exactly the same as though the regular full prices were to be asked. These garments are specially priced with but one purpose in mind—that the knowledge of the goodness and general superiority of Smith Gray & Co. quality may be more widely disseminated, and, in consequence, the number of wearers increased, our experience of sixty-six years having proven that once the quality is known a permanent patron results. Included at both prices are all good style fabrics, shades, designs and models, in sizes for men, young men and boys.

TWO WONDERFUL
Blue Serge Suit Values

22.50 Standard Value Blue Serge Suits...... 15.50
25.00 Standard Value Blue Serge Suits...... 18.50

These two wonderful values result from an extraordinary combination of conditions. The fabrics were bought direct from the mill, much under-price; the tailoring was done in odd moments as keep-busy work and then marked special in order that we may sell thousands instead of hundreds—that is why these blue serge suits are now priced 15.50 and 18.50 instead of 22.50 and 25.00. The fabrics, tailoring, trimming and style are the equal of any to be found in 22.50 or 25.00 blue serge suits. Included are six distinctive models, in all sizes, for men and young men.

Everwear Hosiery is Always Good News

There's much in starting the day right. There's nothing so irritating to mind and body as hosiery that is patched and darned. Everwear always has a pleasant feeling. It starts you off in the morning with comfort and carries you through the day without reminding you of hosiery torture at every step. This Standard American Hosiery has actually abolished the necessity for darning. Your first box will prove this to your satisfaction.

TO REVIVE RACING IF LAW IS AMENDED

Bills Put In Exempting Track Directors from Liability if Arrests for Betting Are Made.

ALSO TO DEFINE BOOKMAKING

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 9.—With a view of correcting what R. T. Wilson, Jr., termed the ambiguities in the law prohibiting gambling, two bills were introduced by Senator Gittins of Niagara to-day amending the race track legislation which was passed last year in the face of the strong opposition of the race track interests. The laws of last year supplemented the Agnew-Hart anti-gambling laws, which put an end to legalized betting on race tracks, holding directors of race tracks liable for violations of the gambling law and prohibiting bookmaking, whether written or oral.

The bills introduced to-day, Mr. Wilson explained, would permit the race tracks of the State to reopen. One of the amendments modifies the responsibility of directors for bookmaking or gambling that may take place on race tracks. The prohibition against the keeping of gaming establishments is made to apply to places "to be used" for gambling, instead of to places "used" for such purposes. A race track is not kept as a gambling establishment, but it may be used as such. The other amendment defines "bookmaking without writing," which is meant to apply to laying or publishing of odds to all comers or to the public in a professional way and not to the friendly bet.

"Racing will not be resumed in this State until the directors of race tracks know their rights and liabilities," Mr. Wilson said to-night.

"We have asked that the Legislature amend the law by eliminating the amendment of last year leaving the officers and directors of racing associations precisely in the same position as the directors of any other corporation, liable for the crimes which they aid or abet, or which are committed with their knowledge and consent. This is merely an effort on our part to protect ourselves against unwarranted arrests and expensive litigation resulting from an ambiguous statute.

"Bookmaking without writing is a new term. We simply ask that the Legislature shall define what it really means."

The Rev. O. R. Miller of the Civic League of New York, who took an active part in the campaign for the passage of last year's laws, said that both bills introduced to-day embody points raised during the last session of the Legislature.

"I am not in favor of any change in the gambling laws," Mr. Miller said to-night. "But it seems to me the fairest amendment would be to have the race tracks policed by officers appointed by some State authority, and not by those in the employ of the racing associations."

Mr. Wilson, who is President of the Saratoga Racing Association, said that if the Gittins bills were passed there would be racing in Saratoga this Summer, and that there would be Fall meetings on the tracks near New York.

BANK DEPARTMENT INQUIRY.

State Senate Asked to Appropriate $50,000 for the Work.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 9.—A legislative investigation of the State Banking Department is provided for in a resolution introduced to-night by Senator Black of Brooklyn. In the preamble reference is made to published reports criticising the course of the department in relation to the Carnegie Trust Company, the charge being made that the institution was allowed to do business after it was known to be insolvent. The banking department's actions in reference to other financial institutions are included within the scope of Senator Black's resolution. Provision is made for an appropriation of $50,000 to meet the expenses of the committee.

Members of the Legislature do not treat the resolution seriously, as they declare that an open investigation of the banking department would cause a serious and unwarranted disturbance in banking circles. Gov. Dix declared yesterday that an investigation would be conducted by the new Banking Superintendent as soon as he assumed office.

Orion H. Cheney, State Superintendent of Banks, whose tenure of office would have expired yesterday had the State Senate confirmed the nomination of George C. Van Tuyl for that office, returned last night from Albany without having submitted a report to Gov. Dix concerning his management of the Banking Department since December of 1909. This report was demanded by Gov. Dix nearly two months ago, following the early disclosures of irregularities in the Carnegie Trust Company and the Northern Bank.

CORPORATION MEN INDICTED.

Executive Committee of United Contractors Charged with Conspiracy.

Indictments against the members of the Executive Committee of the United Contractors' Corporation, charging them with conspiracy, were handed to Supreme Court Justice Francis J. Swayze in Jersey City yesterday by the Hudson County Grand Jury. The charge grows out of the guaranteeing of bonds of the Terra Marine Company a coporation that started a realty boom in Staten Island. Investors in Jersey City, Hoboken, and Newark bought about $500,000 worth of the bonds. It is said these purchasers will be lucky if they realize one-fifth of their investment.

The indicted men are Lawrence R. Kerr, Treasurer of the United Contractors Corporation of New York; Hugh H. Janeway, Vice President, who had charge of the company's office at 15 Exchange Place, Jersey City; Winfield E. Hinsdale, President, of New York; Frank D. Ames of New York, George P. Stewart of New York, and George J. Kirstein, Secretary of the company, of Jersey City. The charge of conspiracy is based on the charge that the United Contractors Corporation, for the purpose of guaranteeing bonds of the Terra Marine and other companies in which it was interested, overstated its assets.

About $2,500,000 in bonds, all told, were guaranteed, and the purchasers stand to lose about $2,000,000. Vice President Janeway and Secretary Kirstein appeared in the Hudson County Criminal Court yesterday afternoon and were admitted to bail. George P. Stewart is under arrest in Manhattan awaiting extradition to New Jersey.

CALLS JAPANESE UPSTARTS.

Russian Minister Comes to Fur Seal Convention to Represent Czar.

Among the passengers arriving yesterday from Europe on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. was Pierre Botkine, Russian Minister to Morocco, who has been sent to America as Special Commissioner to the fur seal convention, which is to be held at Washington to-morrow. He was accompanied by two aids, Sergius Brajnikoff and Baron Boris Nolde.

In an interview with the reporters on the deck of the liner the Commissioner, who spoke in German, appeared to be irritated against the Japanese for their assertion of the same seal hunting rights in the North Pacific as the Russians and called them "upstarts," using the German word, "Emporkömmling."

"I have been sent here by the Russian Government," said he, "with my two aids to represent my country at the convention which is to be held in Washington to settle the question of seal hunting in the North Pacific along the coast of Eastern Siberia. The Fur Seal Convention, as it is called, will be held on Thursday at Washington, and Russia, Japan, and England have sent delegates. England, with the exception of a few small islands over which she has a suzerainty, has very small interests, and will remain neutral, leaving the issue to be decided by the United States as arbitrator between Russia and Japan.

"Long before Japan was heard of," Mr. Botkine went on to say, "Russia was there and held the right to hunt seals along the eastern Siberian coast. Japan's assertion of the same rights there as Russia was one of the causes of the late war. Who ever heard of Japan twenty years ago?" he said interrogatively to the reporters. "Can you imagine them putting in such a demand? What are they, but upstarts?"

INSURGENTS BLOCK TAMMANY

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 9.—A fresh outbreak of insurgency in the Assembly to-day prevented Majority Leader Alfred E. Smith from pressing to final passage the bill introduced by Assemblyman Jackson of Buffalo which would make out of that city a separate county, known as the County of Buffalo, and out of the rural sections surrounding, which at present with it make up the County of Erie, another county, which would retain the old name.

The defeat followed quickly the successful attempt on the part of Mr. Smith to postpone final consideration of the Bronx County bill, which was up on the order of third reading as a special order on to-day's calendar. The effect of the bill was nullified by an amendment referring the proposition to a referendum vote in Erie County.

SUFFRAGISTS FAIL IN ALBANY QUEST

March, Forty Strong, Up the Hill to the Capitol, and Then March Down Again.

COMMITTEE COLD TO THEM

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 9.—Woman suffrage advocates stormed the State Capitol again to-day in the hope that the Legislature, weary with the exactions of a trying session, would capitulate and concede enough to warrant the assertion that some progress in giving votes to women actually had been made this year. But woman suffrage stands to-day just where it did a year ago, so far as this State is concerned.

The committees of both houses refuse to report favorably or otherwise on the suffrage bills which have been before the Legislature since the first week in January. There was no hearing on the merits of woman suffrage to-day. The committee closed the hearing several weeks ago, but failure to act formally in committee on all the measures gave the suffrage adherents an opportunity for a final public demonstration in Albany before adjournment.

Forty or more aggressive suffragists arrived at the Capitol shortly after noon. They had marched with banners from the railroad station. They braved cameras at every corner and showed no signs of timidity when halted before the Assembly doors. Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch was in charge of the delegation. It represented members of the Woman Suffrage Association, the Political Equity Club, and the Equal Franchise Society.

Mrs. Blatch explained that the delegation was formed as a result of the recent mass meeting in New York, and that it was charged with the duty of presenting to the Legislature the resolutions "adopted from sixteen platforms." These resolutions urged favorable action on the suffrage bills before both houses. Accompanying Mrs. Blatch were Miss Alberta Hill, Miss Lexow, Mrs. Henry W. Hordon, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, Miss Foote, Mrs. A. C. Hughson, Mrs. Egerton Winthrop, Jr., Mrs. Frank Stratton, Miss Ida Croft, Mrs. W. Watson Brown, and Miss Ingersoll.

The banners were temporarily abandoned in the lobby, at the request of the sergeant at arms, and the suffragettes marched into the Assembly Chamber, being ushered to seats by Assemblyman Spielberg.

After the legislative session the resolutions of the suffragists were submitted to Speaker Frisbie, at the head of the Rules Committee.

Mrs. Blatch, accompanied by the Misses Hill and Lexow, visited the Senate while it was in session.

Senator Timothy D. Sullivan was the first member of the upper House interviewed by the committee.

"We want you to help us," Mrs. Blatch said to the Bowery leader.

"Sure," he replied, "I'm with you," and his words were accompanied by a broad smile.

Senator Bayne, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee in charge of the bill, then came along.

"Here is just the man you want," said Senator Sullivan, pointing to Senator Bayne. "He can report your bill."

"That is going too far," Senator Bayne quickly replied. "Your bill has received respectful consideration, and I shall not listen to criticism of this character again of any member of the committee of which I am Chairman."

The objectionable criticism was withdrawn, and Mrs. Blatch requested the privilege of appearing at the next meeting of the Judiciary Committee to present the resolution adopted. When the committee met later in the day the resolution was presented, but Senator Bayne said that other matters of more importance would take up the committee's time for the day.

BEQUESTS FOR CHARITIES.

Samuel Hall Remembers Many Institutions in His Will.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 9.—Many charitable institutions inherit large sums under the will of the late Samuel Hall, a New Yorker, who died at Milton Point, leaving an estate estimated to be worth more than $1,000,000. Among the bequests are $1,000 each to the Industrial Christian Alliance, 170 Bleecker Street, New York; The Washington College of Tennessee, the Five Points House of Industry of New York, the Presbyterian Hospital of New York, Presbyterian Home for Aged Women of New York, and to the Tuskegee Institute of Tuskegee, Ala.; $5,000 to the Board of Missions for the Freemen of the Presbyterian Church, and $10,000 to the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church of New York, and $10,000 to the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church.

The mansion on Milton Point, as well as all the real property of the decedent, is left to Margaret Eliza Hall, widow of the testator's son. The residuary estate is bequeathed to Mrs. Hall and five nieces, Jane Hall Stewart, Margaret Stewart Smith, Georgianna Wessells, Mary Frances Clark, and Sarah Hulda Purser.

ODD DIVISION OF EFFECTS.

Artist Fenn's Children to Choose Household Goods in Rotation.

The will of Harry Fenn, the artist, of Montclair, N. J., which was filed for probate in the Surrogate's office yesterday in Newark, makes a rather unusual form of distribution of household effects.

The artist's five children are to choose the household articles, one at a time, in rotation until all are taken. In this choice relative values are not to count. Alice Fenn Coffin, B. Florence Fenn Brooks, Hilda Fenn Van Anterp, Lillian Fenn, and Walter Fenn are to choose in that order.

The will gives to each of the married daughter, $250. Lillian Fenn is to have the painting, "The Lone Land," and the son, Walter, the picture, "May Day in the Surrey Hills." The balance of the estate is to be divided into two parts and held in trust for the two unmarried children. Mr. Fenn died on April 22.

PASS ELEVENTH AVE. BILL.

Hint of New York Central's Influence Made on Assembly Floor.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 9.—By a vote of 100 to 17 the Assembly to-night passed the Boylan bill, which provides that unless the New York Central and the City of New York arrange some terms for the removal of the railroad tracks from Eleventh Avenue on or before June 1, the right of the company to operate a steam railroad through that thoroughfare shall be repealed. The bill has already passed the Senate, where it was introduced by Senator McManus.

When the Senate bill was handed down to-day in the lower house, Assemblyman Boylan moved that it be substituted on the Assembly calendar for his own bill, which is identical. The concurrence in the McManus bill by the lower house would have disposed of the matter as far as the Legislature is concerned, and the bill could have gone at once to the Governor for his approval. Assemblyman Hammond (Rep.) of Onondaga objected, and as one objection is sufficient, this made it necessary to place the Boylan bill on final passage, entailing delay in the progress of the bill.

"I would like to know," asked Mr. Boylan, "if the opposition is due to the fact that an emissary of the New York Central has been traveling about the corridors and chamber all day?"

There was no answer.

After some more technical objections had been interposed by the Republicans the Boylan bill was put on final passage.

STEEL MEN'S POWER SHOWN IN BILLIONS

MORGAN GROUP INCLUDED

Chart Presented to Inter-State Commerce Commission Examiner to Uphold Rate Discrimination Charge.

In an effort to show the vast influence exerted by the United States Steel Corporation and the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. in the railroad and industrial affairs of the Nation the Alpha Portland Cement Company placed before the Inter-State Commerce Commission's special examiner yesterday a chart purporting to show that the total capitalization of the companies and corporations on whose Boards of Directors the Steel Trust and J. P. Morgan & Co. Directors appear, amounts to $15,857,629,339. The chart also shows that the total gross income of the companies is $4,640,508,502.

The document is the first complete compilation, of the kind, so far as Special Examiner Mackley of the commission knows, which has ever figured in litigation. Certainly, says Examiner Mackley, it is the first time the public has had a chance to see the vast ramifications of the Steel Corporation and the Morgan firm.

The chart was played as one of the trump cards in the Alpha Company's fight to have freight rates on cement and cement materials straightened out by the Inter-State Commerce Commission. The Alpha Company charges that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and other roads have discriminated against the Alpha in the matter of freight rates in favor of the Universal Portland Cement Company of Pittsburg, which is owned by the United States Steel Corporation, and that the Steel influence is responsible for the discrimination. Some 160 defendants are named in the complaint. The case is being heard by Special Examiner Mackley in Room 815 of the Custom House.

Louis H. Porter, counsel for the Alpha Company, explained yesterday that it had taken an expert statistician a long time to trace the Steel Corporation and J. P. Morgan & Co. influences in the many other companies, but that the work was as thorough as a careful and skilled statistician could make it.

The chart showed that the total capitalization of the companies, exclusive of the United States Steel Corporation itself, in which the Steel Trust and J. P. Morgan & Co. Directors were officers or directors, amounted to $14,388,975,728, with an income of $3,936,547,078. The capitalization of the Steel Trust and its subsidiaries was given as $1,468,653,611. The income of the Steel Trust and its subsidiaries was given as $703,961,424.

The Alpha Company's statistician says that in the case of carriers and manufacturing companies he used the aggregate par value of bonds and stocks outstanding. In the case of the banking institutions he used the stock, surplus, undivided profits and deposits. In the case of insurance companies he used the total admitted assets. He says, too, that where income is referred to it is meant the gross income from all sources in the case of carriers and manufacturing companies. In the case of banking institutions he arrived at his figures by computing the loans, discounts, and overdrafts in the National banks, total earnings in the savings banks and loaned on collateral, &c., in the trust companies. In order to avoid any duplication the statistician says that where the name of a company appeared a second time in the chart no figures were placed opposite and that where the entire capital stock is owned by another corporation appearing in the lists the stock was eliminated from the statistics of the subsidiary company. He says, too, that where stocks are owned and pledged by another company for its own bonds, the amount so pledged was eliminated from the statistics of the company issuing such stock.

When the hearing of the Alpha company's charges was resumed in the Custom House yesterday, H. H. Smith of Detroit, attorney for several of the cement companies of Michigan, asked permission to join in the action. He said his clients were opposed to the Eastern cement companies, such as the Alpha, the Atlas, the Edison, and others having any reduction in freight rates.

"The Eastern men are now getting better freight rates than we are," said Mr. Smith. "They are paying not more than three mills on the Lehigh Valley, while we are paying one cent freight per ton per mile."

Mr. Smith was told that he could not join the action, but that he could file a statement which will be submitted to the Inter-State Commerce Commission in Washington.

For the defense the Baltimore & Ohio lawyers called Harry Lewis, chief rate clerk of the General Traffic Manager's office. Mr. Lewis testified that a reduction averaging 20 cents a ton was given to the Alpha Company in West Virginia and Pennsylvania territory not long ago, following a conference between the Alpha's President, Mr. Gerstell, and officials of the Baltimore & Ohio. Shippers in the West complained, said Mr. Lewis, and no further reductions were given the Alpha. To have done so, he added, would have complicated all the rates in the General Freight Association classification territory.

"What other factor interfered at that time?" asked W. A. Parker of counsel for the Baltimore & Ohio.

"The Inter-State Commerce Commission," said Mr. Lewis.

"Why?"

"The fourth section of the Inter-State act tended to put traffic men up in the air so far as changing rates was concerned."

"In what way?"

"The long and short haul."

Mr. Lewis explained that his road was prohibited from charging more for a short haul than the proportionate rate for a long haul.

E. G. Gray of Pittsburg, general freight agent of the Baltimore & Ohio west of Pittsburg, testified for the defense that the rate in the Central Freight Association territory was fixed on a basis of 73 1-3 per cent. of the sixth-rate class. This was a compromise, he said, and was adopted to bring harmony, although most of the shippers wanted a lower tariff. This, he explained, is the lowest class of the classified tariffs. The adjustment meant a rise of about 15 per cent. a ton for the Alpha Company from Manheim, West Va., where its plant is located, to Western points.

The hearing will be resumed to-day.

McMAHON HELD FOR MURDER.

Had Been Exonerated by Coroner for Slaying Daughter's Admirer.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Frank McMahon, a saloon keeper, who shot and killed George Leary, a wealthy real estate operator, near the latter's home in West Philadelphia on last Thursday night because, he declared, Leary had wronged his daughter, was to-day committed to prison without bail after a brief hearing before a Magistrate. He had been rearrested on an affidavit sworn to by a member of the dead man's family after being discharged by the Coroner. The latter official, after the inquest, stated that McMahon was justified in shooting Leary and instructed the jury to bring in a verdict exonerating him on the ground of "self-defense."

A number of letters from Miss McMahon, who is 22 years of age, to Leary, who was 53 years of age, have been made public by the latter's family since the tragedy.

It was announced that Leary in his will had made liberal provision for the girl. The estate is valued at between $100,000 and $250,000.

Dismisses Man Whose Pay Is Held Up.

Controller Prendergast removed John Cooper, a Deputy City Paymaster, yesterday on learning that he meditated suing him personally for his salary, which has been held up for several months. Cooper was appointed to succeed Peter J. Garvey soon after the Controller came into office. Garvey took the matter to the courts and won the first step in his fight for reinstatement. The Controller held up Cooper's salary until the case should be finally decided. Recently he learned that Cooper planned suing him personally for the salary if Garvey should be reinstated.

Business Science League Meets.

The annual Ladies' Night of the Business Science Club was held last night at the regular May meeting in the rooms of the Aldine Club, Fifth Avenue Building. An interesting programme included a talk on "Fear Versus Faith; or, the Personal Equation in Business," by Dr. Stanley L. Krebs; "the Relation of Conditions of Employment to the Selling Agent," by Miss Gertrude Beeks, Secretary of the National Civic Federation, who was sent to Panama in 1907 by Secretary of War Taft to report on sociological conditions among the Government employes there; "Insanity in Business," by John L. Gibson; "Woman's Place in Business," by Miss Holden.

New Chamberlain's Bond Approved.

Robert R. Moore became officially Chamberlain of the city yesterday with the approval of his $300,000 bond by Controller Prendergast. It had been held up because the four sureties required by the Charter had only signed for parts of the total. Their signatures were obtained yesterday binding them jointly and severally for the full amount.

SPEYER BUYS 5TH AVE. PLOT.

James Speyer, the banker, has increased his Fifth Avenue real estate holdings by the purchase of the southeast corner of Eighty-seventh Street and Fifth Avenue from Henry Philpps. The parcel, which has a frontage of 25 feet on the avenue and 110.2 feet on the street, is one of the few vacant lots on the avenue.

Last Fall Mr. Speyer purchased the two adjoining lots on the avenue with the intention of erecting a residence. He now controls a plot 75 by 110.2, and it is understood that work will begin at once on a dwelling to cover the entire plot.

TRAINMEN ON LIABILITY LAW.

Want Railroads Held Responsible for Mishaps to Employes.

HARRISBURG, May 9.—The tenth biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, an organization that represents 300,000 men, in the United States and Canada, was opened here today, W. G. Lee of Detroit, the Grand Master, in the chair.

One of the chief topics will be the suggestion of Federal legislation defining the employer's liability and workmen's compensation for death and injury. The trainmen take the position that the railroads should be held responsible for personal mishaps to the men in their employ.

The brotherhood paid out more than $2,000,000 last year in death and disability claims.

Why Other Vacuum Cleaning Systems Infringe

It needs neither a lawyer nor an engineer to interpret the basic Kenney Vacuum Cleaning Patent. For the patent itself is as clear and as terse as English can be made.

It reads:

"In a suction cleaning apparatus, the combination of —a suction nozzle, adapted to be moved over the surface to which it is applied for cleaning, and having a narrow inlet slot,
—a suction creating device capable of maintaining a sufficient vacuum, —and impurities collecting means, between the nozzle and the suction creating device, and suitably connected therewith for removing impurities from the air."

We claim no patent on vacuum or suction; but to use vacuum as a practical cleaning agent, there must be a slotted tool; there must be some method of separating the dust from the air.

"RICHMOND"

"Collect the Dust—Don't Spread It"

"RICHMOND" Vacuum Cleaning embraces every provedly successful principle known to the art as developed by Kenney, the Father of Vacuum Cleaning, and other foremost inventors. It is manufactured under the protection of the Kenney Basic Patent, and 84 other patents. It includes machines of all forms and types of construction. It offers a full line from which to select—each model being particularly suited to some specific requirement The trademark "RICHMOND" stands for the best of all that has been learned in the art of vacuum cleaning.

There are special "RICHMOND" Systems designed especially for residences, apartments, hotels, schools, office buildings, libraries, churches, theatres, factories, stores, garages, and public buildings. "RICHMOND" Vacuum Cleaning will easily earn its own way, to say nothing of the cleanliness and convenience it brings.

Only Three Men Know the Recipe

The recipe for Van Camp's Spaghetti is the only secret we have in our kitchens.

Our chefs spent two years to create a spaghetti better than any that is served in Rome. Better than you ever tasted.

To make it requires the proper blending of 17 prime ingredients.

Their success has given us the most popular dish that ever went out from our kitchens.

As soon as folks know it we shall be supplying spaghetti to millions of homes. For people who once try this recipe will never be content with another.

We use in the making:

Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
—The same superlative tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork and Beans.

The dish comes ready-cooked. All you have to do is to heat it.

It costs you much less than to make it yourself, if you had the recipe.

It will always be the premier dish on your table, whatever else you serve.

We ask you to try it—to order it now of your grocer. It's a dish you need.

Orientals

The Largest Specialty Rug House in America.

Two Savers

One is the man that tries to get an Oriental rug for less than it is worth.

He goes to a rug auction or a sale.

His knowledge of rugs is limited. So he relies on his keen judgment of humanity.

He buys his rug of a stranger. Is anyone else to blame if the rug he gets is a stranger?

Nine times out of ten such a purchaser pays as much for a defective or spurious rug as he should have paid for a THOROUGHLY GOOD Oriental.

We know this. Many rugs so purchased have been submitted to us for valuation — sometimes by a new customer who has picked up a "bargain."

It is in suspicious company—except in the sale of some private collection.

If that were the BEST way to sell rugs—or to buy them—there would be no house like Wild & Co.

There would be no place established in public confidence to which you could BRING one of these homeless rugs to REALLY FIND its value.

The other kind of saver is the man or woman who seeks a GOOD rug, in GOOD company, at an assuredly FAIR price.

It takes time and honesty of purpose to learn to judge a rug—to know the wine reds and browns, the sapphire and mahogany blendings, the greens and ivory of a desirable Bokhara.

It requires experience to tell the condition—to grade the value—of a Kerman or a Feraghan.

Do you know that NAMES ALONE of Oriental rugs mean nothing?

That the condition and fineness of weave mean VERY MUCH?

Wild's Orientals are sold from $15 up to many thousands, but the VALUE in one is relatively just as good as in the other.

One bad Wild's Oriental would be a reflection on all the others—so we keep the bad out altogether.

BOOKSELLERS WORK FOR UNIFORM PRICES

Some Alarm at First Session, When Library Association Asked for Further Price Concessions.

The eleventh annual convention of the American Booksellers' Association opened yesterday morning at the Hotel Astor, and after a business session and discussion, the two hundred and more members who were on hand for the opening adjourned to the Pennsylvania Station, where they took a special train for Garden City, there to be the guests at a luncheon in the new home of Doubleday, Page & Co. From Frank Doubleday, who made the speech of welcome, they learned the scope and plans of the big publishing plant, of which the corner stone was laid only last Summer by Theodore Roosevelt, and they learned, too, that their own business, the problem of selling all the books published, was really a "cinch." Mr. Doubleday said he had tried it, and knew what he was talking about.

Mr. Doubleday showed the guests a chart of the grounds, and told them something of the business output. They were putting out 5,000 bound books and 15,000 magazines a day, he said.

"It would be easy to turn out 100,000 magazines and 20,000 books a day if you would only buy them," he added, and pointed out on the chart where the buildings would stand that would do all this growing business of the future, when the booksellers were ready to handle their end. For his own part, he saw no reason why they should not.

"Bookselling is a cinch," he declared. "We hired a store in the Pennsylvania station at an outrageous price and started a book store, and when we got the statement for the first week, we almost fell dead, for it showed a profit from the first day."

After this Ernest Thompson Seton, the naturalist, told the booksellers something of the boy-scout movement and how much it meant to the country in providing the proper influence for the coming generation.

"Of every thousand boys born to-day," he said, "five hundred will not make a success in life owing to some evil impulse, one hundred of the five hundred will go absolutely wrong, and ten of the five hundred will be criminals."

After this they scattered about the building and grounds to see the thing for themselves, all gathering together again in time to take the 5 o'clock train back to town. The convention will continue in session to-day and to-morrow, winding up to-morrow evening with a dinner.

The booksellers' association is devoted to the regulation and systematization of the bookselling business, and the booksellers will have attained an important end when every book in this country is published at a fixed or net price. That is what the association has been working for, and there was considerable satisfaction at the first business session yesterday when the report of the Executive Committee, presented by William B. Clark, the largest bookseller in New England, showed phenomenal progress in this direction. It is the publication of a book at a nominal or fictitious price and its selling at various prices, according to the desires of the individual sellers, that is displeasing to the retail men, who say their shops suffer by it. The committee was able to report that between 80 and 90 per cent. of the books of the country are now published at a fixed price, a growth from the neighborhood of 50 per cent. a year ago. The members were delighted.

Time was, Secretary A. B. Fifield explained, when most books were published at a fictitious price. The labeling of a book at $1.50, which is to be disposed of at that price, or at $1.08, $1.12, $1.15, or $1.20, according to the plan of the seller, leaves things in confusion, he said. You would pay one price for a book in Boston, another in Chicago, and still another if you bought it on the trains while riding from one place to the other. This unregulated arrangement, the booksellers believe, allows book shops proper to be undersold by price cutters, who carry books merely as a side line and use low prices for advertisement purposes.

Those who have this matter most at heart were gratified yesterday to see so many department stores represented at the convention, far more than at any previous year. Secretary Fifield understood their presence to mean that the managers of the book departments were no longer satisfied to have the departments run without showing a profit.

The committee reported the correspondence with sellers and publishers that had been carried on during the year and the persuasion that had been used with the undersellers. The association looks forward hopefully, in the light of what has been accomplished in a five-year campaign, to the day when a hundred per cent. of the books will be published at a fixed price.

Following this report, "Protecting the Retail Bookseller on Library Business" was the subject of a discussion led by Ralph H. Wilson of the McDevitt-Wilson Bargain Bookshop. The American Library Association gets a 10 per cent. discount from the retailers on purchases for libraries, but they have started a movement to get a larger reduction—a movement which the booksellers view with undisguised alarm. Mr. Wilson was outspoken in his opinion that the business could not bear the burden of any further concession. A representative of the library association was present, however, to ask for the appointment of a committee for a conference looking to a basis of settlement. The committee was appointed.

MYSTERY IN BATES'S RETURN.

No Light Thrown on Nine Years' Wanderings of Physician.

Dr. William Horatio Bates, a celebrated eye specialist, who disappeared strangely nine years ago, has returned to New York to begin again to build up another practice. Medical men have regarded the case of Dr. Bates as one of the most remarkable having to do with the disease of aphasia, or loss of memory. He returned to New York about ten months ago as strangely as he disappeared, and that he had returned became known yesterday only by accident. He had hoped that the circumstances surrounding his disappearance would not be remembered.

Dr. Bates is sharing the office of Dr. J. E. Kelly, also an eye specialist, at 117 West Eighty-third Street. He left the city yesterday to remain several days in the country. Dr. Kelly would not discuss the case. Neither would any of Dr. Bates's friends who knew of his return. He is now fifty-one years old.

In 1902 Dr. Bates was a member of many medical societies, and had a National reputation as an eye and ear specialist. He had been at work on a book which was to contain the results of his work when, on Aug. 30, he mysteriously left the city. His wife was then with her mother, Mrs. E. Seaman, in Newport, where Dr. Bates had formerly lived. A few days after Aug. 30 Mrs. Bates received this letter:

> My Dear Wife: I am called out of town to do some major operations. I go with Dr. Forche, an old student like Dr. Jones, and do a mastoid, some cataracts, and other operations. He promises me a bonanza. Too bad to miss the Horse Show, but I am glad to get so much money for us all. I am in such a flurry! Do not worry. I will write details later. Yours lovingly, WILLIE.

The day that letter was written Dr. Bates sent a lot of books and instruments away from his apartment in the Lonsdale, 567 Park Avenue. After he had been away several days the janitor wrote to Mrs. Bates, and she hurried back to the city.

Six weeks after his disappearance Mrs. Bates learned that her husband was studying medicine in a London hospital. She saw him at Charing Cross Hospital. He was taken to the Hotel Savoy, but two days later disappeared again and no trace of him could be found. Mrs. Bates, after a long search, came back to New York, and died here some years since.

Oak and Walnut in the Living Room

AS was the case with the "Parlour" of Seventeenth Century England the Living Room of the Country House is the centering place of the social activities of Summer-time.

Among our Reproductions, therefore, of Elizabethan and Stuart Oak and Walnut will be found attractive pieces for the furnishing of the Modern Room. Gate-legged Tables, for instance, which add a note of homely convenience, capacious winged Arm-Chairs, or the dignified high-backed Chairs, suggestive of contemplative ease or the neighborly chat.

TRACING STOCK SALES OF UNITED WIRELESS

Shares Disposed of Were Listed as Wilson's and Bogart's, a Clerk Testifies.

INVESTORS TOLD OTHERWISE

Stanchfield Objects to Evidence Showing That Wilson Wasn't a Banker, Contrary to Company's Literature.

Anna Luduncan of Denver, who was a clerk in the Denver office of the United Wireless Company and the International Loan and Banking Company, was called to the stand yesterday when the trial of Col. C. C. Wilson, President, and of five other officers and Directors of the wireless company was resumed before Judge Martin in the United States Circuit Court. They are charged with conspiracy and misuse of the mails.

Miss Luduncan was examined in an effort to show that the International was not a banking company, and that therefore Col. Wilson, its President, was not a banker. When John B. Stanchfield, counsel for Mr. Wilson, protested against this line of inquiry, Assistant District Attorney Dorr said:

"We have a right to show that this International Loan and Banking Company was not a banking concern, and if we do we prove the fraudulence of one of the statements incorporated in the literature sent out by the United Wireless."

Miss Luduncan was allowed to proceed. She said that in 1906 the company became the International Loan and Investment Company; but when asked if this change of name had been made at the request of the Colorado State officials, she was not allowed to answer. She testified that she received reports of sales of United Wireless stock daily from the defendant, Parker, which she compiled on the first of the month and submitted to the New York office in a report showing the amount sold, the amount received, and whose stock it was.

"What does C. C. W. and S. S. B. signify alongside these certificate numbers?" asked Mr. Dorr, showing a report.

"That the stock was C. C. Wilson's and S. S. Bogart's."

She said that Parker sent checks with the reports, covering the net amount of the stock sold, which checks, almost invariably made out to C. C. Wilson, she would deposit to the account of the International, and then notify Wilson and Bogart, as President and Treasurer of the United Wireless.

Miss Luduncan identified many letters from the New York office, bearing, according to the contention of the Government, upon the allegation that there was a scheme to sell personal stock under the representation that it was treasury stock. One letter to the International spoke of inclosing sixty certificates of the personal stock of Col. Wilson.

"Please furnish us with the names and addresses to whom this stock is sold," the letter said.

It bore the date of Dec. 23, 1907, and Mr. Dorr followed it by reading to the jury one of the circulars sent out by the United Wireless in 1907, in which prospective investors were assured that all stock held by officers and Directors of the United Wireless was tied up so that it could not be sold for more than two years.

The Government then called to the stand George F. Williamson, a stock transfer clerk in the employ of the United Wireless, who testified that stock certificates issued to Col. Wilson, Bogart, and other officers, were rarely stamped non-transferable. It is the allegation of the Government that this personal stock was sold as treasury stock to investors who were not permitted to resell it.

Margaret E. Tabor of Grand Lodge, Mich., formerly a stenographer in the International Office at Denver, identified a number of letters she had written at Wilson's direction. Arthur C. Fike, a bookkeeper, was recalled for the purpose of tracing the transmission of personal stock of some of the defendants to agents in the West. He occupied the stand the greater part of the morning session, tracing hundreds of shares of United Wireless that went to the defendant, Parker, of Seattle, who, the Government alleges, sold the stock to investors through agents.

FOR WHITEWASH INQUIRY.

Ohio Senate Appoints Committee, Contrary to Harmon's Wishes.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 9.—The Senate to-day, against the protest of Gov. Harmon, passed a resolution offered by Senator Hudson for an inquiry into conduct of the State Senators in connection with alleged legislative bribery, contrary to a rule of the Senate which allows the presiding officer to name all committees. The resolution carried with it the names of the Senators for the committee, and the presiding officer could offer no objections.

Senators Green, Purington, and Krause are on the committee. The other members named, though they declared they would not serve, are Senators Dean, Todd, Dore, Deaton, Keller, Douster, and Finnefrock. The action of the Senate in appointing its own committee to probe bribery charges among its members is unprecedented, and has in its train the possibilities of an "immunity bath" for the accused legislators.

Gov. Harmon had authorized his secretary to say for him that he is opposed to the Senate or House making an investigation until after the Grand Jury has finished its work. The Governor wants it to be impossible for any Senators involved in the bribery charges to obtain immunity.

Senators who supported the resolution explain their course by saying that the Grand Jury investigation can not and will not give clean bills of health to those Senators who are free from all taint of bribery, and unless they are cleared by a legislative inquiry they will be under a cloud with their constituents.

A May Event in Men's Furnishings

Every man in New York is interested, just now, in getting his Summer clothes, from straw hats to tan shoes. He is doubly interested if he can get the kinds he wants at less than he expects to pay. This May Sale of Men's Furnishings is for his especial benefit. It offers him some of the most important things in his Summer wardrobe—cool Shirts for business, play, or dress; comfortable Pajamas for hot Summer nights; Neckties for his personal adornment, and so on. The Main Aisle is full of the good things. Come and see.

MALCOLM STRAUSS.

$3 Silk-and-Linen Shirts, $1.95

Cool as a cucumber. Very good-looking. Plain colors—white, tan, slate, cream and blue, with glistening Jacquard figures and stripes, in self colors. A few in contrasting colors. Double French cuffs; laundered neckbands. A liberal purchase makes the low price.

$1.50 Soft Shirts, at $1

Over 2,400 of them—not a shirt in the lot worth less than $1.50, many worth more. Highly mercerized fabrics, with almost the lustre of silk, in a great variety of patterns and color effects. Soft cuffs. Comfortable Shirts that men will pick out by the half dozen today.

A Splendid Collection of Shirts at $1.35

Some are made from our own fine imported custom materials, that would cost $3 to $4.50, made to order, with plain or pleated bosoms, soft or stiff cuffs, in scores of unusual, high-grade designs and colorings. Also shirts with bosoms and cuffs of exclusive Russian cords that show their high character at a glance; plain white bodies. Further, a large lot of beautiful silk-mixed shirts, in Russian cords—a maker's surplus of $2.50 quality, with soft, French cuffs. Altogether a most notable collection.

$1.50 Summer Shirts at $1.15

Just the shirts that most men like to own in liberal quantities—percales and madras, printed or woven stripes and Jacquard figures; plenty in cool, white grounds, with neat colored stripes. Plain and pleated bosoms, attached and detached cuffs.

White Pleated Bosom Tuxedo Shirts, $1

"Viyella" Flannel Shirts, $3.50

News indeed to the men who appreciate these splendid, unshrinkable Outing Shirts for Summer wear, in this famous English material, with its handsome patterns and colorings. Double turn-back cuffs, with detachable pearl link buttons. The low price speaks for itself.

$2 Satin-striped Mercerized Pajamas at $1.50

Colored Mercerized Pajamas, 95c

Of the famous "Universal" make, which assures roomy cut and comfortable fit. Surplice or military collars; silk loops and pearl buttons. In white, cream, champagne, gray, blue and pink.

$1.50 to $2 Pure Silk Knitted Ties, 90c

The lowest price yet recorded on fashionable Knitted Neckties of pure silk. Some are imported, in mottled two-toned effect or in the two-toned accordeon-ribbed style. Others are in plain colors, in knitted lace effect. Also a fine group of accordeon-ribbed Neckties, which we have sold at the very special price of 95c—now priced even lower.

50c Barathea Silk Four-in-hands, 35c Each

Unusual to find lowered prices on Neckties of this staple, always-popular weave. Pure, bright silk, in twenty-one fashionable colors, 1½-inch and 1¾-inch Reversible, and 2-inch French Four-in-hands. Also in Batwing shape.

50c Silk and Elastic Suspenders, 25c

Some of even higher quality. Plain or moire silk, with real calf or kid ends, and non-rustable brass trimmings. Narrow or wide elastic Suspenders, with calfskin ends; all fresh and perfect; in plain colors and designs. Main floor

Men's Summer Bathrobes, $2.95

A maker's surplus of light-weight Bathrobes of usual $5 quality. Of handsome Terry cheviots and madras, in distinguished patterns and colorings; especially admirable for traveling purposes on account of their lack of bulk. Colors are fast and washable. A limited quantity, to share in which we counsel an early visit. Fourth floor

A Picture Sale Without a Parallel Begins Today at Gimbels

We bought Unframed Pictures—several thousand of them, from a dealer who was in dire straits for money. They are beauties—mostly hand-colored, in a great range of the most popular subjects.

We found a frame-maker who was practically shut down. To keep his organization together, he was delighted to make fine Frames for us, at much less than his usual prices.

The combination brings you beautiful Pictures, richly framed, AT LESS THAN THE USUAL PRICES OF THE PICTURES ALONE*—absolutely ignoring the cost of the Frames.* In fact, assortments are so large and prices are so very low, that dealers, and managers of hotels and restaurants, will be as much interested as private householders—and all such are cordially invited to take advantage of the Sale. Here are some of its most important offerings:

$3 and $3.75 Hand-colored Artotypes at $1.50

$4.50 and $5 Hand-colored Imported Photogravures, $1.75

In antique and ornamented gilt frames, gold-burnished, 18x22 in. and 16x29 in.

Also Hand-colored Photogravures, and large Artotypes, framed close, in 3-in. gilt frames, at $2.25, regularly $6.50 and $7.50.

Large Imported Photogravures at $3

A superb collection of Photogravures, hand-colored, in all the important series of subjects which usually retail from $3.50 to $7.50 UNFRAMED; in 3-in. burnished gold frames, inside measurements 16x24 in. to 20x30 in. An extraordinary offering at $3 each.

Platinum Prints and Proof Engravings and Etchings, at $3.75

A choice group of these artistic Pictures, the Engravings and Etchings in signed proofs; in artistically ornamented gilt frames, 18x25 in. to 22x30 in. inside; usual retail price $10, at $3.75.

Hand-colored Platinum Prints

These are the choicest subjects of the Campbell Art Company's well-known series. They are samples and only one of a subject. Sizes run from 6x8 in. to 16x24 in., and usual prices unframed are 75c to $7.50. We have had them framed close or with mounts and mats, in dainty antique frames, to sell at

ENDING CONTROVERSY OVER THE HOE SALE

Dr. Baer and Geo. D. Smith in Conference Which May Reach an Adjustment To-day.

AUCTION COMPANY'S SIDE OF IT

Major Turner, Its President, Says Items Attacked May Have Been Retouched, but Not Forged.

Negotiations were in progress practically all day yesterday among the parties interested in the controversey over two of the pieces disposed of at the Hoe book sale, the genuineness of which has been called in question by Dr. Baer, the German authority, but their exact purpose was not disclosed. All agreed, however, that no result has been reached and that the conference would be continued to-day, when they were hopeful that the entire matter would be adjusted.

One report was that arrangements were in progress by which the Hoe estate would take the works under criticism off the hands of George D. Smith, their purchaser. Another was that Dr. Baer was to retract or qualify in some way his statement that in his opinion the illustrations of the Ovid manuscript and the gilding and portrait of Henri III. of France on the cover of Guicciardini's History of Italy were spurious.

Major Emery S. Turner, President of the Anderson Auction Company, which handled the sale of the Hoe library, intended in the morning to make a statement in reply to Dr. Baer, which he admitted was to be of a caustic nature. When the time he had set came he said circumstances had arisen which made it advisable to modify the statement. Major Turner had not before expressed himself on the subject. This is what he said in his amended interview:

Returning to the city after a day's necessary absence, I am greatly surprised at the "tempest in a teapot" which has followed the conclusion of the Robert Hoe sale. Out of over 3,500 items sold, the validity of only two is now questioned. It is conceded, I believe, that the books were carefully and conscientiously catalogued and the sale conducted with absolute fairness.

No question was raised by Dr. Baer before or at the time of the sale as to the accuracy of the descriptions of these two items, although I personally invited him to inform me of any erroneous attributions or descriptions which had come under his notice, in order that they might have consideration, and if necessary, correction, when offered for sale. We always seek and welcome such information, and have no pride of opinion as to our own work, our sole purpose being to get the exact facts in all cases. Of course, we also owe a duty to the owner of the property to be sold, and do not carelessly or lightly accept the "curbstone opinions" which are sometimes freely offered with little consideration and less knowledge. While possessing a very high opinion of the intelligent and conscientious work of our corps of cataloguers, we leave all claim of infallibility to others, and are still willing to be taught even by the somewhat surprising methods "made in Germany."

Of the two items now questioned by Dr. Baer the first is the French manuscript version of the Heroides of Ovid, presumably executed for Anne of Brittany and Louis XII. He asserts as a matter of opinion that M. Libri painted the miniatures himself. That notorious character has been made a scapegoat by previous similar assertions, but it is a serious matter to paint a miniature in the manner of the work of the fifteenth century, and M. Libri found it much easier in his official position as Inspector of the Libraries of France to steal the manuscripts. It is known that he forged autographs, but there is no evidence known to us showing that he forged miniatures on so great a scale. As in bindings, old work perishes and restorations are made not in any way affecting the provenance of the book; it is not an uncommon thing to find old manuscripts where the gold or coloring has been affected by time, touched up and restored by a modern hand, deceiving the inexpert and causing rashly founded accusations of forgery.

The second item is Guicciardini's Historia d'Italia, in a binding attributed to Nicolas Eve, executed for Henri III. of France. Dr. Baer states—we quote his own reported words—"The book and even the cover are old, but I am convinced beyond the slightest doubt that, while the original back has been untouched, the gilding on the cover, including the portrait of Henri III., is the work of a very clever bookbinder of the nineteenth century." He also adds on hearsay that Mr. Hoe "doubted the authenticity of the binding," but Mr. Hoe's own catalogue, revised by himself, raises no question, but describes it as "a remarkable specimen of binding for completeness of detail and richness of execution."

Bindings executed for Henri III. have three distinguishing marks, "tear-drops," expressing his lifelong grief for the dead sweetheart of his youth; a "skull and crossbones," used for the same purpose, and his motto. The "tear-drops" and a fleur-de-lys (indicating royalty) are found on the back of this volume. Dr. Baer admits that the back is a genuine binding executed for Henri III. of France, but then proceeds to criticise the sides. If the book were a forgery all three of the distinguishing marks of Henri III.'s bindings would naturally be copied for the purpose of deception, and if the mosaics have been restored, it is permissible and understood. Bindings perish, and those that have existed for nearly five hundred years have to be treated, not merely to preserve them, but to restore decayed pieces of leather and regild the places where the gold has vanished. There is scarcely an old binding in existence that has not been so treated by more or less expert hands. Grolier and Maioli bindings have had the paint restored, broken and missing pieces replaced, and the gilding touched with fresh gold. Dr. Baer should be given an opportunity to prove that the sides of the Guicciardini—the Henri III. back of which he admits is genuine—are a modern forgery and not a restoration of missing parts and a regilding of perished gold.

That is the present opinion of our cataloguing department and of the company and one that we think will be generally acquiesced in. I see no occasion for further controversy about it. Dr. Baer is entitled to his opinion, and we shall probably continue to hold ours. Such questions arise at almost every important sale without causing asperity.

Later in the afternoon Mr. Smith, purchaser of the works, said that a conference was to be held and that the whole matter would probably be arranged, and that a full statement would be made at the conclusion of the conference. It was learned incidentally that the book with the Henri III. cover was now in the hands of an outside party, to whom it had been transferred soon after the auction. Mr. Smith would not name the person thus brought into the matter. It was also learned that the Ovid manuscript, which had been in the salesroom at 1 East Forty-fifth Street, where Mr. Smith's purchases were put on exhibition and sale yesterday, was no longer there. Mr. Smith would not say what had become of it.

When Mr. Smith returned from the conference he was accompanied by his attorney, John C. Tomlinson of 15 Broad Street. Instead of the promised statement, Mr. Smith said:

"We have seen Dr. Baer, and we have nothing whatever to say until to-morrow."

It is known that at the conference, besides Mr. Smith, Mr. Tomlinson, and Dr. Baer, were several foreign experts who are understood to agree with the German critic. Their position is understood to be that they will not permit themselves to become involved in the controversy unless legal proceedings are taken against Dr. Baer, when they will come forward in his support. However, both the Hoe estate executors and Major Turner have declared that they have no intention of attempting proceedings against Dr. Baer.

Both Robert Hoe, son of the collector of the library, and F. W. H. Crane, coexecutor with P. P. Chew, said last night that no negotiations were in progress for the return of the works to the Hoe estate, so far as they knew. Mr. Chew left town on a week-end trip before the conference was held.

Frederic Gebhard, who died in September last, left a total estate of $163,721.19, according to an appraisal filed yesterday in the Transfer Tax Office by Deputy State Controller Julius Harburger.

The principal item of the estate was a trust fund of $161,101.12. Mr. Gebhard left $356 jewelry, including a $50 watch and $17.85 on deposit in the Knickerbocker Trust Company. Mr. Gebhard held stock in the Juarez, Mexico, race track and the Saratoga Racing Association.

His sister, Mrs. Mary I. Neilson, is the only beneficiary of his will. She is now traveling in the West Indies.

Lieut. Faurot Demonstrates Its Efficacy in Determining a Person's Identity

A practical demonstration of the efficacy of the finger-print system of identifying criminals was given before Judge Rosalsky and a jury in General Sessions by Lieut. Faurot of Headquarters yesterday, in the trial of Charles Crispi, a criminal with a long record, for burglary.

All the evidence the prosecution has against the prisoner rests in finger marks he left on a piece of glass he removed from a loft building at 171 Wooster Street on Feb. 22, when it is alleged he entered the factory of the M. M. Bernstein Brothers and stole $300 worth of clothing. When the trial began on Monday Assistant District Attorney Wasservogel had great difficulty in getting twelve jurors who were willing to convict on finger-print evidence.

The only witness called yesterday was Lieut. Faurot, who has taken 65,000 finger-prints since the Bertillon system was introduced into this country. His testimony was interrupted by the almost incessant objections of Robert M. More, the prisoner's counsel, who insisted that all the evidence was incompetent. Faurot went into the history of the finger-print system from the beginning, and in order to show the efficacy of the Bertillon system, he asked that he be put to a test. Judge Rosalsky agreed and the witness was told to leave the room.

Twelve men, mostly reporters and court officers, were then asked to step up and have their finger prints taken. After this had been done one of the twelve was told to step up and grasp the same pane of glass as that which the prisoner is alleged to have removed from the door of the building in Wooster Street. Faurot was then called back into the room. His assistant, Sergt. Haney, in the meantime sprinkled some powdered chalk over the glass and rubbed it lightly with a brush. The witness was then told to examine the finger prints and compare them with marks on the glass. This was done and in ten minutes he looked up and told the jury that the marks upon the glass corresponded with the finger-prints marked "LL." This was found to be correct.

In his testimony Faurot said that banks in this city use the finger-print system as a means of identification in cases of foreigners. He also told of the great assistance the system had been to the detectives of Scotland Yard. He said that a very short time ago a man was arrested at the Waldorf as a suspicious person. After examining the man he took his finger prints and sent them to Scotland Yard. A few days later he received a set of finger prints corresponding with those of the man and his photograph from the London officials, also the information that the prisoner was wanted in that city for a hotel robbery.

The witness then testified that some of the Government employes in the Canal Zone are paid by means of the finger-print system, as are the Indians, who cannot write their names. He also said that the Northern Railroad used the system as a means of identifying employes.

The members of the jury were furnished with enlarged photographs of the prisoner's finger marks left on the glass, so as to be able to follow the witness during his explanation of the various peculiar points in the defendant's finger prints. He said there were four distinct classes of finger prints—the whirl, the loop, the arch, and the composite.

The whirl is where the marks in the finger tips run in circles, while in the loop they run up and curve down again in regular lines; the arch is where they run straight up then curve and run down, and in the composite they are made up of all or two of the other classes. The prisoner's right middle finger is in the first or whirl class, while his right ring finger is of the loop type.

The cross-examination of the witness had just begun when Judge Rosalsky adjourned the case until to-day, when another expert will be called to testify about the lines in Crispi's fingers.

THREE NIGHTS AT SEA FOR ATLANTIC TRIP

FAST RAILROAD TO QUEBEC

Sir Edward Morris, Premier of Newfoundland, who is sailing for England today on the Lusitania as the official representative of his colony at the forthcoming British Imperial Conference and the coronation of George V., said yesterday that he was making the trip by way of New York in order to discuss with a syndicate of British capitalists here a proposal to construct a railway from Quebec to a point on Cape Sir Charles on the coast of Labrador, connecting there with a proposed new line of steamships of the Lusitania type, running between Sir Charles and Liverpool, and with a ferry across the strait to Newfoundland.

"There are in New York at the present time," said Sir Edward, "the representatives of a large and influential English syndicate who have acquired rights to a railway running out of Quebec, and who have a charter to build a railway in the direction of Cape Sir Charles. I believe the syndicate's proposal will be favorably considered by both the Quebec and Newfoundland Governments, and I see no reason in the world why such a route should not be constructed and operated in connection with a new line of fast steamships between Sir Charles and Liverpool and with a ferry connection between Sir Charles and Newfoundland, the width of the strait at that point being only seven miles.

"This would be by far the shortest passage across the Atlantic, and with ships of the Lusitania type the voyage from land to land could be accomplished with only three nights at sea. The route would be open all the year round—occasionally drift and floating ice would be met with, but nothing to obstruct properly built and equipped steamships. From Cape Sir Charles to Quebec is about 1,000 miles, and with a line of standard guage this could be covered at sixty miles an hour, which means that passengers could be landed in lower Canada and in the United States twenty-four hours earlier than by the Lusitania to New York today. This can readily be seen when it is explained that the ocean passage would be 1,000 miles shorter and that 1,000 land miles would be covered at sixty miles an hour, which is nearly three times as fast as the Lusitania and the Mauretania travel."

Discussing the acquisition by United States cable companies of the last English cable company, Sir Edward said that apart from the business and commercial aspect of the case the matter was to be deplored.

"The Anglo-American Company's cables," he said, "were the outcome of the celebrated telegraph monopoly granted by imperial acts of Parliament in 1854, and it was over their cables that the first telegraphic message between the two hemispheres was transmitted. I am not prepared to say what action may be taken by the Imperial Conference on this matter, but I think it is not at all unlikely that within a very short time new cables owned entirely by British investors will be laid from Great Britain to Canada via Newfoundland. Once landed in Newfoundland no further cables will be required, inasmuch as the Newfoundland Government at present owns a cable to the Canadian coast, and as the distance across the strait is only about seven miles as many cables as would be required could easily be procured.

"It was recently reported in the papers that before going to London I contemplated a visit to Washington to discuss with the President the question of reciprocity between Newfoundland and the United States, but this is not a fact. In 1890 and again in 1902 reciprocity treaties between Newfoundland and the United States were negotiated, but neither was ratified. Newfoundland to-day is quite prepared to discuss a new reciprocity treaty with the United States. With its immense fisheries, capable of infinite development, Newfoundland is in a position to furnish cheap and splendid food for the millions of people in the United States, the only barrier in the way being the existing prohibitive tariff.

"Newfoundland has already done much to benefit United States trade by placing many articles on the free list, including flour, kerosene oil, lines, twines, machinery, agricultural implements, and so on. In the past fifty years British imports to Newfoundland have gone down from 50 to 15 per cent., while United States imports have increased in the same ratio. This is mainly due to the enterprise of American manufacturers. We rarely see representatives from British houses, whereas representatives from United States manufacturers are tumbling over each other."

Discussing the question of confederacy with the Dominion of Canada, Sir Edward said that since the confederation party was beaten at the polls in the sixties the question had never been seriously considered and the sentiment against confederation was stronger today than ever.

"The desire of the people of Newfoundland is to work out their own destiny," he said. "Despite the fact that we have little or no immigration our population in forty years has increased 50 per cent., while the maritime provinces of the Dominion have only increased 14 per cent. I may point out that we offer special inducements to immigrants—free homes, free land, free fishing, no taxation, and free firewood. Immigrants can fish in the Summer time within sight of their own homes in the lobster, cod, herring, and seal fisheries, and in the Winter can get employment at a dollar a day, and all found, in the great lumber camps.

"It is also worthy of note that Newfoundland offers special attractions to sportsmen. Residents in New York can in forty hours reach salmon streams in Newfoundland where they can fish free to their hearts' delight, landing salmon from 8 to 40 pounds. While doing this they can live along the line of the railway in comfortable little boarding houses and hotels at $1.50 a day, and after the salmon season, which lasts from the 1st of June to the 1st of September, they can stay over for another month, and for a small license enjoy the finest caribou shooting in the world."

Pittsburg Spectators Wildly Cheer When Dr. Walters Is Acquitted.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 9.—E. R. Walters, Director of Public Health, to-day was found not guilty of accepting a bribe of $1,000 for his vote, when President of Select Council in favor of the bank depositories ordinance.

On the announcement of the verdict the spectators, in spite of the efforts of the tipstaves to preserve order, cheered and clapped their hands, and the Director's friends rushed to him with congratulations.

The jury deliberated a little over four hours and then returned a sealed verdict last night, which was opened in court to-day.

Start Surveys for a New Highway.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., May 9.—Deputy State Highway Commissioner Frank D. Lyon and several highway officials to-day started surveys for a new route to New York. It will shorten the route between New York and Buffalo, and will pass through Deposit, Hancock, Roscoe, Liberty, Middletown, Goshen, Tuxedo, and Nyack. Work on the new route is to begin in ten days.

A New Point of View of Monopoly

THE man in the street will tell you that the days of Monopolies are past. Yet the most powerful factor in nearly every line of business to-day is Monopoly—a new kind of monopoly that is changing the very face of modern business, and that is within reach of nearly every business man.

You cannot, to-day, create a monopoly of the class of goods you manufacture. You can make a powerful and permanent monopoly of your own goods.

Ivory Soap has no monopoly of the soap business. But it has a monopoly of Ivory Soap.

Royal Baking Powder has no monopoly of the baking-powder business. But it has a monopoly of Royal Baking Powder.

If you can impress the merits of your product upon any number of consumers so that they will demand it by name—so far as those consumers are concerned you have a monopoly—smaller in extent, perhaps, than some more powerful, advertised competitor, but a monopoly not the less secure or permanent. For the marvel of this new principle is that the big manufacturer and the little manufacturer may create their monopolies side by side.

The Ladies' Home Journal is helping create such monopolies, among its 1,400,000 families, for manufacturers of every size and in nearly every line of business. It is helping such men solve the problems of competition, of profit, of business permanence.

If you would like to consider whether it can help you, our 40-page booklet on the meaning and methods of "Modern Advertising" will be sent you, free on request.

The pitching skill of Christy Mathewson was put to a crucial test on the Hilltop yesterday, when he matched the best in his curve repertoire against the cool head and the powerful arm of "Three-fingered" Brown of the Cubs. The game was played in a driving rain, and the two master boxmen were forced to call on every bit of resource and cunning to overcome the handicap of a slippery ball and a water-soaked mound. The Giants—let it be proclaimed from the housetops—won by a score of 5 to 3.

It was the first time this season these teams have clashed, and the result was just what ardent Giant fans had looked for. New York has a cherished feeling that Matty is master of the great Cub baseball machine. If Matty falls before them the town has a sort of shattered confidence in McGraw's team. Battles between Mathewson and Brown have been interesting. Since 1903 they have pitched against each other eighteen times, including yesterday's game. Of these combats the big miner, with only three digits on his flinging hand, has won eleven and Matty has won seven. Brown wasn't decisively outpitched yesterday. The Cubs hit Matty almost as often as the Giants reached Brown, but at times the veteran Cub was inclined to be wild and uncertain. It was the wet ball that caused him to falter at times, not his execution. Matty had better control—he was himself when the Chicago team looked dangerous.

Although it began to rain long before the game started, nearly 9,000 persons tunneled up to the Hilltop to see the clash. In the open stands enthusiasts were content to sit and get soaked watching the teams battling in the rain.

Considering the wet ball, the soft, slippery ground, and the bad light, the game was remarkably well played. These conditions brought up a great element of chance in the proceedings, and it was the team that got the lucky end of the breaks that won. You never felt certain that the ball wouldn't slip from either pitcher's moist hands and fly into the stands or that the infielders would tumble when dashing over the wet grass after the hoppers.

The Cubs' new, dark-blue haberdashery helped to carry out the gloomy color scheme of the day. At times the batsmen rode the ball to surprising distances for wet, heavy leather. Schulte knocked out two long ones, and young Doyle, the successor of Harry Steinfeldt at third base, clouted it hard. For the Giants, Larry Doyle and Chief Meyers were not sparing in their swings at the sphere.

New York put up a game, uphill fight. The Cubs had a two-run lead up to the fourth inning, when some stout hitting, aided by slippery fielding of the Cubs, enabled the Giants to tie the score. Brown temporarily lost control in the fifth inning, and two passes and a hit batsman put the Giants in the lead. They clinched the victory by some hard hitting off Brown in the seventh inning.

There was a shake-up in the club line-up. With Evers out of the game, broken down with nervous trouble, Jimmy Sheckard was placed at the top of the batting order. Schulte and Hofman were put up in front, where they could do some destruction. Zimmerman was at second base, with Doyle, the recruit, at the dizzy base.

The game was late in starting, the teams waiting for the rain to stop. There was no let-up, so they decided to play anyway. Sheckard rolled an easy one to Matty, who threw him out at first base. Schulte hit a three-base drive to deep right field, and scored when Artie Hofman smashed a grounder at Larry Doyle, which almost knocked him over as it rushed by. Chance's grounder slipped from Bridwell, and the peerless leader was safe. J. Doyle hit into a double play, L. Doyle to Bridwell to Merkle. In the first and second innings New York's career at the bat was cut short by lightning fast double plays by the Cubs. Matty and Brown got down to serious tossing in the third inning, and each fanned two men.

J. Doyle beat out a bunt in the fourth inning, Devlin making a wild throw over Merkle's head. Devore recovered the ball, and he also made a wild heave, and while the ball was flying around, J. Doyle got around to third base, and scored on Tinker's sacrifice fly to right field.

The Giants made the most of their chances in the fourth inning. Larry Doyle lifted a long fly to left field. Sheckard ran nearly to the fence, but the ball got away from him, and Larry reached third base. Snodgrass rolled a grounder to J. Doyle, who threw home to catch Larry Doyle. Kling threw back to Tinker, covering third base, and the short stop missed the ball, Doyle scoring, and Snodgrass going to second base. Murray sacrificed him to third base, and he scored on Merkle's sacrifice fly.

The fifth inning found Brown in a bad hole. Devlin walked, Meyers was hit in the side with the ball, and Matty forced Devlin out at third base. Devore walked, filling the bases. On Larry Doyle's out, Tinker to Chance, Meyers scored.

More bear taming was on tap in the seventh inning. Devlin, first up, flied to Schulte. Meyers hit the ball a hard whack to left field for two bases. Matty flied to right field, and Schulte slipped in the wet grass, but was up like a flash and made a pretty catch. Devore's single to left field scored Meyers, the ball being relayed in just as the Indian slid into Kling. Umpire Brennan first called him out, and then reversed his decision. In the meantime, Devore had hurried around to third base, where he was safe by a narrow margin. Capt. Doyle's liner to centre sent him home.

After the fourth inning Matty settled down to his pitching in a businesslike way, never slipping up on the elusive benders he was shooting at the Cubs until the ninth inning. With one out, J. Doyle pushed a triple to right field, and scored on Tinker's out at first base.

Local College Nines to Clash.

In view of the keen rivalry existing between the Columbia and New York Universities, an exciting game of baseball is looked for this afternoon on South Field, when the two teams representing these colleges line up. Since their defeat at the hands of Yale last Saturday afternoon, the Blue and White aggregation have been working industriously to improve the weak points brought out in that struggle, and they will be in prime condition to meet the University Heights players.

ONLY THREE BINGLES IN BROOKLYN'S BATS

Brooklyn and St. Louis, cellar champions of the East and West, had their first battle of the season yesterday afternoon at Washington Park and the Dahlenites gracefully pushed the Cardinals into seventh place, dissolving the tie for last place which held the two teams at the beginning of the struggle. The visitors hardly did enough to expect a victory, but it proved to be so much more than the Dahlenites were able to accomplish that the home team never appeared really dangerous after the first run was scored in the fifth inning. It was another case of the Superbas dying without a struggle. The final score was 2 to 0.

Second base again proved a barrier which the Superbas could not surmount, and the five Dahlenites who managed to reach the midway were unable to go any further. In Philadelphia on Monday only two of Dahlen's boys saw second base, and both were stranded there. Yesterday they completed eighteen consecutive innings without getting a runner as far as third base. Coulson made a bid to reach the final turn in the fifth inning on Zimmerman's slow roller to Konetchy, after drawing a pass and stealing second base, but Koney shot the ball to Mike Mowrey and Coulson was nailed as he slid in. That was the closest that any of the Superbas came to scoring in the past two games.

Manager Dahlen used seventeen men in his effort to escape the cellar, but to no avail. One substitution was made necessary by a collision between Wheat and Tooley, which resulted in the latter being so badly bruised and shaken up that he had to leave the game. With Evans on first base and one out in the fourth inning Oakes hit a short fly back of third base. Wheat came in at full speed from left field to make the catch and Tooley cut across from his position, also at a good clip. They came together and both went down. Wheat jumped up quickly and fielded the ball, which had got away from both of them in the crash, but Tooley remained on the ground. When he arose it became evident that he had injured his leg, and after limping around the field for awhile he notified Manager Dahlen that he would be unable to play. Stark was sent to short field, but he did not finish the game, giving away to Barger, who failed as a pinch hitter in the eighth inning. McElveen finished the game at short stop.

A circuit wallop by Roger Bresnahan was the one bright spot in an otherwise dull afternoon. The wallop came in the sixth inning and was a healthy slam all the way past the flag pole and to the clubhouse in deep left field. The Cardinal chieftain had no trouble making the circuit and no attempt was made to get him at the plate.

Nap Rucker made his fourth unsuccessful attempt to get into the win column. From a pitching standpoint Nap did enough to win ordinarily, and he also did a trifle better than any of his mates with the stick, but he was up against the same old trouble—superior pitching by his opponent and the inability of his mates to punch out a real solid slam at a time when it would mean a run. Nap got one of the three hits made by the Superbas off Bob Harmon, and the drive would have gone for a triple if Nap had cared to tear up the paths. He took things easy and dropped anchor at second base. The St. Louis moundsman separated the trio of bingles as far apart as possible, the hits coming in the third, sixth, and ninth innings. Both pitchers showed poor control, but had the habit of tightening up with runners on the paths.

The Cardinals threatened to score in the second inning, when a single and two passes filled the corners with only one out, but Rucker fanned Harmon and Huggins. In the fifth inning, with one down, Huggins walked and advanced on Ellis's drive past Hummel. Mowrey bunted and Rucker fumbled the ball, filling the bases. Konetchy scored Huggins with a long fly to Meyers in deep centre field. The other count came on Bresnahan's home-run drive in the sixth inning. The score:

Pirates Stop the Philadelphias.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., May 9.—Pittsburg opened its Eastern campaign to-day by easily defeating the home team, 8 to 1. The visitors drove Rowan off the rubber in the third inning when they made five hits, including a double by Leach, triples by Wagner and Miller, and a home run by Wilson. Chalmers was also hit hard, Pittsburg's twelve hits being for a total of twenty-seven bases. Adams of Pittsburg was effective at all stages. Score:

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 9.—After Montreal had scored five runs in the second inning and driven Manning from the mound, Newark came strong from behind and won. Kelly's home run over the left field fence in the seventh inning scored two runners ahead of him and put Newark in front for the first time. Singles by Cady and Londen drove in three runs in the third inning. Score:

Yale Sprinter Pulls a Tendon.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 9.—Yale has lost Frank Rudell, its best sprinter, for the season. He pulled a tendon in light practice to-day, and Capt. Kilpatrick of the team said to-night that it would be impossible for him to start in either the Harvard dual meet next Saturday or in the intercollegiates three weeks later. Yale is, however, strong in sprinters, and Rudell's loss will be only lightly felt. Thatcher, who is practically his equal, was out of condition in the Princeton dual meet last Saturday, but is showing splendid form and should score heavily for Yale against Harvard.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., May 9.—The pitching of Ralph Works was the principal cause of the bad start Hal Chase and his Yankees got on their initial adventure into the enemy's country. Only one real hit did Ralph allow them, Chase's single to centerfield in the fourth inning. Hartzell's bang through the box in the sixth inning was not very warm and might have been stopped had Works tried for it. But he was eight runs to the good at the time. Gardner's single in the closing period was a Texas Leaguer, just out of reach of Bush. Had Bush been one step nearer the game would have ended right there.

Warhop was the easiest mark he ever has been in Detroit. In only two innings did the Tigers fail to slam his offerings to safe spots and in one of these he walked a man. Except in the fourth inning, when the tail end of the Detroit batting order took occasion to distinguish itself, the bombardment was confined almost exclusively to the slugging brigade, Cobb, Crawford and Delehanty.

The lack of pitching seemed to take the grit from the Yankees, with the exception of Chase, who played hard all the time, as if with a dogged determination to die game, and to get even on the morrow. For three innings they went along, with the characteristic American League energy. The first two Tigers to waltz to the plate in round three were expeditiously retired. Then came a single, a walk and a single, scoring Delehanty and leaving Moriarty and Ness waiting. It was a gentle whack that Oscar Stanage laid on the next ball pitched, but he laid it on true and the sphere soared balloon like over the screen in the left field bleachers for the circuit. It was this hit that took the tuck out of the Yankees for the day. Six runs to the bad, and his pals up to that time not having accomplished anything better than to take first base on a bad throw, or by grace of called balls, Warhop ceased to try. Works, who has spent two full seasons learning to be a big leaguer, worked as hard as though the score were nix to knotholes—bound to show that he had arrived.

Besides the Yanks heretofore referred to as having bingled, eight trod on the first sack for a fleeting moment. Five of them walked, two got on by sending a predecessor to destruction at second base and the other because Bush made a low heave, after a good stop on Hartzell in the third inning, the ball going past Ness. Ness is subbing for Gainor, because the regular first sacker had a hand trod upon Sunday in a mix-up at second base.

The best chance the Hilltoppers had to tally was in the opener. Daniels led off with a stroll and hiked on to third when Stanage let a swift shoot get by. There he cavorted gaily, trying to rattle the pitcher by taking long leads toward the home station, while Hartzell and Chase popped to Bush. Then Cree walked and Gardner fouled to Stanage.

Two other Yanks got as far as third base. Hartzell reached there on infield outs after he had singled through the box to open the sixth inning. Gardner was shoved along by passes to Johnson and Roach after his ninth inning Texas Leaguer. In other periods Gardner and Johnson touched the middle station by the pass and force out route. And that was the sum of the Yankee offense.

The Tiger onslaught is not pleasing to relate from a New York point of view. The history of the plethoric third has been told. The other six runs were manufactured simply by consecutive whacking.

Pitcher Hall Saves Boston Nine.

CLEVELAND, May 9.—Boston made its first appearance here this year to-day and defeated Cleveland 5 to 4. Not a hit was made off Karger until the sixth inning, but Cleveland hit him hard in the ninth inning and drove him from the box, Hall preventing a tie game. Score:

CORNELL CREW PICKED.

Courtney Names Men to Row Against Yale and Princeton.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 9.—The Cornell 'Varsity crew for the race with Yale and Princeton on Carnegie Lake on May 20 was announced by Coach Charles E. Courtney to-day as follows: Elliott, bow; Bates, 2; Lum, 3; Kruz, 4; Wakely, 5; Distler, 6; Ferguson, 7; Bowen, stroke; Kimball, coxswain.

Although this crew has been rowing in good form it is not as fast as last year's 'Varsity, and Coach Courtney has been making changes and shifts for several days. He has decided, however, to row this crew intact, hoping that with the present good weather conditions continuing, the men will attain more speed. The Cornell crews, it was announced, will leave for Princeton on Wednesday of next week.

Columbia Getting Ready for Golf.

The first golf match for the team representing Columbia University will be played Thursday afternoon, when Williams College will play them on the Apawamis course. An attractive schedule has been arranged for the Morningside Heights team and this is the first of several important matches, Cornell, Yale, the Briarcliff Golf Club, and other teams being on the programme. The teams that will play Williams next Thursday and Cornell on May 20, have been picked and practice for these men will be held daily on the Van Cortlandt Park course. The team for Thursday's match is as follows: F. H. McAdoo, '13, L.; E. H. Downes, '14; G. F. Butterworth, '12; J. E. Langford, '12; C. G. White, '12, and V. L. Lynde, '13. The aggregation that will play against Cornell has a slightly different personel. It consists of the following: E. K. Morrow, pg.; E. H. Downes, '14; S. Greenbaum, '13, L.; C. G. White, '12, and G. F. Butterworth, '13.

REPUBLICANS AND THE FREE LIST.

The vote on the farmers' free list in the House was, of course, a political vote. It is all the more full of meaning on that account. It will pay to scan the vote a little carefully. Two facts stand out clearly. Only one Democrat, a forlorn representative from Colorado, who kicked at free meats, voted against the bill. Twenty-three Republicans, including one "regular," voted for the bill. They come from nine States, all in the West or Northwest, with two Pacific Coast States, as follows:

Minnesota	8	Iowa	1
Kansas	4	California	1
Wisconsin	4	Nevada	1
Washington	3	Oklahoma	1
Total	23

These are all States in which agriculture is the predominant interest. The votes of their Representatives show how the farmers are feeling and thinking as to the hoary humbug of protection to their class. The bill was frankly framed for the advantage of the farmers. It takes high taxes from the materials and implements of their industry—bagging, hoop iron, baling wire, fence wire, wire rods, farming implements and machinery, timber, &c. But with equal frankness it wipes out the "protective" taxes on fresh meats; buckwheat, wheat and rye flour, corn meal, bran, and other by-products of grain. The choice was fairly and plainly submitted between keeping taxes nominally aiding them and removing taxes really hurtful to them. On that issue twenty-three Republicans from nine agricultural States cast their votes with the Democratic Party. And this they do despite the ingenious and desperate effort of their party leaders to make their action as risky as possible. For ten long hours, Mr. MANN of Illinois, who guided the Republicans, plied the House with amendments designed not for passage but to make an ugly "record" for the men breaking away from his party. Here is a partial list of them:

> Mr. MANN proposed free tin so that free meats might come in manufactured. He asked for free iron and steel. He demanded free dyes and tanning articles so that free hides might be tanned here. He offered an amendment that no articles manufactured in establishments abroad where the eight-hour law was not observed should be admitted. He asked for free hemp to go with cotton ties and bagging. He urged free macaroni and vermicelli, together with free flours and biscuits. He tried to get free pineapples, free olive oil, free sponges, free paris green, free chemicals for making wood pulp paper, free castor oil, free soaps, free spectacles and goggles, free grindstones, and scores of similar things, and not one would the other side concede.

Clearly the Republicans who stood fast against these tactics, of precisely the sort that have won so steadily in the past, know that their people are backing them. The tactics were not only futile; they were foolish. Mr. MANN, stoutly seconded by our own and only Mr. PAYNE, seems not to see that they are strengthening the Democratic Party as an agency for sane, gradual, and helpful tariff reforms. The people at large will not care a little bit for the traps the extreme protectionists are inventing. What they will see, and be mighty glad to see, is that the Democrats in the House cannot be tricked or goaded into wild adventures with the tariff, and that they are sticking firmly to a moderate, well-planned, practical plan for the progressive removal of the worst failures of a deeply rooted system. Every time the Republicans propose, and try in vain to force, a departure from that plan they furnish to the American people a new proof that the Democrats can be trusted not to upset everything.

It is true that there is not much chance that the Democratic plan can pass the Senate at the extra session. But it is far from certain that it can be defeated in the regular session beginning in December and lasting to the eve of the Presidential campaign next year. Meanwhile the legislation for reciprocity with Canada is constantly gaining support, and the leaders on both sides expect its passage by midsummer. On this measure also the Republican standpatters are straining every muscle to rally the farmers in opposition. They sent a delegation to the President to make a distinct threat that he would lose the farmer vote if he persisted in pressing reciprocity. Mr. TAFT received them and their threat with perfect firmness. He would not yield if the farmers did desert the party, and he did not believe that the farmers would do anything of the kind. He is right. There is no sign of any such intention, for one reason, because there is nowhere for them to go. Indeed, the perfect calm with which the country takes the whole business of the extra session is conclusive proof that the Nation is ready for reciprocity, and quite ready for the next step toward removing the absurd and cumbersome tariff bill.

CLEARING HOUSE PROGRESS.

The efficient committee of the Clearing House had prepared the way so well that the adoption of its recommendations was a foregone conclusion, and was put on record yesterday. It is known that some trust companies whose business is characteristically of a banking nature propose immediately accepting the Clearing House overtures, and it is likely that some whose business is characteristically of a nature not calling particularly for a Clearing House connection may delay for a time. There is a still larger number whose policy has not been settled definitely. They are likely to begin asking themselves how they will fare when the Clearing House and their depositors take note that they decline a privilege acceptable to other trust companies doing a like business.

Other things being equal, it needs no argument to prove that a trust company with a Clearing House membership enjoys an advantage even in good times. It is needless to emphasize what a priceless boon Clearing House indorsement and support is in times such as some still remember. And this is a consideration for trust company customers, no less than for officers and companies as an entirety. It is much to be desired that ultimately all the financial institutions shall be bound together, but it is also subject for congratulation that a measure of improvement in this respect is already in sight. The committee deserves well of the entire community as well as of the Clearing House, and it is to be hoped that its present large measure of success eventually may become complete.

THE ATTITUDE OF DIAZ.

The workings of the mind of an old man who dwells largely in the past, and has been kept or has kept himself ignorant of the extent of the disaffection in his country, are revealed in the Sunday manifesto of PORFIRIO DIAZ, which has proved so futile that the fiercest battle fought on the mainland of this continent in fifty years, excepting, perhaps, one or two engagements of our troops with the Indians, began within twenty-four hours of its utterance. The DIAZ who remade and built up Mexico no longer exists. The aged President is clearly out of touch with the times and is adhering to his old dictatorial policy when the means are not at hand to carry it out. One of Don PORFIRIO's warmest admirers, RAFAEL DE ZAYAS ENRIQUEZ, has called the peace in Mexico secured by DIAZ a mechanical as distinguished from an organic peace, and has employed the word "pacifismo" to describe it.

The era of "pacifismo" has passed. DIAZ himself has educated his people for something better; he has built schools and extended free education throughout the country; he has encouraged industry, and secured for Mexico an honorable and important place among the Nations. The natural result is that there is no longer a Porfirist Party to depend upon. The people demand a real republic and the enforcement of the Constitution. Whether they have developed sufficiently to govern themselves, under conditions of perfect freedom, remains to be seen. Their right to make the experiment is indisputable, though the terms of the no-re-election bill, a measure dominated by emotionalism rather than reason, may somewhat discourage hope of a good beginning.

The retirement of President DIAZ, however, seems to be the desire of 95 per cent. of the Mexican people. They demand an overturn of the Government and a fresh start on a new basis. Nine or ten years ago DIAZ spoke frequently of his early retirement. But he was declared re-elected in 1904 and again in 1910, and his most formidable political rival, Gen. BERNARDO REYES, has been in exile, practically, for a long term, while his seemingly least formidable opponent, FRANCISCO I. MADERO, has developed into the acknowledged leader of a revolution as widespread and as grave as any in Mexico's history. The present attitude of DIAZ suggests that he must still believe he can crush the rebellion. His troops have thus far protected the larger cities from invasion, and safely guarded the great works at Necaxa, which supply the capital with all its light and power. They have done little else. The insurrection grows day by day. DIAZ, it is suggested, is awaiting the return of Gen. REYES, but the present influence of REYES with the masses is exceedingly doubtful. He lost the affection of soldiers and citizens alike when he obediently accepted exile. If he now assumes command of the army, there is no reason to believe that even the drafting of recruits will be sufficient to build up a force able to restore the "pacifismo" which is the DIAZ ideal. There are rumors that the Church, which has hitherto kept out of the fight, may lend its influence to REYES. That would be, indeed, a return to the conditions of the old unhappy days, when JUAREZ fought for freedom and enlightenment. But it is all idle speculation, and the true explanation of the attitude of DIAZ must be that he has become an infirm old man, blind to the gravity of the situation, and lacking counselors who are able to assist or to guide him. So, like King CANUTE, he bids the waves subside.

WHO CARES?

Forest fires are raging up-State in the Catskills and in the Adirondacks. In New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, and in Maine, tracts of woodland are fire-swept, and in Minnesota and other States of the Northwest heavily timbered areas have been burning. Who cares?

Nobody, apparently, in the Legislatures, State or Federal. Our Albany correspondent reports that the appropriation of $50,000 to provide for fire fighters and patrolmen in the forests up-State is "held up" in the Finance Committee of the Senate, because, forsooth, Forest Commissioner THOMAS M. OSBORNE, who properly recommended it, is "the foe of Tammany and CHARLES F. MURPHY." Therefore, the State must suffer the ruin of its woodlands. Sixty patrolmen are needed in the preserves, only eighteen are given. THE TIMES is informed by Chief HENRY L. GRAVES, who succeeded Forester GIFFORD PINCHOT at Washington, that in the rich woods of western Montana and northern Idaho, where fires wrought costly havoc last Summer, the service has secured funds to construct slightly over three and one-half miles of trail and to stretch half a mile of telephone line "per average township of thirty-six square miles under administration"; whereas "at least twelve miles of trail and six miles of telephone line per average township are needed." It has as yet "not been possible to place a patrol force in the field, even on the areas containing the most dense and valuable stands of timber, of over one man for each 50,000 acres." Mr. GRAVES adds that in many of the forests "as many as 150,000 acres have been intrusted to one patrolman."

Millions exposed to destruction by fires, not one cent to squelch them or to prevent them!

HARBOR PURIFICATION.

It is now reported that the Board of Estimate has authorized the Mayor to appoint a special committee of five engineers to devise plans for the purification of the harbor. Why should not the matter be referred to the Metropolitan Sewerage Commission for report? That body has never complained of overwork. On the contrary, it has rather complained of neglect of its functions and authority, and is seeking at the present time to attract attention by another of its useful exhibitions. If this Commission is not entitled to the Mayor's confidence—and there is no intention to suggest that it is not so entitled—why should he not ask for a Commission on which he could rely?

It would seem that this is a good time for the Metropolitan Commission to assert itself, and ask just what is expected of it, if its business is to be turned over to one board of engineers after another. The action just taken is upon a report which itself might have come from the Commission. It is repeated that no criticism of anybody is intended. It is only asked why Commission is piled upon Commission, with no regard to costs or multiplication of functions.

FINGER PRINTS.

Four finger marks, discovered on the glass in the door of the entrance, and four more finger marks on a pane of window glass, which had been removed to effect burglarious entrance, are the sole evidence adduced by the District Attorney's office in the trial of CHARLES CRISPI. Our news report says that it was difficult to get a jury, "as few talesmen were willing to convict on the evidence of finger prints alone."

We do not know, of course, whether CRISPI will be proved guilty of burglary, and he is now presumably innocent. But upon the abstract question of the validity of finger prints as evidence, there is not room for two opinions. FRANCIS GALTON found that there is "only one chance in sixty-four billions that two finger prints will be alike," that is, if they are the prints of the fingers of two different persons. The chances that the digital whorls and convolutions on the tactile areas of four fingers should be identical in their impressions from the hands of more than one individual are almost infinitely remote.

THE CONGESTION BILLS.

The five bills, introduced by Assemblyman SHORTT at the instance of the Committee on Congestion of Population in New York, are praiseworthy in their purpose, which commands the sympathy of all who understand the wretchedness incident to crowding in the homes of the poor. But it is all-important that those who strive to relieve such wretchedness should first investigate the facts as they are, report upon them accurately, and then recommend measures that will produce the beneficent results intended.

We are informed by Mr. LAWRENCE VEILLER of the Tenement House Committee of the Charity Organization Society that this is precisely what the Committee on Congestion did not do. Its bill to remedy overcrowding in tenement apartments, for example, would permit four adults to sleep in one room, 7 by 10 feet in size, or six persons to sleep with slightly over 200 cubic feet of air each, with no power lodged with any public official to prevent them. The Tenement House Committee believes that the present law is adequate.

Two more of the bills, aimed to limit the height of dwelling houses to prevent congestion in sparsely settled districts and elsewhere, might not work. One forbids the future erection of any tenement house exceeding four stories, unless fireproof. Would not this result in the complete arrest of the building of ordinary tenement houses in this city and in the erection of great fireproof tenements ten and twelve stories high, thus actually increasing congestion? The other bill requires that, north of 181st Street in the Bronx and Manhattan and throughout the Boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens, and Richmond, no tenement house shall be built exceeding four stories, whether fireproof or not. Massachusetts, backed by the Federal Supreme Court, is enforcing a law in Boston requiring that in one main district no kind of building whatever may be erected higher than eighty feet, and in the other main district, the business portion, the limit is set at 120 feet. But Assemblyman SHORTT's bill limits the height of an apartment house in Brooklyn to four stories, while it permits the owner next door to build a hotel ten stories high and the factory man across the street to erect a loft building eight stories high. Would the Federal Supreme Court have upheld such a discriminatory exercise of the police power? And, if it would justify it, how would the enforcement of the measure itself reduce the dangers from fire in that neighborhood, as it is intended to reduce them?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Ex-Convicts Deserve No Immunity. If, at just this juncture, there were to be presented in the Ohio Legislature a bill making it a misdemeanor to give publicity in any way to the fact that a man is an ex-convict, nobody would wonder why the thing was done or be surprised if the measure passed promptly and by a large vote in both houses. As it happens, however, a bill of that nature has turned up in Albany, not Columbus, and that makes the phenomenon mystifying, for, of course, we are not like the wicked Ohioans, and none of our statesmen takes more than a cool and academic interest in guarding the records of criminals.

However, the bill has been introduced, and therefore it will have to be considered. At first thought, perhaps, it doesn't seem to be such a bad one. One might say, for instance, that after a man has paid in full the legal penalty for his misdeed he should have a fair chance to start anew on equal terms with his fellows. That he certainly does not have when he is hampered, wherever he goes, by the almost inevitable revelation by somebody, sooner or later, that he is an ex-convict. But the law, as a matter of fact, does impose more than imprisonment on the criminal, and by depriving him, after his release, of civil rights, shows that it intends his punishment to continue for life.

Moreover, while it is a hardship, and a cruel one, for the ex-convict who is really trying to become a good citizen not to have his past ignored, experience has proved that, as a rule, the man who has served a prison term is not a person to be trusted. Not only has he once demonstrated a serious moral weakness that may be displayed again, but he has been subjected to the dreadful influences and education which are all that any except a very few jails provide for their inmates. That prisons usually make worse instead of better the bad men sent to them is disgraceful to us all, but society must protect itself, so far as it can, from its own incompetencies, and cannot with safety grant to the ex-convict the immunity from having his record inspected, discussed, and advertised which it gives to nobody else.

Even with conditions as they are, the ex-convict really capable of reform and really desirous of it is not fatally handicapped by his past. He has something more than the bare possibility of "living it down," and that is about all he can expect.

Saturday's Parade Re-reviewed. Discussion of the suffrage parade continues in many quarters, and efforts are made in not a few of them to account for the hardly questionable fact that the impression created by this demonstration on those disapproving of, or indifferent to, the ambitions of the women taking part in it was curiously different from what they expected it to be.

There seems to be a general admission that the marchers, instead of injuring their cause by conduct that by all the established conventions was distinctly unfeminine and therefore obnoxious and ridiculous, really accomplished by it something at least of what they hoped to achieve, and did not lose but gained respect. Yet even their own councils were divided, before the parade, as to whether it was advisable or not, and the insistence of their bolder spirits on carrying out the audacious plan caused several alarming desertions from their army. The deserters are probably sorry now, for the event has proved them wrong both as tacticians and as prophets.

Even the women who dared seem to be somewhat puzzled by the extent of their triumph, and if any of them know, none of them has proclaimed, what may be, what probably is, the reason why the parade won them for perhaps the first time the serious attention, of their foes and the enthusiastic applause of their doubting friends. That reason, if we are not mistaken, was that on this occasion, more notably and more obviously than ever before, the suffrage women in this vicinity showed themselves as a class to be active, courageous, and determined. Hitherto about all there has seemed to be to the "movement" was centred in and limited to a few leaders who did all the talking, got all the glory or notoriety, and paid most of the bills. The others didn't seem to do much or to amount to much, and if they had minds of their own they did not speak them.

We now know that there is an army as well as Generals, and that it isn't afraid to stand up and be counted, and to take places in the firing line. To change the figure, the suffragists made the public confession of faith which is the test of the sincere convert in every cult, and that confession is always impressive, even for unbelievers. Probably these efficient women do not need advice, especially from a source they deem unsympathetic, but the lesson of that exciting day is clear—they are living in a democracy, and, as they aspire to help directly instead of indirectly in ruling it, they should themselves be free from the slavery of dependence upon anybody for anything except personal service and personal sacrifices which all can share and equal.

Genius Has Its Own Laws. One of our correspondents has obligingly informed us that a certain THOMAS D'ARCY MCGEE used the phrase "Our Lady of the Snows" before KIPLING did, and that the latter might have credited to THOMPSON "The City of Dreadful Night" as a title. The first of these two facts is news, the other isn't, but we confess our inability to see any, even the slightest, importance in either of them.

KIPLING unquestionably was, and probably still is, a man of the size and sort that can be permitted to take his property where he finds it, and to make of it just about any use he chooses. Of course he is indebted to his predecessors and to his contemporaries, but he needn't be always making public acknowledgment of his obligation, needn't give an explanatory footnote for every literary allusion, and needn't use a single quotation mark that doesn't, in his own personal private opinion, improve the appearance of his page and help the expression of his meaning.

This is license that might be abused, but the chances that KIPLING will abuse or has abused it are about equal to his necessity to do so, and are too small for the consideration of anybody except the plagiarism-hunter—for whom nothing is too small. When KIPLING wrote "Our Lady of the Snows" the world heard and the words stuck in its memory—much to Canada's discomposure. When THOMAS D'ARCY MCGEE wrote it—but what's the use!

REVENTLOW'S JINGOISM.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In regard to your reference to Count Reventlow, whom our yellow press joys to call the "leading naval critic" of Germany, and his tirades against us, you do not seem to have observed that, although the Germans are among the cheapest politicians in the world and among the greatest jingoists, as seen in the career of the Kaiser himself, their main idea is always supported not by aimless, unintelligent, and merely potential forces, as are America's vague ideas of foreign interests, but by equipped men and horses, and that Germans have clear, intelligent, and direct national aims in the world.

Germany might make a very great deal more of her situation with respect to hostility to America than she does were it not that there is a very strong pro-American sentiment in Germany, and there is a serious difference of opinion as to what German diplomacy and politics might make of the situation. Germany is isolated in Eastern Asia. She is the only power except America that is not a member of the Manchurian alliance. It has been Great Britain's nervous, anxious task for five years to keep France and Russia together, and Germany and Japan separated. Agitators and jingoists like Reventlow love to toy with this hope of being Japan's accepted friend, and they think the surest way is by persuading Japan that the United States is her enemy and that Britain is conniving with America. But there can be no doubt as to Germany's course were she able to take Great Britain's place in the Anglo-Japanese alliance. That possibility is kept verdant and prime at all times by our yellow press agitation of the war question in which men like Reventlow join. If, in spite of Japan's patient, tireless efforts to keep us sane on this question of war with her, she should find herself drifting into a dual alliance with Germany or a triple alliance with Germany and Russia, I want to know what you think our hostage of 8,000,000 German born Americans would count for in German-American relations? It would not be worth mentioning.

Personally I think it is to the interests of Germany and the United States to work together in Eastern Asia, the scene of their most important interests so far as America is concerned. Atlantic interests take care of themselves.

Varying Prices of Hardware Goods.

The Hardware Dealers' Magazine for May publishes the retail prices of certain hardware staples in different parts of the country which make interesting reading. For instance, a gross of ordinary flathead screws will cost the consumer in Little Rock 17 cents, in Binghamton, N. Y., 18 cents, and so on up in different parts of the country until we reach New Castle, Penn., where they sell for 85 cents. Bear in mind that it is not at all likely the man selling at the lowest figures is selling at cost or less than cost. A brass face mortise lock sells for 20 cents in Binghamton; 25 cents in Jamestown, N. Y.; 30 cents in Atlantic City, and so on up to 50 cents in Bangor, Me., and Topeka, Kan. Common porcelain door knobs range from 12 to 15 cents, showing not much variation. Wire cloth sells for 1¼ cents per square foot in Terra Haute, Ind.; 3 cents in Holyoke, Mass., and 3¼ in Fort Wayne, Ind. A ten-inch flat file which brings 15 cents in Sandusky, Ohio, works its way up to 25 cents in New Castle, Penn. An eight-inch hasp and staple begins at 4 cents in Allentown, Penn., works up to 10 cents, which is the general rate, and stops at 20 cents at Atlantic City. Poultry netting costs $1.80 per roll in Pittsfield, Mass.; sells usually for $2.25, but goes with a bang to $2.80 at Holyoke, Mass. The moral is that no matter where you live be glad you don't live somewhere else—that is, if you are going to build a house or keep chickens.

New York's Blind School.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is interesting to know that an official invitation was given to the New York Institution for the Blind to participate in the Blind Workers' Exhibition. The reason this invitation was declined is not known to me.

However, if Mr. Hervey intended to convey the impression that he was familiar with the work at the New York institution he should have omitted from his letter the statement that "there is no evidence that the New York institution could furnish pupils able to do what the visiting pupils did." There is ample evidence that the pupils of the New York school can do all that the visiting pupils did—available to any one who visits the institution. And one who like myself has seen the ability of these New York boys and girls demonstrated at the institution's "anniversary exercises" is not troubled by the doubts which Mr. Hervey tries to arouse in the public mind. Mr. Hervey's assertion is the more remarkable, inasmuch as so many of those exhibiting at the Blind Workers' Exhibition were trained at the New York Institution for the Blind.

The Five-Starred Flag.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent, G. H. Hall, asks: "Why should a company of women, supposedly working in the interests of improved government, be permitted to parade through the streets of this city carrying a flag from which all but five of the stars have been removed?" The answer to that question was written on one of the banners in the parade of last Saturday as follows: "There is a word sweeter than Mother, Home or Country, and that word is Liberty."

There was no desecration of the American flag in displaying a flag with five white stars and a yellow border such as I noticed a very pretty girl carrying in the parade of last Saturday, but rather an emphasizing of a higher kind of patriotism than the mere military sort.

CROKER MUST SLOW DOWN.

The Aldermen refused yesterday to grant exemption from the speed limit regulations to the vehicles of the Croker National Fire Prevention Engineering Company. The Tammany leaders made a strong fight for the measure, but it was defeated by the opposition of the Republicans and Fusionists, led by Vice Chairman Bent. A motion for reconsideration was carried by a bare majority of five votes. The matter was referred back to the Law Committee.

The objection to the resolution centred around the uncertainty as to how many automobiles would be affected by the exemption. Alderman White, who introduced it, said that he had Mr. Croker's word that it would be used only by him personally.

"And why should it be granted to him personally?" asked Mr. Bent. "Chief Croker has done good work for the city and we are paying him a pension of $500 a month for it, but if I know him at all, and I think I do, I believe I know how he will use this privilege. He will go to a fire and criticise the way it is handled. I cannot see how the city will be benefited at all by having him at fires. He is out of the Fire Department, and we should not assist him in meddling with something which is none of his business."

Columbia Organizes Peace Society.

The Intercollegiate Branch of the International Peace Forum has been organized at Columbia with these officers: F. J. Porter, '12, President; H. Vantine, '11, Vice President; J. W. Hill, Jr., '11, Secretary and Treasurer; H. V. Rothwell, '11, Chairman of the Speakers' Committee; G. M. Bramwell, '11, Chairman of the Literary Bureau, and G. H. Barrett, '10, representative of the International Peace Forum to the Intercollegiate Branch. It is proposed by the Columbia Association to send its representatives to other colleges and universities to perfect similar organizations at those institutions.

A Fast Walker.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to disagree with the young man from St. Louis, Mo., who told your reporter he had walked 475,000 miles since 1897. Granting that he started Jan. 1, 1897, there would have elapsed to date 5,239 days, less 120 days in a hospital, which leaves a total of 5,119 walking days, during which he must average 93 miles a day or about 4 miles an hour, for 14 years and 4 months, (night and day.)

New York, May 8, 1911. E. A. SAXTON.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My mathematical bump is not very pronounced, but I have hastily figured this and find the following: The young man from Missouri started Jan. 1, 1897; up until May 1 would be 14 years, 120 days, which equals 5,230 days. Counting 24 hours to the day, it would be a total of 125,520 hours. If he walked every hour during all this period at the rate of 3¾ miles per hour, he would only walk 470,700 miles. There seems to be a decidedly interesting discrepancy somewhere in the printed statement for the accuracy of the young man.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article headed "The Anti-German Bias" is truly admirable in sense, lucidity, and fine temper. The way in which it puts the general facts makes it irrefragable. That 3,000,000 of our most level-headed citizens are Germans, born in Germany, and that children born to them in this country number about 9,000,000, making an aggregate of 12,000,000 American excellent citizens of Teutonic strains, is, indeed, a circumstance of great good fortune to us as a Nation, because such people are of all races the most consistently reliable and intelligent agriculturists, and are therefore the best kind of people to have millions of where billions of acres are to be tilled.

Your editorial article in this instance is, to me, simply charming in its frank and fair and unmistakable presentation of what wrong-headed gingos strive to make much too much of—gingos none of whom, as you say, "merits more than a passing notice—like this."

Sure Prevention of Water Waste.

Much water is wasted in this city. Like anything else absolutely free, it is not valued. No gas is wasted. Reason, the actual users pay the bills. To cure the hot water waste, install instantaneous gas heaters. Any tenant needing hot water could get it at once, and we may be sure it would not be kept hot longer than necessary. It is common to have some one say: "Make the landlord put in meters." It is also a cheap way of displaying wit and malice, I think. When a meter is put in each apartment, as is the case with gas, then we shall save on the water waste because the users would pay the bills individually. Perhaps the plan is practicable, perhaps not, but it is the only way.

How the peepul do waste whatever is free—water, education, parks, everything!

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I note with delight in THE TIMES of Monday that "J. W. E.," friend of inventors and poets, has bought the last remaining copy of my immortal book. Let him not sorrow that the man at 947 Eighth Avenue stung him for three half dollars instead of two, as the original price was. The rise not only shows the value of advertising in THE TIMES, but also that the man is keeping abreast of the high cost of living by increasing his receipts 33 1-3 per cent. to meet a 10 per cent. increase in expenditure. It's the only sure way of being happy in hard times and high prices. Poetry has a mission to fulfill in more ways than one. I may add that I got no royalty whatever on "J. W. E.'s" purchase. Consumers and poets are always getting the tarred end of the stick.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read from your correspondent about the condition of Stuyvesant Square Park. I have lived opposite the park for twenty years and in all that time have never seen anything approaching its present disgraceful state. It is a park which affords a much-needed place of refreshment and repose for hundreds of east side mothers and little children, and the presence of grass plots, instead of the trodden down earth which these plots have now become, would add immensely to their comfort besides being an object of beauty to all.

TO A BACK NUMBER.

Oh,
Uncle Joe,
Why don't you try to know
That the world to-day
Is moving along a newer way
Than the ancient path your feet still tread
In the dust and the ashes of the dead?
Oh, why
Don't you try
To hear the Vox Populi?
Put your ear to the ground!
Put your ear to the ground!
Can't you catch the sound
Of the millions marching on and on
To the better day whose rosy dawn
Is breaking clear in the azure skies
That light the way to an enterprise
Richer and fairer than has been known Since man, as a free man, claimed his
Ho,
Uncle Joe,
You're too slow!
Wake up! See the light!
Hear the shouts of Progress! Listen!
Hark!
"What's the matter with Cannon?

SAYS WATER WASTE IS A CITY MENACE

Nathan Hirsch Asserts That Leaks and Reckless Use of the Supply Could Cause Famine.

RECOMMENDS NEW LAWS

Thinks Every Building in the City Should Be Metered and Owners Assessed Accordingly.

Water famines would not be such a danger here if the city ordinances governing water rates were kept up to date, according to Nathan Hirsch, an expert on water supply. His business is to detect and rectify water leaks and wastes in the buildings and houses of about 15,000 residents of this city. About 40 per cent. of the water is wasted, according to Mr. Hirsch.

The waste in the city's public buildings—the Court Houses, schools, and police stations—is very large, and passes entirely undetected, as the public buildings are not metered. The city makes no attempt to discover how much water its various departments use. Consequently, no one knows how much water is wasted. A private apartment house owner who was one of Mr. Hirsch's clients discovered not long ago that $516 worth of water was being wasted in his apartment house every year through an undetected leak.

"If many of the public buildings which the city allows to go unmetered have similar leaks, the practice of allowing its public buildings to go unmetered must be a very expensive one," said Mr. Hirsch yesterday.

He wants a water meter installed not only in every house but in every apartment or flat. Folks who live in apartments, under the present water tax ordinances, can let the water run in their bathtubs all day long without having to pay a cent for it, Mr. Hirsch says.

If the wasteful tenant lives in an apartment house more than five stories in height he may be called to account for his wastefulness, because apartment houses exceeding five stories have to be metered, under the present ordinances, and their owners have to pay the water bill. Apartment houses five stories or less, however, don't have to be metered. Their tenants can waste all the water they want to. Neither the tenants nor the owners have to pay the city a cent, no matter how much water they waste.

The apartment houses of five stories or less merely pay the city a flat rate, estimated on their street frontage or on the number of water appliances in them. This flat rate system is given as the chief cause of neglectful waste of city water on the part of its citizens.

The Aldermen ought to pass an entirely new set of ordinances governing water rates, Mr. Hirsch says.

"One hundred and fifty-three dollars was the water bill of a certain Sixth Avenue restaurant which was careless about its water bill," Mr. Hirsch said. "One hundred and twenty-two dollars was its water bill last month, after all its water waste had been traced scientifically and stopped. Another hotel saved $100,000 last year by watching its water waste. These economies were made in establishments where there were meters. One can imagine how much the city is losing by waste in similar establishments where there are no meters and where the owners of the property are merely charged so much a year. In Paris not only every building has a water meter but there is a water meter in every flat. This is the way it should be in New York. The present ordinances are incongruous in the extreme."

Mr. Hirsch quoted a former Brooklyn Water Department official to the effect that the installation of meters always ended by reducing the water rate, since it reduced the waste. He said that certian property owners, for this reason, were making a mistake in fighting meter installation. The ordinances by which the water rates are governed were framed eleven years ago, according to Mr. Hirsch. He also pointed out that the constantly running fountain and water troughs in famine times wasted an undue amount of water.

WATER SITUATION SERIOUS.

Health Commissioner, However, Says Precautions Are Being Taken.

Health Commissioner Lederle does not think there is any immediate danger of a serious contamination of the city's water supply on account of the half-filled reservoirs, though he admits that the situation is serious. It is generally agreed that the lower the water sinks in the reservoirs the greater the danger of contamination, because the impurities usually fall to the bottom.

Dr. Lederle also admits that the chance of contamination is always more or less of a problem in this city because of the fact that the supply is from the surface, and when the supply is low, due to low rainfall, the proportion of contamination is necessarily greater, making it necessary to watch the results of the daily analyses with increased care.

Dr. Lederle explained how the water was safeguarded, however, by the great storage reservoir, twelve miles long, which acts as a settling basin. All the water, from whatever source, must first flow into this basin, where sedimentation occurs before it passes into the aqueduct. The Health Commissioner also pointed out that the problem of preventing contamination is handled now much more practically than formerly. A special joint committee from the Health and Water Supply Departments and from the Corporation Counsel's office considers all matters relating to the causes of nuisances and contamination, and frequently sources of danger are abolished summarily, whereas, before the existence of this committee all the departments involved had to pass on any reputed nuisance before action to remove it could be taken.

Dr. Lederle's statements indicated that the various departments responsible for the purity as well as the quantity of water supply were keenly alive to their obligations in the present crisis.

$50,000 FOR THE FOURTH.

Aldermen Vote Money for Music and Fireworks.

The Aldermen voted $50,000 yesterday to pay for fireworks and music for the Fourth of July celebration this year. Herman Ridder, Chairman of the committee in charge of the celebration, briefly outlined its plans. He said the committee hoped to raise $50,000 additional by private subscription. The city gave last year's committee only $15,000. The increase this year is due to the plan for neighborhood celebrations in each Aldermanic district.

Alderman McCann introduced a resolution abolishing private hack and taxicab stands. It was referred to the Law Committee. The board expected to take up this question yesterday, but Alderman Dowling, the Tammany leader, said that action had been postponed until Alderman Nicoll returns from his honeymoon. He is the introducer of an ordinance abolishing the private stands and making a substantial reduction in the present taxicab fares.

A resolution was passed requesting the management of all the penal institutions in the city to establish libraries for their prisoners.

WHITE RATS STIR THE ACTORS' FUND

New Members Ask for Inquiry Into Handling of Money and Are Put Out of Meeting.

His Motion for Special Meeting to Revise Constitution Ruled Out of Order —Defeated for Secretary.

Opposition to the usual smooth-running developed at the annual meeting of the Actors' Fund of America at the Gaiety Theatre yesterday afternoon, and the regular ticket of officers nominated came within six votes of being lost in the election. Whether the opposition developed first in the ejection of several new members who had not complied with all of the by-laws, or in the desire of William A. Brady to pass a motion for a special meeting, could not be determined. It was a warm meeting, however, and for a time there was considerable excitement.

Daniel Frohman, President of the fund, was in the chair, and other officers of the association occupied seats on the stage. In the extreme rear of the orchestra was Mr. Brady. When the meeting was called to order Harry Mountford, National Secretary of the White Rats of America, offered a motion that a committee be appointed to investigate the handling of the money of the fund. On being questioned Mr. Mountford said that he had joined the fund two days before and had paid his dues at that time. With him in joining were about a dozen others, members of the White Rats. His attention was called to a by-law that requires the Executive Board to pass on all new members before they can enter legally into the affairs of the fund, and as he and those with him had not yet been accepted by the board they were asked to withdraw from the meeting. They did so, after protesting.

Before going, however, and when his status as a member was questioned, Mr. Mountford said that he was a member of the Actors' Church Alliance, a statement evidently made to show his rights to membership in the fund. Then F. F. Mackay, Second Vice President of the fund, arose and stated that he had organized the Actors' Church Alliance, and that he had withdrawn from the organization. After this Mr. Mountford retired.

Following the report of the Secretary, which came next, the report of the Nominating Committee was declared in order, and the following ticket was offered: President, Daniel Frohman; First Vice President, Joseph R. Grismer; Second Vice President, F. F. Mackay; Treasurer, Henry B. Harris; Secretary, Frank McKee; Trustees for two years—Milton Nobles, Harry Harwood, William Harris, Ralph Delmore, Marc Klaw, Charles Burnham, Clay M. Greene, and Percy G. Williams. All of these were already holding the offices for which they were named.

Before the vote could be taken some one in the body of the theatre called attention to the fact that some of the ballots distributed bore a paster with the name of William A. Brady covering that of Frank McKee for the office of Secretary. Some one else asked that a single ballot be cast, but that was declared impossible, as there were two tickets in the field. So the voting proceeded in the regular order, with result that the regular ticket received 55 votes, the ticket with Mr. Brady in place of Mr. McKee 49, and another ticket, with the name of Frank Boone on it, 1 vote. Mr. Mountford and those who left the meeting with him were presumed to have held the balance of power in Mr. Brady's favor, but their power departed with them.

After one or two resolutions of confidence had been offered, Mr. Brady came into action. He rose from his last-row seat and moved that a special meeting of the fund be called to revise the constitution, so that the yearly meetings could be legally conducted under rules provided by the trustees. He explained that, to his mind, the present meeting was being ruled by the trustees, and that he desired such action to be made constitutional thereafter. Henry B. Harris rose to a point of order, and Mr. Brady said he was not out of order, and proceeded to hold the floor. Marc Klaw then questioned Mr. Brady's status as a member of the fund and his right to make a motion or vote.

Mr. Brady said he had been a member of the fund for twenty years, and that he was not only a member in good standing, but a life member, having paid the life membership fee of $50 on Monday. He explained that he was a member of the Executive Board for ten years and that he had held other offices in the organization. It developed, in fact, that he was a member of the Nominating Committee that had selected the ticket that had just been elected. The question of his right to take part in the proceedings was dropped.

He insisted on his motion to revise the constitution, and he asked why he had been sent a letter relating to articles that have been appearing in a theatrical paper in which the management of the money of the organization had been questioned. Daniel Frohman ruled the motion out of order, and the meeting was adjourned.

For half an hour afterward many of those who had been present held another meeting on the sidewalk in front of the Gaiety Theatre and discussed the matter. Some thought it disgraceful that any opposition should have been shown to the management by the present officers, and others expressed themselves as being of the opinion that a little stirring up would not hurt the fund.

The report of the Secretary showed that the fund now has a principal of about $190,000, the income from which is used to support the home on Staten Island and to give aid to actors in need. There is no deficit this year.

Ehlermann-Hotchkiss Wedding Plans.

Plans have been completed for the wedding of Miss Helen Hotchkiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry De Witt Hotchkiss, and Carl Ehlermann, Jr., which is to take place at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of Thursday, June 1, at the residence of the bride's parents, 315 West Seventy-fifth Street.

There will be no bridesmaids. Miss Beatrice Smith of Boston, Mass., a cousin of the bride, will act as her maid of honor. Charles Eliot Ware, Jr., of Boston will be Mr. Ehlermann's best man, and the ushers are to be William Strong McGuire and J. Otto Stack, both of this city.

After the ceremony there will be a reception.

Miss Newman to Wed George Klee.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Newman of 250 West 112th Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lillian Newman, to George Klee of East Orange, N. J. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Carroll to Wed Henry W. Hyde.

Mrs. William B. Trowbridge of New York and Saranac Lake announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ruth Lawrence Carroll, a daughter by her first husband, to Henry Webb Hyde, a son of the late Henry D. Hyde of Boston and Cohasset, Mass. Mr. Hyde is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1908.

Mrs. Trowbridge, Mr. Trowbridge, and her daughters, Miss Gladys Carroll and Miss Ruth Lawrence Carroll, are at Saranac.

Ex-Gov. Chamberlain Critically Ill.

MERIDEN, Conn., May 9.—Ex-Gov. Abiram Chamberlain is critically ill at his home here and his condition is such that, according to a statement given out to-day from the house, his recovery is not looked for. He has been suffering for sometime from general breakdown, and carbuncles appearing about a month ago complicated the case and forced him to take to his bed. He was Governor of Connecticut in 1903-1905.

Motor Cyclists Fighting a Bill.

The Motor Cycle Club of New York will hold a mass meeting this evening at Huber's Casino, 162d Street and Jerome Avenue, the Bronx, to protest against the bill now before the Legislature, which would put motor cycles in the same class with automobiles as far as licensing is concerned. The cyclists consider that this would be unfair to them.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Tiffany Dyer arrived yesterday from Europe, where they have been spending the Winter, and are staying at the Hotel Gotham.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunlevy Milbank will go to Port Chester, N. Y., to-day, where they have taken a house for the Summer.

The Ladies' Four-in-Hand Driving Club, of which Mrs. Arthur Iselin is President, will leave the Colony Club at 9:30 this morning on a long-distance drive for Greenwich, Conn., where the party on board will be the guests over night of Mrs. Thomas Hastings. The return trip will be made to-morrow.

Miss Grace H. Dodge has planned to close her house in New York to-day and go to Riverdale, N. Y., for the Summer.

Mrs. M. H. Lehmaier and her son, James M. Lehmaier, and Mr. and Mrs. John Trownstine and Miss Marie Trownstine, are booked to sail for Europe to-morrow on the Amerika.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Julia A. Hoyt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Livingston Hoyt of this city, and Samuel A. Welldon of Washington, D. C. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Francis J. Owen has returned from a cruise of four months in the West Indies and is at 567 Park Avenue.

Miss Rosalie Gardiner Jones has arrived from abroad. She spent the Winter in Paris and part of the Spring in London.

The wedding of Miss Hélène Von S. Lucas and Philip Livingston Jones will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Grace Church and will be followed by a small reception at the Hotel Buckingham for the relatives and a few intimate friends. Miss Lucas's uncle, Edward Prime, will give her in marriage.

Dr. and Mrs. A. Ernest Gallant of 540 Madison Avenue are spending the week in Boston, Mass. Upon their return they will go to their cottage on Long Island for the Summer.

OPERATIC STARS SAIL.

Mme. Fremstad with Bandaged Arm, Injured in Stage Struggle with Scotti.

The North German Lloyd liner Kronprinz Wilhelm, which sailed yesterday morning for Plymouth, Cherbourg, and Bremen, carried a number of operatic stars which included Mme. Lillian Nordica, Mme. Olive Fremstad, and Pasquale Amato. There was also Mlle. Adelaide Genee, the dancer, who is Mrs. Frank Isitt in private life, and Annette Kellerman, the Australian swimmer.

Mme. Nordica, who was accompanied to the pier by her husband, George W. Young, wore a wonderful purple hat which attracted the attention of every one on the pier, including the German baggage porters, and which the singer proudly asserted was a specimen of her own skill.

Mme. Fremstad said that she was very tired after the strenuous opera season, and did not believe that she would sing this Summer in Europe. "I need a long rest," she said. The singer was carrying her left arm bandaged, owing to some of the ligaments being torn, she said, during her stage struggle with Scotti the last time she played "Tosca."

Amato said that he was going to sing the rôle of the Sheriff in "The Girl of the Golden West" in Rome at the Teatro Constanza during the big festival, and will be back in America in September for a concert tour of California before the grand opera season commences. Mlle. Genee said that she was looking forward to a return to this country in the Fall.

ACTRESSES AS MINSTRELS.

The performance at the Hudson Theatre yesterday afternoon for the benefit of the Professional Woman's League brought out a good-sized audience and realized several thousand dollars for the building fund of the league. The show began with a minstrel first part, with members of the league, in black face and bright costumes, forming the semi-circle. The end "men" were in satin knickerbockers, but the rest wore skirts.

The rest of the performance consisted of acts by dramatic, musical, and vaudeville stars, and included the appearance of John Mason and his company in an act from "As a Man Thinks" and an act from "Over Night."

Amelia Bingham, President of the league, made a speech, in which she told some of the objects of the organization and thanked Henry B. Harris for the use of the theatre and other managers for the use of the actors. She announced that she had received checks for $100 each from "Lotta" and from Julia Arthur Cheney.

NEW AVIATOR WEDS.

"They All Do It," Says Curtiss, "as Soon as They Get a Contract to Fly."

Robert C. St. Henry, one of the aviation pupils of Glenn H. Curtiss, and Anita Portia Murray of 126 West Sixty-fourth Street were married in Jersey City last night by the Rev. A. J. Meyer of the First Reformed Church. Mary Duncan of 311 West Forty-eighth Street was the only witness. News of the wedding was conveyed to Glenn H. Curtiss, St. Henry's teacher, last night in the lobby of the Hotel Astor by a Times reporter.

"Thunderation!" said Mr. Curtiss with a not altogether pleased expression of countenance. "Then he's the fifth or sixth of our fledgling aviators who has gone and got married as soon as he had a contract to fly for money!"

SIR HENRY WOOD DECLINES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 9.—The Times understands that Sir Henry Wood has definitely decided not to accept the New York Philharmonic Orchestra's offer of conductorship.

It was announced last Sunday that Josef Stransky had been engaged to succeed Gustav Mahler as conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. The announcement stated that Herr Stransky's engagement is for next season. Negotiations with Stransky were completed by Herr Leisels, the agent of the New York organization. Stransky is one of the most talented of the younger school of German composers.

JOHN F. WALLACE'S NEW POST

CHICAGO, Ill., May 9.—John F. Wallace, formerly chief engineer of the Panama Canal, who retired after inaugurating the American work on the canal and afterward designed the new Chicago & Northwestern passenger terminal at Chicago, which has just been completed at a cost of $25,000,000, has assumed active charge as President of Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co. of New York, who were the engineers for the new Pennsylvania Station in that city.

Among the Directors elected at the annual meeting of the company are N. W. Halsey and F. Q. Brown of New York; George Westinghouse and J. R. McGinley of Pittsburg, and Homer Loring of Boston.

WIDOW FIGHTS BRADY'S WILL.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 9.—Papers were filed in the Westchester Surrogate's office here to-day in which Mrs. Wynetta D. Brady brings contest proceedings in the Supreme Court to test the validity of the will of her husband, Arthur L. Brady of Golden's Bridge, who left an estate valued at $100,000.

By the provisions of the will, which was admitted to probate by Surrogate Miller on March 17, she inherits $2,500 in lieu of all dower rights, while the rest of the property goes to her fourteen-year-old son George Todd Brady.

In her complaint Mrs. Brady alleges that her husband was not of sound mind, and that the will was procured through undue influences. Mr. Brady makes Edward Brady guardian of his son instead of naming Mrs. Brady.

SAYS CHARITIES NEED PUBLICITY

PUBLIC KEPT IN IGNORANCE

Disbursements Not Always Understood by Donors or Even Those Who Make Them, He Thinks.

The second New York City Conference of Charities and Correction began its three days' session last night at Polytechnic Institute Hall, Brooklyn. The general subject of the evening was "Municipal Needs," and under it strong emphasis was laid on the paramount need of a more general and clearer understanding of the philanthropic field by social workers themselves, and a clearer presentment of social problems and needs to the contributing public.

This emphasis, implying that such clear understanding and portrayal of the philanthropic field may be lacking among existing charitable and philanthropic organizations, came to full flower in a somewhat heated difference of opinion and verbal cross-fire between William H. Allen, Director of the Bureau of Municipal Research, who was the chief accuser, and Dr. Edward T. Devine, Secretary of the Charity Organization Society, who defended some of the institutions attacked either directly or by implication. Both philanthropists, while disclaiming any personal feeling and insisting that they merely wanted to speak their sentiments into the record, grew flushed and perspired freely while so speaking for the record. Each was applauded by an enthusiastic coterie of delegates, of whom some 200 were present. The conference was presided over at first by President Cyrus L. Sulzberger and later by Mr. Allen.

The fire which Mr. Allen drew from Mr. Devine began to simmer when Mr. Allen, as Chairman, presented the report of the Committee on Municipal Needs, of which he read only extracts. In the report he deplored the lack of information disseminated by social workers among private philanthropists concerning the real needs of the public.

"Instead of consulting a list of work needing to be done and of community needs that should be met," he said, "givers are now forced to go to lawyers and doctors and other persons familiar only with some particular fraction of the community problem. One of the greatest needs of New York City is for some central clearing house which shall pass on the truth about municipal needs not yet met. The present provision for passing upon charitable work does not go beyond certifying to the ostensible integrity of the appealing agency.

"A description of needs not yet met has never been welcomed by private philanthropists, and there is no organization in New York City whose business it is to welcome information about work that should be done. Giving is thus far organized on the principle that 'to him that hath shall be given,' rather than that to him that needeth shall be given in proportion to his need.

"No one now feels free to tell the truth about private giving. We must stop applauding philanthropists for spending money in ways that manufacture social problems, obstruct progress, and hamper both public and private philanthropy in meeting social needs.

"After four years no financial report has been issued by the Russel Sage Foundation in spite of the fact that the knowledge of what that Foundation is doing, where and at what cost, is probably the most important contribution that the Foundation itself could make.

"New York City and the Nation need an organ of publicity that shall tell the truth about municipal needs and about public and private giving without fear or favor. It is respectfully suggested that one of the great foundations establish and endow an organ for expressing public sentiment with respect to giving and refusals to give.

"The recent child welfare exhibit is an illustration of the disadvantages under which givers labor when facts as to needs and method of meeting needs are not known. It would be difficult to find in any political department of New York City's Government any expenditure of time and money where the gap between what might have been accomplished with money and what was accomplished, and the gap between the opportunities seen by those spending the money and the opportunities used, equal that of the welfare exhibit. Yet who of us feels free to state publicly the facts which members of the committee in charge and those of us most intensely interested in the problem of child welfare freely discuss in private?

"The Committee on Municipal Needs recommends the continuance of a committee under this same heading, with instructions from the conference to prepare for submission to the third annual conference a list of opportunities for private givers of amounts small and large, which will be analogous to the corporate stock budget and the current expense budget prepared by the city officials as a measure of their obligation and opportunity to meet municipal needs."

Controller Prendergast, discussing "Municipal Needs in the Budget Estimates," likewise touched upon the need of a thorough understanding and portrayal of the problems of charitable and philanthropic work among the social workers themselves.

"There has been too much disposition shown in the last year to criticise and find fault with the Board of Estimate as lukewarm towards social workers, unless all the requests of what I might call the 'Social Service Department' are granted immediately," he said. "We are not lukewarm towards social service nor lacking in sympathy for public needs. But we do insist, and shall continue to insist on learning just how each disbursement is to be devoted and how much each dollar disbursed is really needed, and whether the men at the head of the departments disbursing the money understand and can explain the purposes to which every dollar is put. If the city is to do its duty to the Social Service Department I demand that the Social Service Department shall also do its duty to the city."

Dr. Devine, who was to lead the discussion of the Controller's paper, declared that he indorsed all the Controller had said about the responsibility of social workers to fit themselves intelligently to discharge their duty to the public. Then he turned to the statements made earlier by Mr. Allen. He said he took it that Mr. Allen's insistence on the need of having a central clearing house and an organ of publicity to tell the truth about municipal needs and about public and private giving was an implication that the Charity Organization Society's Bureau of Advice and Information is not doing that work.

"I felt a little aggrieved at that statement in the report," he said. "The implication is that we are afraid to discuss these things freely or have some sort of feeling of obligation or favor to the agency which does the giving or with which we deal. I am not speaking with personal feeling, but only to get my sentiments into the record.

"I also wish to deal with Mr. Allen's statement that the Russell Sage Foundation has published no financial report in four years. When the Sage Foundation does get ready to publish its financial report, I may say, it would look in vain as a model for the financial report of the Bureau of Municipal Research. The Bureau of Municipal Research has chosen its own time and channels of publicity—and wisely, I think—and it should allow the same latitude to this other private philanthropy."

Mr. Allen was on his feet in a moment. "If Dr. Devine doesn't find himself in hotter water in the next few weeks than ever before in his life," he said, "by the statements he has just put into the record, I'll eat the record. I serve notice that we have drawn some fire. I confess that I did not suppose Dr. Devine felt as free as he said he did to say the things he has just been free enough to say. I am going to ask Dr. Devine why, when a man is willing to give $2,000,000 for an orphan asylum in New York City, the matter is not made public. I am going to make it my business to know why men ready to give cannot, despite Dr. Devine's freedom, learn how and where to give. For pity's sake, let him get busy and tell them before they die!"

Mr. Allen added that the Bureau of Municipal Research had issued a report, and that if Dr. Devine had not seen it it was the fault of his Bureau of Information. Dr. Devine said the Bureau of Information never got the report, and Mr. Allen promised with warm emphasis that it would, by mail, this very morning.

To-day the conference will hold three sessions, morning, afternoon, and night, in the United Charities Building, 105 East Twenty-second Street, to discuss "Public Institutions," "Families," and "The Sick."

"POMANDER WALK" AGAIN.

Children to Repeat Play To-day—New Haven Performance Saturday.

Children will repeat their performance of "Pomander Walk" at Wallack's Theatre this afternoon for the benefit of those who were not able to see the benefit performance a few weeks ago. The cast will be the same, with the exception of Sydney Ray Melven, who played Dr. Sternroyd, but who is now in another play that has a matinée to-day.

On Saturday the children will go to New Haven to give a matinée performance at the Hyperion Theatre, under the auspices of the Mothers' Aid Society and the Italian Day Nurseries there. They will travel in a special car, and have an automobile ride from the station to the theatre, and will be entertained by society people before they return to New York. At the New Haven performance the prologue especially written for the children's performance will be read by Miss Ruth Phillips, the daughter of a Connecticut clergyman. The Yale orchestra will furnish the music.

STAGE ROUTE PIONEER DEAD.

George Shepherd, for years a power in the old stage routes in this city, died yesterday at 322 West Twenty-second Street, where he had lived for close on to half a century. He was born in a house at Sullivan and Prince Streets ninety-one years ago, and was in the stage business from his boyhood until 1885, when he sold the stage line owned by Johnson & Shepherd to the old Broadway Railroad.

When Shepherd was fifteen he became a conductor on one of the first stage routes established in the city, which ran from the Astor House through the east side to the old Dry Dock route. While he was conductor, Francis A. Palmer, who was later to become President of the Old Broadway Bank, was the driver of the stage, an elaborate one, much befurbished and upholstered. It was in this vehicle that Shepherd took up to the residence section the first news of the big fire of 1835. He and Palmer went into partnership, owning or controlling many of the lines until Palmer founded the Broadway Bank. Then came the partnership of Johnson & Shepherd.

Shepherd owned the Knickerbocker line at the time of the civil war. It ran from the Grand Central Station, at Thirtieth Street and Ninth Avenue, down Eighth Avenue through Bleecker, and from there down Broadway to the Battery. Then there was the Empire Line, the Phoenix Line, and the Yellow Bird Line. When he sold the Broadway Line in 1885 to make way for the horse cars, he was running seventy stages and his business flourished. When Jacob Sharp was arrested in the scandal connected with the purchase of the Broadway street car franchise from the "Boodle" Aldermen, Shepherd went on his bond for $40,000.

He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. G. W. Irving, and two sons, Scott B. Shepherd and Frank A. Shepherd. Mrs. Shepherd died a year ago last January at the age of 89.

T. W. HIGGINSON, HISTORIAN, DEAD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 9.—Col. Thomas Wentworth Higginson, historian and author, minister and soldier, one of the last of the group of famous scholars and Abolitionists of half a century ago, died at his home here to-day, aged 87 years.

Nine years before the civil war began Thomas Wentworth Higginson was expelled from the church of which he held the ministry for his anti-slavery views; nine years after the present century began he came to this city to attend one of the Simplified Spelling Conferences. All the intervening years were filled with a like readiness to accept the views which seemed to him progressive, and he could count among the causes in which he had been a pioneer such varied interests as the athletic movement and women's rights, religious liberalism and higher education.

Born in Cambridge, Mass., in 1823, the son of Stephen Higginson, Steward of Harvard, he was from his earliest days surrounded by literary influences. He entered Harvard at the age of 13 and was graduated in 1841 when he was 18. The late Prof. Charles Eliot Norton was one of the first and greatest of his friends, and he also formed a close intimacy with Edward Everett Hale. As soon as he had his degree, Mr. Higginson entered the Harvard Divinity School and in 1847 was called to the ministry of the First Religious Society of Newburyport, Mass.

The young preacher's strong anti-slavery views soon got him into trouble. Many of his congregation were sea captains who believed in the peculiar institution, and one of them was the man who cast William Lloyd Garrison into jail. They soon tired of the fervent abolitionist and he went to Worcester, where with Theodore Parker he established the Free Church, as remarkable for the liberality of its religious as of its secular views. During this pastorate, which lasted for six years, Mr. Higginson was concerned in the attempt to rescue Anthony Burns from the Boston Court House. A man was killed in the melée and he, with Wendell Phillips and Theodore Parker, was indicted for murder. The case was, however, dropped on the discovery of an informality in the papers.

In 1856 Mr. Higginson took part in the civil strife which marked the struggle for the control of Kansas. He served on the staff of James H. Lane, and recounted his experiences in that wild land in a pamphlet, "A Ride Through Kansas." There, too, he formed the acquaintance of John Brown of Osawatomie, and when that agitator was captured, was ready to make an attempt at rescue if Brown had not himself forbidden it.

Meanwhile Mr. Higginson gave up the ministry and turned to literature. His first article for the Atlantic Monthly, "Saints and Their Bodies," dealt with his favorite topic, physical exercise. He followed it up with a series of essays, many of which were published in book form as "Outdoor Essays." It was during this period that Mr. Higginson became intimate with such men as Emerson, Longfellow, Whittier, Holmes, Lowell, and Thoreau, and in his old age he had many things to tell of this brilliant circle.

Longfellow had been his instructor in modern languages at Harvard, and distinguished himself by the introduction of humane methods of teaching. He was said to have been the first to call the students by the title of "Mr." When Thoreau first lectured Mr. Higginson was present, and he recalled how it was necessary on his first appearance to force people to come and hear him. Oliver Wendell Holmes was a man of slight stature and boyish appearance, and Mr. Higginson told of the woman patient who drove him from her bedside because she would not take advice from a lad.

When the civil war began the well-known kindliness that Mr. Higginson had for negroes made him appear to be particularly fitted for a command in a black regiment. He was at first gazetted Captain in the Fifty-first Massachusetts Volunteers, but resigned to become Colonel of the First South Carolina Volunteers. In spite of the declaration of the South that white officers of negro regiments would be shot if captured, Col. Higginson led his men through two hot campaigns. He captured Jacksonville, Fla., and was wounded at Milltown Bluff, S. C., with the result that he was forced by ill-health to resign.

Returning to Newport, R. I., Col. Higginson took up again his literary work, one of the first of his books being "Army Life in a Black Regiment," in which he gave a vivid account of the difficulties of service with men not one of whom was able to read or write. He resided at Newport till 1878, and his principal writings during that period were "Malbone, an Oldport Romance," "Atlantic Essays," "Oldport Days," and "Young Folk's History of the United States." In 1878 he went back to Cambridge and there wrote "Short Studies of American Authors," "Common Sense About Women," "Life of Margaret Fuller Ossoli," "Larger History of the United States," "The Afternoon Landscape," "Poems and Translations," and "Concerning All of Us."

Col. Higginson was selected by the State of Massachusetts to compile the official "Naval and Military History of Massachusetts in the Civil War," and in the last fifteen years of his life published mainly reminiscences, including "Cheerful Yesterdays," "Old Cambridge," and "Contemporaries and Lives of Longfellow and Whittier." As an author he was reckoned particularly happy in his style, and his writings breathed an abundant belief in Americanism and the forward movement of his times.

He became also well known as an orator, his reputation being assisted by his fine figure and military bearing and the courtesy and ease of his manners. In politics he was an ardent reformer, and he was at all times ready to resist any party action which offended his strong ideas of right and wrong. In 1880 he opposed the nomination of Grant for a third term, and was one of the Committee of One Hundred which was pledged to form a new party if the General's name was pressed.

The Colonel was a warm friend of women's education, and was one of those with sufficient courage to attend the first Women's Rights Convention. He served two years in the Massachusetts Legislature, and was also during his long life a Director of the Cambridge Public Library, a member of the Visiting Board of Harvard, and President of the Phi Beta Kappa Societies. He was also a Vice President of the Liberal Congress of Religions, and was a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and of the Royal Society of Canada.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Mabel Hite's season at Wallack's Theatre in "A Certain Party" will end Saturday night. She will resume her engagement in the same piece at this theatre next Fall.

"The Balkan Princess" will end its run at the Casino Theatre Saturday night in order that Louise Gunning and Vida Whitmore may begin rehearsals of "Pinafore" for the production that is to open at this house on May 29. The Casino will be dark for two weeks, while the rehearsals are in progress.

At the Lambs Club ladies' gambol at The New Theatre next Friday afternoon a feature will be the appearance together of Joe Weber and Lew Fields in one of their song and dance numbers that they gave thirty years ago when they played in the variety theatres.

The Bavarian actors at the Irving Place Theatre will appear in a new play to-night, "Der Leher vom Seespitz," and on Friday and Saturday nights they will present the comedy, "Der Dorfpfarrer."

MUSIC NOTES.

Miss Carmela Ponsillo, soprano, will give a song recital at Carnegie Chamber Music Hall next Sunday evening. She will be heard in airs from "La Boheme," "Romeo et Juliette," and "Aida."

Miss Kitty Cheatham, whose American tour ended in Cleveland, Ohio, on Monday, sails to-day on the Lusitania. Miss Cheatham's first recital in London will be given on May 25 at the Little Theatre. She will appear at the Renaissance Theatre in Paris on June 2.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

HENRY MILLANG.—Henry Millang, salesman of 227 West Twentieth Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,324 and no assets.

HERMAN HARVERS.—Herman Harvers of 4,532 Park Avenue, formerly a saloon keeper, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,947 and assets $450 in accounts.

BARDIN HAL COMPANY.—Judge Hough has appointed William Blau receiver in bankruptcy for the Bardin Hal Company of Third Avenue and 105th Street. Assets are $1,500.

MELVIN T. HARD.—Melvin T. Hard of 158 West 131st Street, formerly a dealer in paper at 25 Beekman Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $38,446 and no assets.

ABRAHAM & BALLMAN.—Selig Abraham & Morris Ballman, who compose the firm of Abraham & Ballman, dealers in men's and women's furnishing goods, at 36 Avenue A, have made an assignment to Bertram L. Kraus. They began business a year ago.

HYMAN MARKUN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Hyman Markun, manufacturer of children's cloaks at 110 and 112 Greene Street, by these creditors: A. Orently & Co., $295; Phoenix Manufacturing Co., $171, and Philip W. Rosen, $48. Judge Hough appointed Walter C. Low receiver.

JOSEPH GOLDING.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Joseph Golding, President of the Joseph Golding Realty Company of 100 West 142d Street, show liabilities of $372,948, of which $317,970 is secured and $47,041 accommodation paper of the company, and nominal assets, $137,009 in real estate, mortgaged for $130,761.

PHILLIP GASTMAN & BROTHERS.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Philip, Abraham, and Joseph L. Gastman of the firm of Philip Gastman & Brothers, manufacturers of feathers, 712 Broadway, by these creditors: H. F. Sawyer, $350; Edward C. Brennan, $211, and Cyrus Walser, $617. Liabilities are estimated at about $10,000 and assets, $5,000.

HENRY HOFFMAN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Henry Hoffman, wholesale and retail dealer in tea and coffee under the style of the Hoffman Tea and Coffee Company, at 197 Division Street, with a retail store at Wendover and Washington Avenues, the Bronx, by these creditors: Henry Nordlinger & Co., $375; Charles G. Bullard & Co., $400, and Jones Brothers Importing Company, $500. Liabilities are $10,000.

JOSEPH GOLDING REALTY COMPANY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Joseph Golding Realty Company of 100 West 142d Street show liabilities of $420,675, of which $326,000 is secured, and nominal assets of $180,037, consisting of cash in bank $37 and real estate $180,000, mortgaged for $167,000. Among the secured creditors are the American Mortgage Company, $65,000; Joseph Seewan, $65,000; Henry Bendheim, $45,000; Adolph Bendheim, $45,000; Henrietta Pappenheimer, $45,000, and Ida Blumenkrone, $30. AREF KHOURY & BROTHERS.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Aref, Naji, and Kimmil Khoury of the firm of Aref Khoury & Brothers, manufacturers of kimonos at 17 Rector Street, by these creditors: Max Frank, $148; Elias J. Cohen, $158, and the H. B. Claflin Company, $500. Judge Hough appointed Ralph Wolf receiver on application of Charles L. Greenhall, who stated that they recently issued a statement to creditors in which they stated they had a surplus of $90,000. An enormous shrinkage in assets is charged, so that a receiver was deemed necessary to ascertain the disposition of this property. Liabilities are estimated at over $20,000 and assets, $3,000. Bradstreet's took away the firm rating in January.

Discharges in Bankruptcy.

Judge Hough has granted discharges from bankruptcy to Louis Rossheim, who did business as the American Gas Arc Lamp Company at 188 Grand Street, and to Ulysses L. Truitt, clerk of 546 West 147th Street.

Judge Hough has dismissed the petition in bankruptcy, filed on April 12 against S. Wurtzel & Sons, manufacturers of hats and caps, at 454 Broadway, on a settlement at 45 cents on the dollar, cash.

DIAMONDS
1½ CARATS $39

It is true that this diamond is more suitable for a speculator than any one else; it is also true if some persons had it they would make a big profit. We are actual diamond cutters and occasionally such diamonds come through the works; when they do, we use them to advertise our business, at $39; for a diamond weighing one and one-half carats, including the ring, is an unheard of price and they seldom reach this country, as the syndicate would for reasons best known to themselves much prefer to have them sold in Europe; this is only a sample quotation of what we are offering to-day and to-morrow at prices from $28 to $500 per carat, equally as cheap, quality considered, weights from ¼ of a carat to 20 carats each. Nearly a half million dollars worth on display in our show window, near the corner of John Street. No mail orders can be filled.

HOTELS AND RESTAURANTS.

needs but little comment. It is well known that there is no restaurant in the city serving such an exceptionally good dinner as ours for seventy-five cents. It is carefully prepared of the best the market affords, and served in a manner to appeal to the most fastidious palate.

The entertaining of our guests is in itself an attraction. Singing that IS singing by artists that ARE artists. Popular and classical selections and the beautiful melodies of the Magyar land—these are rendered by the finest Hungarian orchestra in the country. And over all, the delightful atmosphere of refined camaraderie! You will find the Café Boulevard entirely different from any other place.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES for the Southern District of New York.—In the matter of J. B. & J. M. CORNELL COMPANY, Bankrupt.—Order to show cause.

Pursuant to the petition of A. Gordon Murray and Michael Blake, receivers heretofore appointed by this court of the bankrupt herein, presented this day to this court and to be duly filed in the office of the Clerk thereof,

Let any and all persons or corporations having an interest in the within proceeding, or in the property of the bankrupt, J. B. & J. M. Cornell Company, or their attorneys, show cause on the 19th day of May, 1911, before the undersigned Judge of this court in the Court House and Post Office Building, Borough of Manhattan, City and Southern District of New York, in Room 72 thereof, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, or at any date or place to which the same may be duly adjourned, why the bid of the New York Trust Company and Sarah K. Cornell, holders of outstanding receivers' certificates, and the separate and correlated bid of the bondholders of the J. B. & J. M. Cornell Company be not accepted, or in lieu thereof why the receivers should not receive further instructions, or why such other disposition should not then and there be made of the matter as to the court may seem just and proper, and it is further Ordered that notice of this motion be given by publishing this order for five consecutive days in The New York Times and once in The Cold Spring Recorder, and by mailing a copy thereof on or before the 12th day of May, 1911, to every known creditor of the bankrupt at the Post Office address stated to be his on the books of the bankrupt or otherwise known, to the United States Mortgage & Trust Company, Trustee under the mortgage covering the plant of the bankrupt, and to any and all known holders or pledgees of the bonds secured by said mortgage, and to all persons having claims against the receivers or Trustee for merchandise furnished to them as receivers or for any other cause, and to the contractors with whom the bankrupt or the receivers thereof have work in progress, and by furnishing to such persons as shall apply therefor a copy of the said petition dated the 8th day of May, 1911, and of this order.

POLO PRACTICE ON LONG ISLAND FIELDS

On the Rockaway Club field at Cedarhurst, L. I., swept by cold breezes, but otherwise in prime condition, the British army officers, who, in all probability, will compose the team that will play against the Meadow Brook champions for the International Polo Cup, yesterday easily disposed of a quartet, including one English and three American players, by a score of 15 goals to 2 in six periods of seven and a half minutes each.

The English ponies were on keen edge despite their recent trip from Lakewood, and their riders expressed their unqualified approval of conditions and facilities prevailing at their new quarters. It was understood that the grounds were a shade better than those at Westbury, where the Meadow Brooks are practicing, and the visiting players were quite pleased with the efforts made by their host, William A. Hazard, to get together a team of representative players who would afford the Englishmen fair practice.

In white, Capt. Lloyd directed at No. 3; Capt. Cheape played forward, Capt. Edwards was at No. 2, and Capt. Barrett, who has been reported as leaving the team and being on his way to Mexico, was at back. On the opposing side in red, F. H. Prince was forward, Capt. Wilson at No. 2, George E. Johnson at No. 3, and J. Cheever Cowdin back.

The opening play was sharp on the part of Capt. Wilson, who scored in thirty seconds for the reds. Not again until late in the fifth period did he visit the white goal, and none of his colleagues ever got within touch of it. The team, however, gave the officers many hard scrimmages, and the ball was kept well in play for long intervals.

The speed of the visitors' ponies and the clever handling they received quickly afforded opportunities for piling up goals so that from a scoring point of view the game appeared very one-sided. Three times the whites registered in the first bout and four goals were negotiated in the second period, by which time the military contingent had struck their stride and begun to settle down to real polo.

In the third session matters warmed up considerably, and the fourth was a hot period with obstruction and exchanges stubborn enough to satisfy the most exacting critic. By the time the fifth period was about closing play had reached its most interesting flavor, and the best polo of the day came in the two minutes and forty seconds overtime, when Capt. Wilson and G. E. Johnson were at the top of their form.

The final bout kept every player on the field busily engaged. Johnson set the pace by a run, including three hard drives past the clubhouse, but his support did not follow with precision, and better team play on the part of the British lost the red side control of the ball. Capt. Edwards's goal at this stage was made by an under-pony stroke in quarterfield cast.

Capt. Cheape, whose angle shots to the goal all afternoon were truly remarkable, wound up affairs by an acute angle drive after a lot of dribbling on the part of the company, that once more demonstrated his adaptiveness to any place on the team.

The line-up yesterday was totally different from any previous arrangement of the English players, and the position play adhered to must have proved to Capt. Lloyd that his associates are to be depended upon regardless of how he may place them. Capt. Barrett, who has heretofore not been seen to advantage, played consistently and as a valuable factor.

Second period—Edwards, 1; Cheape, 3.

At Westbury Field yesterday, on the estate of J. S. Phipps, the Meadow Brook champion team—L. Waterbury, J. M. Waterbury, H. P. Whitney, and Devereaux Milburn—defeated a quartet arranged impromptu, consisting of C. C. Rumsey, Malcolm Stevenson, Foxhall P. Keene, and R. La Montague, all high-rated players, who have afforded the cup defenders effective practice at Lakewood on several occasions.

The weather was too cold and the field not in the best shape as a result of rain, but the footing was elastic and the ball drove well.

Opposition was strong at frequent intervals, especially in the first period, and while goal defense weakened in the second and thereafter on the part of the freebooters, their carriers were long and direction fair. The Meadow Brooks played better than for two weeks past. These two teams have drawn matters pretty close sometimes, and at others been far apart as to aggregate score in direct proportion to the shape the Waterbury brothers happened to be in. Rene La Montagne made his reappearance after a couple of weeks' rest since his mishap at Lakewood, when a blow from a mallet cut his left arm. His play yesterday left little trace of the accident, but he played at back to reserve his strength. Stevenson was hardly up to form, and Keene was effective in the middle of the team at intervals.

The score when play closed was 8 goals to 3 in favor of Meadow Brook.

Hereafter it may be arranged so that the Englishmen and the cup defenders play at their respective fields on alternate days.

Shooting at Bergen Beach Traps.

Interesting shooting was witnessed in the monthly fixture of the Bergen Beach Gun Club over their traps on the shore of Jamaica Bay, yesterday. The feature was a special event for prizes offered by C. S. Medler and J. P. Dannefelser. The conditions called for a gun-below-the-elbow shoot at 25 targets for Classes A, B, and C. Class A shot from the 18-yard mark, and the winner was John H. Hendrickson, who broke 22 of the flying blue rocks. A. V. Suydam, with a total of 20 "kills" won Class B. The division shot from the 17-yard mark. Class C was won by H. Westhall with a total of 21 out of a possible 25 targets. The division shot from the 16-yard mark. In addition, there were several trophy shoots. The scores:

Aviator Harmon Off to Europe.

Clifford B. Harmon, Vice President of the National Council of Aero Clubs and champion amateur aviator of the United States, sails to-day on the Cunard liner Lusitania. Mr. Harmon will see Claude Grahame-White and other European aviators while abroad, and will arrange several important aviation matters, which will have an important bearing on the future of the science in this country.

WELLS AND BROWN MATCHED.

Matt Wells, the lightweight champion of England and K. O. Brown, the east side idol, were matched yesterday to box in a ten-round bout before the Twentieth Century A. C., in the St. Nicholas Rink, on June 1. The men, through their managers, George McDonald of London, and Danny Morgan, agreed to scale in at 133 pounds, at 3 o'clock. There was a long parley before the agreement was reached, as Morgan held out for 133 pounds at 4 o'clock, while McDonald was equally insistent that the weights should be 134 at 2 o'clock.

Charley White, the well-known referee, who was decided upon as the third man in the ring, was asked for his views on the matter, and after he had acted as a mediant, the weight decision was reached.

Wells will leave England on Saturday, and is expected here by May 19 or 20. He is said to be in capital shape at the present time, and is expected to be in much the same form as when he beat Freddie Welsh for the title in London recently. This will be his second visit to the States, and while it was conceded that he had not cut very much of a swath the last time he was here, those most interested agreed that he must have come on quite a bit to be able to annex the English title.

During the progress of the matchmaking it developed that McDonald's father had prepared John C. Heenan for his battle against Tom Sayres, a half century ago, and later handled John L. Sullivan in his memorable fight at Chantilly, when the then American champion fought Charley Mitchell.

JOHNNY MARTO BEATEN.

Jack Britton, the Chicago lightweight who is credited with a victory over Packey McFarland, gave Johnny Marto, the west side boxer, the beating of his career last night at the Twentieth Century Club's show, and made him look like an absolute novice. He was on top of the local boy throughout, using his left to such good purpose that Marto seemed in a trance most of the time.

Britton, who is a newcomer in these parts, made a most favorable impression with his cleverness, and aside from a slight cut on the mouth, was unmarked at the finish. Marto, on the other hand, was considerably chopped up. He showed every inclination to fight foul, and was continually warned by the referee, Charley White, for holding and using unfair tactics.

BOXING CHAMPION SUSPENDED

James Jarvis, the national amateur champion lightweight boxer, drew a six months suspension yesterday from the Registration Committee of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union.

This infliction was doled out to Jarvis, a member of the Union Settlement A. C. as the result of his defection in the final round of the Metropolitan boxing championships recently held by the Irish-American A. C., during which he demurred from the ruling of the referee.

The matter of the Pennant A. C. road race, which was declared a fizzle by the referee of the event, Herman Obertubessing, handicapper of the Metropolitan Association, and from whose decision, according to the rules, there could be no recourse, was taken up. Obertubessing stood by his decision, which made the race void, but was willing to allow the Registration Committee to handle it any way they chose. They have the matter under advisement, and the inclination is to let the race stand as run.

The bunch of schoolboys, who competed in what was said to have been an unsanctioned race at the Hollywood race track last August were all reinstated. These included K. A. Morgan, F. S. Reynolds, E. S. Dunning, J. P. Taylor, R. N. Scharck, and H. W. Ross.

A. L. Magill, Paulist A. C., who broke his novice at the Father Mathew T. A. B. Society games in January by getting first prize in the one mile race, and then entered the 60 yards novice event at the Spanish War Veterans games, was suspended for one month.

F. Doherty, St. Mary's A. C. was suspended for nonappearance at the meeting. Joseph J. Buckley, I. A. A. C., who competed in an unsanctioned meet in Newark was reinstated. The case against R. L. Duffy, Mohegan A. C., who broke his novice about two years ago, and signed that he was not a novice was dismissed. A. C. King, and W. Goode, Alpha P. C. C., who competed in Smart Set games, were reinstated.

Porky Flynn Defeats Savage.

BOSTON, May 9.—"Porky" Flynn of Boston sent Jim Savage of New Jersey to the mat so frequently during six rounds of a scheduled twelve-round bout at the Armory Athletic Association to-night that the referee stopped the match in the ninth round and gave the decision to Flynn. Savage, although slow, showed to fair advantage in the first three rounds. After Flynn sent him down with a right to the midriff and followed with a left to the jaw, which staggered the New Jersey man in the fourth, it was Flynn all the way through. Savage was so weak that several times he nearly fell through the ropes.

Jones and Brooks Draw.

Willie Jones of Brooklyn and Joe Brooks, the English bantam, fought a good ten-round draw last night at Brown's gymnasium. The bout was full of action from the start, and in the early rounds the Brooklynite forced the fighting and had a comfortable lead. His fast work compelled him to slow up, and in the last half the Briton came strong, and by his constant work evened the score before the final bell. Jones proved to be the best at infighting and worked both his left and right to the body hard in the clinches. Brooks also showed to good advantage at close range, but did far better work in the last three rounds than in the early ones.

Neither boy was in any danger of a knockout at any stage of the encounter, both being on their feet and willing to mix matters as the bell sounded.

Gotch to Wrestle Hackenschmidt.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Frank Gotch, world's champion wrestler, to-night announced that he would sign articles to-morrow for a championship match with George Hackenschmidt, the "Russian Lion," to be decided in the Chicago American League Baseball Park on Sept. 24. Gotch will receive $21,000 for his share of the purse, win or lose. Terms of the contest were agreed on to-night, it is said.

Zybszko* Defeats Schmidt.

NEW HAVEN, May 9.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, the Polish champion, won two straight falls from Paul Schmidt, the Swiss wrestler, here to-night. The first came in twenty-two minutes and thirty seconds and the other in ten minutes.

Gershel Wins Billiard Tourney.

The final two games of the amateur 18.2 balk line billiard tournament at Maurice Daly's Billiard Academy, Forty-ninth Street and Broadway, were decided yesterday afternoon and evening. William Gershel, who won both games, was also proclaimed the winner of the tournament. In the afternoon contest Gershel defeated John Siwel by the score of 250 to 130. He made the high run of 59, with an average of 8 18-29. Siwel made a hgih run of 27, and an average of 4 19-30. Gershel required twenty-nine innings to make his necessary tally, while it took Siwel thirty innings to score his 130 points. In the evening contest Gershel defeated Florian Tobias by the score of 250 to 193, in thirty-six innings. Gershel's high run ow 44, with an average of 6 34-36. Tobias's best efforts netted him a high run of 31, with an average of 5 13-36.

The tournament, the purpose of which was to decide the championship of Daly's Billiard Academy, started on May 1, with Gershel, Siwel, Tobias, and Willis Thompson as contestants. Two games were to be played every day, and the winner of the game had to make 250 points. In addition to the billiard championship of the academy, there was also a silver loving cup offered as a prie for the winner of the tournament. The contestants finishing in second and third places, respectively, were to receive a pair of diamond sleeve buttons for second place and an umbrella for third place. The winners of these pries were as follows: William Gershel, first prie; Florian Tobias, second prie, and John Siwel, third prie.

Tie in Pool Tournament.

Edward Gilmore defeated Dr. William Howe last night in what was to have been the final match to decide the winner of first place in the amateur pool tournament, which started at John Doyle's Forty-second Street Billiard Academy last November with 31 entrants. Gilmore won by the score of 80 to 69, and by his victory Gilmore has created a tie for first place with Howe. Of the 31 contestants which started in the tournament last November, the two players that contested in last night's game were the only ones eligible to try for first place in the tournament. This will be decided this evening. Johnny Kling, catcher of the Boston National League baseball team, officiated as referee at last night' game.

SPLIT THREATENED IN AVIATION RANKS

A split is imminent in the ranks of the aviators, and unless the National Council of the Aero Clubs of America fully recognize the authority and standing of the Aero Club of America there is every prospect of the council coming to a speedy and ignominious end within the next six months. This is the view of the present situation, as expressed, not only by the members of the Aero Club, but also by those affiliated with the National Council. The future existence of the council is said to depend on the action of the Executive Committee of the National Council, to be held Saturday morning, May 20, in the council clubroom, Engineering Building, Thirty-ninth Street, west of Fifth Avenue.

Secretary J. King Duffy of the National Council was instructed yesterday by President Robert J. Collier to call a special meeting of the Executive Council of the National Council in order to receive the report of the joint committee on agreement relative to the rejection of the modified agreement by the Aero Club of America. Relations between the two organizations have reached a critical stage, as there is a growing sentiment among the members of the Aero Club that the National Council made a deliberate attempt to reduce the standing of the Aero Club to that of other aeronautical associations, and nothing but a complete backdown will satisfy these members.

When the agreement was presented to the Aero Club for ratification it was found that one of the most important clauses agreed upon was eliminated. This clause gave the right to the Aero Club to pass upon all applications for membership into the council, and made it incumbent on the members of the National Council to be affiliated with the Aero Club. As the Aero Club is the only organization officially recognized by the International Aeronautical Federation, it was essential to the interests of aviation that the National Council should not overlook this important fact, especially as all records made in the United States must be approved by the Aero Club of America before becoming official.

In order to safeguard against any attempt to juggle the performances of aviators, the Aero Club insisted that clubs joining the National Council should affiliate themselves with the Aero Club for protection and also to keep the sport clean. By eliminating this clause in the agreement, the National Council offered a loophole for ill-managed meets and lack of proper observation of performances at meets sanctioned by the National Council.

The council is not in a position to fight the Aero Club, owing to dissensions in its ranks. Not more than half a dozen of the thirty-five clubs could be depended upon to make a clean-cut fight, while the affiliated members of the Aero Club number over twenty-five. President Allan A. Ryan of the Aero Club, who is Chairman of the joint committee, did not attempt to take advantage of these conditions, and conceded many points in the interests of harmony. His position was unanimously supported by the Aero Club at a recent general meeting of the members of the organization, and the concessions thus granted were taken as a sign of weakness on the part of the Aero Club, and it is believed that an attempt was made to take advantage of it.

The Aero Club does not charge any fee for a license, while the National Council assesses all clubs $30 a day for a sanction and the additional cost of observers and other officials. In view of this it is not thought that National Council clubs will agree to break off relations with the Aero Club, although it is known that several members of the Executive Committee are in favor of throwing down the gauntlet to the Aero Club and bring the controversy to an issue.

At the meeting of the Board of Governors of the Aero Club yesterday the subject was thoroughly discussed and the stand made by President Ryain indorsed. It was felt that every consideration had been shown to the National Council, and if the affiliation clause of the agreement is not inserted in the agreement, further negotiations will be broken off and the Aero Club will act independently of the National Council. This would mean the death blow to the council and the return of absolute control of American aviation to the Aero Club.

A protest was read at the meeting from the Milwaukee Aero Club against the admission of another club as the representative of the State of Wisconsin. The protest was referred to a committee, which will report at the next meeting of the club.

The Aero Club will vacate its present headquarters in the Engineering Building Monday and move into its new clubhouse, southeast corner of Forty-first Street and Madison Avenue. Secretary G. B. Campbell Wood has written to the Presidents of all affiliated clubs and pilots of the Aero Club, inviting them to attend the formal opening of the club the first week in June.

Horse Sale at Durland's.

In view of the fact that the game of polo has taken on an international aspect, the sale last night at Durland's of polo ponies, in which many likely mounts were offered, brought only ordinary prices. The consignment, which was from Minnick Brothers of Truscott, Texas, included a large variety of ponies well suited for the game, and others for park hack purposes. Very few of the lot were bid over the $200 mark.

Flash Light, a spotted gelding, 15 hands, brought the top price, being purchased by J. Weston for $410. The horse was the only one of the lot that really aroused the bidding of the crowd, and was easily considered a big bargain, as it was an exceedingly good-looking pony.

A Boston terrier was also thrown in to be bid upon, and brought $55. The dog, Butternut Boy, was a registered terrier, and with it went a collection of ribbons and an extensive pedigree.

In the harness horse division the best figure obtained was for the pair of seal brown cobs, Busybody and Buster Brown, winners at the Newark and Brooklyn shows. The bidding on the pair was more than was expected, and they were finally sold for $1,050 to P. Ellis.

Five o'Clock Wins at Saint Ouen.

PARIS, May 9.—The Prix Verdi, run at Saint Ouen to-day, was won by Nash Turner's Five O'Clock.

Record Entry for Syracuse Fair Races.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 9.—Early closing entries for the State Fair Grand Circuit meeting here Sept. 11 to 16, were announced to-day. All events have filled well. For the Empire State (2:14) $10,000 Trotting Stake there are thirty-six entries, a new record. In all there are 118 entries for the six events. This is a new record for the local meeting.

Century Road Run on Sunday.

The fifteenth annual Spring century run of the New York Division, Century Road Club of America, will be held next Sunday. The course is from Prospect Park Plaza to Hicksville, L. I., and return, and will be made in several divisions. The first division will leave promptly at 8 A. M.

ELECTION IN LITTLE BOARD.

The closeness of the contest at the annual election of the Consolidated Stock Exchange made some results doubtful until yesterday morning, when the names of the successful candidates were announced from the rostrum. The tellers had been at work on the count until 3 o'clock in the morning. Robert M. Jarvis, who was re-elected President on the independent ticket in opposition to Ogden D. Budd, fell behind C. C. Jacobus, independent candidate for Second Vice President, and W. T. Marsh, a candidate for the Arbitration Committee on the independent ticket.

W. L. S. Webster, who was the regular nominee for First Vice President, defeated his opponent, S. A. Luther, by only one vote. E. R. Grant, Treasurer, and Valentine Mott, Chairman, who were on both tickets, were re-elected. Governing Board members were elected as follows: E. C. Adams, Jr., L. McLaughlin, J. Frank Howell, O'Connor De Cordova, John E. Hoey, and F. A. Farnsworth, candidates on the regular ticket; S. W. Curtis and Lionel Sturges, candidates on the independent ticket; W. W. Erwin and N. W. Peters, candidates on both tickets.

Former President C. H. Badeau was elected a Trustee of the Gratuity Fund on the independent ticket.

SPEECHES AT STEEL DINNER.

Official Report of What Was Said About Agreements and Price Cutting.

Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Steel Corporation and head of the American Iron and Steel Institute made public yesterday the official transcript of the informal speeches at last week's dinner of the institute at the Waldorf. The leading steel and iron men of the country get together twice a year under the auspices of the institute and discuss business conditions. Judge Gary has frequently explained that the institute is in no sense a combination in restraint of trade, and although daily newspaper representatives are never admitted to the dinners, the speeches as transcribed by the official stenographer are always made public afterward. As toastmaster, Judge Gary closed the speechmaking with this comment on price agreements:

"I would not under any circumstances ask any man to make an agreement with me as to what he would do, because I know that is not proper, because I know that is illegal, because I know it would be disapproved by the administrators of the law, and I would not ask any man to do what I would not do myself. I know that if we succeed as business men we must do it on the basis and on principles that are honest, fair, lawful, and just, and therefore we may not make any agreements of any sort or description, expressed or implied or by inference. And yet at the same time I feel confident that when I come into the open and say to any of you gentlemen that I am charging certain prices or that I am shipping certain quantities, you know I tell the truth, that you can rely upon that, you can depend upon it. You know I do not say that for the purpose of deceiving you at all, nor for any purpose except to let you know exactly what I am doing. And, therefore, as I have said before, gentlemen, we come together upon a platform that involves the honor of a man, which is far better and far higher, and far more binding upon us than any contract which we could make."

President E. A. S. Clarke of the Lackawanna Steel Company, who is Chairman of the institute's General Committee on Welfare, spoke briefly on the problems which are being worked out for the improvement of the conditions of labor. President Farrell of the Steel Corporation said that with prices from $4 to $6 a ton lower than they were when cuts were made in 1908, no further buying would be stimulated by further cuts.

Both he and Judge Gary laid the blame for the recession in business since the early months of the year on the uneasiness engendered by the extra session of Congress.

President Farrell said that railroad buying had been better in the past ten days.

It was decided yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers that automobile horns and bulbs will have to pay duty as entireties under the tariff act of 1909. The test case before the board stands in the name of the Motor Car Equipment Company, but the decision has general application to this line of articles. The horns are of metal, while the bulbs are of India rubber metal mounted.

The Appraiser of the Port reported to Collector Loeb of New York that with each bulb is packed the remaining part of the horn, the two parts constituting a complete horn, of which metal is the component material of chief value. The Collector assessed duty at 45 per cent., under the provision in the tariff for "parts of automobiles," while the importer set up the contention that as the bulbs are in chief value of rubber, horns and bulbs should be allowed to enter at 35 per cent. as "manufactures of India rubber." In finding against the contention of the Motor Car Equipment Company, the decision says:

"The record unquestionably shows that the bulbs are useless without the horns and that the horns cannot be used without the bulbs. They come packed together, and we do not believe it would be proper to separate for duty purposes such articles into parts subject to different classifications. The horns and the bulbs therefor are imported at the same time, and as each horn requires its bulb so as to be available for use, it would appear to us that such articles when imported together constitute complete assembled articles subject to classification as entireties. We hold the merchandise dutiable at 45 per cent., under Paragraph 199, and as Paragraph 141 levies this same rate, we affirm the Collector's assessment."

The Chelsea Fibre Mills and the Allentown Spinning Company have been unsuccessful before the Board of United States General Appraisers in a controversy with the customs authorities regarding the classification of metal parts for jute machinery. The goods are invoiced as "fallers without gills for push-bar drawing frames," or as "spindles or flyers," or as "steel pins." The Collector at New York assessed duty either at 45 per cent. as manufactures in chief value of metal, or at 40 per cent., as manufactures of round steel wire, under provisions of the present tariff act.

The importers alleged the articles to be dutiable properly at 30 per cent. ad valorem, under Paragraph 197, as jute manufacturing machinery. General Appraiser Fischer states in his decision that the articles in question are a number of similar individual parts intended to be used as repair parts for jute manufacturing machinery. The decision says that the machinery parts are of such a character that it is impossible to sustain the importers' contention, the Collector's classification being affirmed.

The board refused to upset the assessment of duty on merchandise claimed by the Seattle Steel Company to be old scrap wrought iron. It was returned for duty at 45 per cent. as manufactures in chief value of metal, and was claimed dutiable at $1 per ton. According to the conclusion reached by the board, the old metal is not of the character of the scrap metal for which provision is made in the paragraph claimed applicable by the importer.

Squadron A Military Games.

The eighteenth annual military games of Squadron A will be held on the parade ground at Van Cortlandt Park Saturday afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The programme consists of the following: Novice event, pony race and bending around flags, head cutting, low reach, team jumping for teams of two and four, novelty race, and rescue race. The committee in charge of the games is made up of Ridgely Nicholas, John H. Lapham, Shelton E. Martin, Peter B. Olney, Jr., and John A. Vietor.

Enchantress in Bermuda Race.

BOSTON, May 9.—The entry of the schooner Enchantress in the Bermuda ocean yacht race was announced to-night by Hollis Burgess of the committee in charge of the race. The Enchantress, which is owned by Seward V. Moot of Boston, has been cruising in the Bermuda and West Indian waters during the Winter, and is now at Nassau. She has been ordered to proceed North as quickly as possible to be ready to start in the Bermuda race from Boston on June 3. She is the fifth entry made thus far in the race. The Enchantress is a sturdy boat, 60 feet over all, 48 feet on the water line, 14 feet beam, and 7.7 feet draught. As the Takitezy she was formerly owned by C. H. W. Foster.

JAMES J. HILL FINDS CROP PROSPECT GOOD

RAILROAD FACILITIES NEEDED

New Lines Can't Be Built, He Says, Because of Great Cost of Rights of Way—Problem to be Solved.

James J. Hill, Chairman of the Great Northern Railway system, is in town with favorable news of the crop outlook. Experts in the Northwest report the ground in good condition, providing it does not have to go too long without more rains. The subsoil is dry, says Mr. Hill, but the wheat is germinating and conditions at this time point to a good harvest. The farmers are paying more attention to cultivation of their fields than they used to, which is a very good sign.

As to the general railroad outlook Mr. Hill was more dubious. He says that the country's tonnage is expanding at a rate that demands a big increase in transportation facilities, but that the profits of railroading are not enough to induce capitalists to arrange for any new construction. The great obstacle in the way is the cost of terminal property.

"The country's tonnage is increasing at an average rate of 10 per cent. a year," said Mr. Hill yesterday. "Say it doubles in ten years. To care for this we are adding 1½ per cent. annually to our railway capacity, or say 15 per cent. in the ten years. I don't know what is going to be done when we have outgrown our present facilities. It is a big problem."

The Great Northern Chairman scouted a suggestion that the increasing demand for railway transportation should induce the building of enough new lines to take care of it.

"Suppose enough money could be raised by a company to build a new line into New York, or Buffalo, or Chicago," he said. "The New York Central's total capitalization for its road to Buffalo would not buy its right of way to-day from Forty-second Street to Yonkers.

"To get a terminal at Buffalo or Chicago you would have to buy improved real estate of great value and remove the buildings. When your line was completed it would have to compete for business with roads which were built thirty or forty years ago, when valuations were low, and it could not charge more than existing rates. The present freight and passenger charges are based on the cost of property many years ago. It is a big question, which will have to be worked out."

Mr. Hill was inclined to think that business the country over is fairly good because of agricultural activity. He does not believe that merchants and manufacturers are frightened at the possibilities of new legislation. He still maintains that farmers in the Northwest are not opposed to reciprocity, even if the politicians say they are.

The fact that last year Canada had to pay this country $139,000,000 to settle its trade balance indicates the value of the Dominion as a friend, Mr. Hill said. He considers it inconsistent on the part of people who are trying to create a broader market for American manufactures to keep a barrier up against our best customer, next to Great Britain.

"Wheat is selling in Winnipeg for 2½ cents a bushel less than in Minneapolis; it varies from 2½ to 5 cents," he said. "The freight on a bushel between the two points is 9 cents. It is evident that Winnipeg wheat cannot be shipped into this country to compete with that grown in the Northwest. When the Canadian Government has built its line to Hudson Bay, grain for export will take that route. The distance to water is shorter than to Atlantic ports, and when it is delivered there it is nearer Europe than it would be at New York."

Mr. Hill was not enthusiastic over the possibility of the Great Northern's building more extensions across the Dominion border, where it now has two lines, or in fact in any part of its territory under prevailing conditions. He considers the outlook for roads already built an excellent one, but the high cost of construction an effective bar to much further expansion.

FOR FAIR BILLS OF LADING.

False Entries Must Be Omitted, the Commerce Board Decides.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—In an order issued to-day, the Inter-State Commerce Commission again directed attention to the law that no false entries shall be made upon bills of lading or other railroad records.

The order was based upon shipments of cotton, about which many irregularities have existed and numerous frauds perpetrated. The commission says that possession by compresses having only contractual relation with carriers is not possession by the carriers, and bills of lading should not be issued except upon evidence of actual possession by the carrier.

The practice of misdating bills of lading, it is pointed out, is not only a violation of the law against making false entries, but has been the occasion for frauds upon purchasers under time contracts.

The order provides, therefore, that each bill of lading issued in exchange for another bill of lading shall bear a stamp indicating concretely the nature of the exchange, with points of origin, destination, and time of making the exchange, so that all shipments, particularly of cotton, may be traced easily.

NEW PANAMA BONDS SOON.

Secretary MacVeagh to Call for Bids on $50,000,000 Issue.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—It was indicated to-day that Secretary MacVeagh will call for popular bids on an issue of $50,000,000 of Panama bonds within the next few days.

The securities will be dated June 1, and if the Treasury is unable to deliver them by that time they will carry accrued interest. The interest rate fixed by law will be 3 per cent. As they will not be available to National banks for the basis of circulation, the Treasury expects the entire offer will be subscribed by investors.

Secretary MacVeagh, as far as known, has not changed his intention of making the loan a popular one and giving preference to the smaller subscriptions. Much interest attaches to the price the Treasury will accept. This Government has never issued bonds not available for National bank circulation.

The price which a pure investment security will carry has never been determined. The new bonds could sell as high as 108 and return to the holder the highest net proceeds of any Government bond now outstanding.

DIVIDEND CUT TWO PER CENT.

Boston & Maine's Common Stock Put on 4 Per Cent. Basis.

BOSTON, May 9.—The quarterly dividend of the Boston & Maine Railroad was reduced to-day from a 6 to a 4 per cent. basis on the common stock. No action was taken on the preferred stock.

The reduction of the dividends will fall heaviest on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad as the guarantor of the preferred stock of the Boston Holding Company, which holds 211,483 shares of Boston & Maine Railroad stock and has issued 265,225 shares of preferred stock paying 4 per cent. The payment of the dividend on the remaining 54,742 shares of Holding Company preferred stock will make an expenditure by the New Haven of $171,000 yearly.

Part of this, however, will remain in the treasury of the Holding Company, as only $5,000,000 of its preferred stock has been sold, leaving $21,000,000 still in the treasury.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—Wheat developed decided weakness, influenced by the Government report and more favorable Northwestern weather conditions. The weather map showed officially scattered rains in the American and Canadian Northwest. The barometer was low, with the rain area extending from the Pacific Coast into the American Northwest. Private dispatches reported extending rainfall in both the American and Canadian Northwest. Spring wheat markets were weak, particularly Minneapolis, and led the decline. The Winter wheat news was favorable, and the Government report, with its confirmation of approximately a record crop of Winter wheat, even after the abandoned acreage was deducted, had general bearish influence. Receipts were somewhat larger, and Minneapolis reported mills closing owing to poor flour trade. Cables were generally weak, and there were reports of rains in portions of Southeastern Europe heretofore claiming need of rain. The world's visible was bullish, but was apparently without effect. The United States visible decreased 2,184,000 bushels, Canada decreased 2,420,000 bushels, and Europe decreased 7,800,000 bushels, making a total decrease of 12,404,000 bushels, following a decrease of 7,289,000 bushels the previous week. Last year the decrease was 7,278,000 bushels. Western receipts were somewhat larger apparently, the result of the premium on near deliveries, particularly at Chicago. On the break there were reports of export sales of 15 loads of red wheat from New York to Antwerp, and of 5 loads of Manitoba wheat. No. 2 red was quoted at 96⅝c, afloat, for export; No. 1 Northern, Spring, $1.08⅛; No. 2 hard, Winter, $1.02⅝; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.03½.

CORN.—The corn market was weaker, slowly easing off with wheat, although developing no pronounced pressure. The visible showed a decrease of 2,039,000 bushels, following a decrease of 2,717,000 bushels the previous week. Western receipts are increasing, however, while Eastern shipments are decreasing. The demand for cash corn is reported less urgent, both domestic and export. Weather conditions were favorable, and all reports indicate that good progress is being made with Spring work. The Iowa weekly report stated that plowing for corn was nearly finished, soil in excellent condition, and a large amount would be planted the coming week. Export sales of three loads were reported. No. 2 corn was quoted at 59c, free on board.

OATS.—The market was weaker, with favorable weather conditions generally reported, and selling was affected by the weakness in wheat and corn. The Iowa Crop Bulletin stated that small grains were making rapid growth. The visible showed a decrease of 409,000 bushels, against a decrease of 352,000 bushels the previous week. Exporters reported 90,000 bushels of Canadian oats for shipment. Standard oats were quoted at 40¼c; No. 2 white, 39⅝c; No. 3 white, 39¼c.

PROVISIONS.—The market weakened a little under bearish cables reporting the arrival in Liverpool for the day of 2,000,000 pounds of Chinese lard and 16,000 Chinese hogs. The movement of Chinese hogs to Western Europe has become quite important as a result of the high American prices, and the supply from China has been a material factor in limiting the demand upon America. Notwithstanding the decline in prices, shipments are keeping up.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Considerable pressure was in evidence for a time, with selling inspired by the reaction in the lard market, while demand at the low level did not improve materially. Crude was steadier at the South, and it was also claimed that numerous inquiries were in the market from foreigners, but these items were without effect. Estimates were current that deliveries yesterday on May contracts approximated 8,500 barrels, making a total so far for the month of about 5,000 barrels, but, as in former instances, the notices were readily taken care of. Home-consuming demand is limited, and generally of a hand-to-mouth character, as there appears to be little incentive at present for purchasing for future requirements. Crude oil quoted at 5.07@5.27c, although 5.20c was bid for crude in Texas. Future quotations follow:

COTTON.

The near positions reached new high levels again during yesterday's session, with May 8 points above the best scored last December, and July 19 points over the high of that time. August sold at 15.12, or 1 point below the top recorded last December. Trading was in increased volume during the day, with the trend of values gradually upward, and the feature most commented upon was the ability shown by the market to absorb offerings. Doubtless there was an enormous amount of long cotton liquidated, and the opinion was prevalent that brokers believed to be acting for Scales account were selling, while on the other hand the absorption was thought to be for large spot interests. Stop loss orders on the short side were also encountered, and while the technical position is probably less strained than for several weeks it is generally conceded that control of the bull party is unimpaired.

New crop months, as has been usual for several days, lagged, reflecting generally favorable conditions in the belt, although the weekly Government weather bulletin was quite a surprise, stimulating a little demand. This document stated that temperatures as a rule throughout the entire belt were unseasonably low, and, contrary to the general impression, some States were said to be in need of rain, particularly sections of the eastern belt, parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Tennessee. Undoubtedly, however, planting will make rapid progress under prevailing conditions, and conservative authorities were of the belief that need of moisture is not urgent.

Liverpool continues disposed to follow our advances, cables from there yesterday being quite up to expectations, although spot sales were only 8,000 bales. The Manchester official cable was that yarns were firm and cloths hardening, while the Continent and Liverpool were fair buyers in the foreign and also the local market during the morning, presumably for short covering. American trade advices were somewhat more encouraging, especially in reference to the print cloth market, it being claimed that asking views were firmer, while Borden was reported as having purchased through his brokers approximately 500,000 pieces of narrow print cloths for delivery to the American Printing Company during the next ten weeks, it being further claimed that it was cheaper to purchase than to manufacture these goods.

The statistical situation continues to exhibit firmness, the showing of the semi-weekly figures being extremely bullish and pointing to a heavy loss in stocks. Receipts were 9,968 bales, against 10,664 last week and 8,494 last year; shipments were 27,475 bales, against 26,887 and 14,541 respectively.

Southern spot markets were unchanged to 1/16c advance, and locally spot cotton was quiet, 10 points advance; middling uplands, 15.75c. Further tenders of May were reported, but these are being stopped by bulls and the cotton probably exported.

CLEARING HOUSE LETS TRUST COMPANIES IN

HE HAD FOUGHT THEM LONG

But Now, He Said, the Trust Companies Were on a Par with All Other Banking Institutions.

The Clearing House Association passed by an almost unanimous vote yesterday the proposed changes in the constitution making the trust companies of the city eligible for admission as full members, upon fulfilling requirements as to reserve and capital.

Seven trust companies have already taken the preliminary steps for entering the Clearing House, and one at least has called a meeting to increase its capital to $1,000,000 to qualify for admission.

This action of the Clearing House Association relieves a situation which has been looked upon for many years as a drawback to banking business in this city. The concession was not effected without opposition of banks which come into direct competition with the trust companies.

William A. Nash, Chairman of the Clearing House Committee, at whose instance the movement was started, addressed yesterday's meeting and explained the motives and advantages to be gained. He said:

"In moving the adoption of the several amendments which have to do with the admission of trust companies I desire to make a statement that is personal and not official. It is a statement and not an argument, but it may be both.

"I have figured somewhat in the past as an opponent of trust companies. I was, however, more a critic than an enemy. I recognized that they were a development of our banking system at a time when new conditions caught public favor and were operated to the damage of National and State banks. They were not altogether alien bodies. Our bank officers were on trust company boards, our Directors were their Trustees, our stockholders bought their stocks with avidity and sold them at high prices, often receiving large dividends. But in my opinion they were conducting business on a dangerous basis. They carried no reserve. So deeply had they involved bank men in their fortunes that the handful who criticised them had very little or no sympathy. Even the Banking Department was charmed into indifference over their growth and insecurity.

"Finally, in 1909, I went almost alone to Albany to appear before the Legislative Committee to protest against the no-reserve feature and to urge that 7½ per cent. be required. I was defeated, and 5 per cent. was obtained by the trust companies. That victory gave the panic of 1907 its sharpest edge. If the trust companies had surrendered much of the severity of that crisis would have been avoided.

"I said I went there almost alone. There was, however, at my side my distinguished friend, Mr. Frissell of the Fifth Avenue Bank, and I cannot feel grateful enough for his support and companionship at a time when I became so conspicuous and so unpopular with the trust companies.

"Since then we have had the panic of 1907, and the State Banking Commission of Gov. Hughes so ably headed by our Honorable President, Mr. Hepburn. There reforms were enacted into laws. I do not hesitate to say that now every criticism I have made of trust companies has been met by such changes as place them on a par with every other banking institution, State or National, so far as their security is concerned.

"I was at the time in sympathy with the acts of this Clearing House which caused the break between us and the trust companies, and have no wish to deny complicity.

"But now after this expensive alienation I urge reconciliation in the form prescribed by these amendments. We gain by these amendments a large body of solvent institutions, who will agree to our laws, submit to Clearing House control and inspection, make exchanges under this roof, and end a separation which has become an expensive scandal.

"To do this I am ready to ignore and forget wherein they differ from us and remember the important features in which we shall agree.

"We are doing more than admitting trust companies to our clearings. We are consolidating and controlling the banking powers of New York. We are performing a National service and duty. We are assisting the reform of our National finances by organizing the first National Reserve Association under a yet-unborn law, but which I believe is speedily to have life and vigor."

Only three of the forty-nine Clearing House members voted yesterday against the admission of the trust companies. The proposed establishment of a Clearing House Examiner, with a corps of assistants, who will be empowered to make periodic examinations of the Clearing House members, was also passed. The trust companies coming into the Clearing House are to submit to an initial examination by the Committee on Admissions.

The opposition to the trust companies which developed last week apparently was overruled by the arguments of the Clearing House members who desire to strengthen general banking conditions in New York. There were conferences yesterday lasting almost up to the time the meeting convened, at 2 o'clock, between the leaders of the admission movement and its opponents.

NEW DIRECTORS CHOSEN.

One of the best means by which to obtain the highest rate of income compatible with safety is to diversify your investments. For example, invest part of your money in high-grade bonds having a broad market; part in high-grade bonds of more or less limited market, and the balance in preferred stocks of high standard. The more you consider this question of diversification, the more you will appreciate its many advantages.

DEMAND FOR BONDS LIGHTER

Dwindling trading and narrow, irregular price movements marked the further progress yesterday of the recession in Stock Exchange business which began several days ago. In all but a very few stocks small fractions were enough to record the meagre net results of the transactions which yesterday as much as at any time of late represented floor trading almost exclusively. In the bond department the dealings were somewhat larger than those of Monday, but here, as in the stock market itself, the aggregate of the day's transactions was far below the larger totals recorded last week. While the prices of many issues are being well maintained there has been a noticeable let-up in the demand for long-term investments, and the short-term issues are again commanding a preponderating share of the interest which investment institutions are showing in the security markets. This it is reasonable to expect is nothing more than a natural quieting down after the decided activity which recently prevailed, for with the continuance of great ease in the money market the influences are still operative which led to the recent large increase in the purchase of long-term securities. At the same time a considerable investment demand has been filled and lessened activity in bonds would therefore not mean necessarily any change in sentiment, but would merely indicate that for the moment the bulk of the demand has been satisfied.

A decline of more than a cent in the price of wheat helped to emphasize yesterday the really satisfactory character of Monday's Government crop report, but in addition to this favorable advices from the Spring wheat territory helped along the reaction in wheat prices. The weekly summary of weather conditions in the crop-growing districts mixed the good with the bad, but recorded among other things that in the Spring wheat States farm work progressed under favorable conditions. Conditions in the cotton belt were described as being less favorable owing to low temperatures most of the week. The recent advent of warmer weather in the South furnished, however, some offset to the excess of low temperatures recorded in yesterday's weather summary. The cotton market, however, rose to a new high level for the near-by options, while the new crop months, although they rose a little, lagged much behind the earlier months.

The action of the Clearing House yesterday in opening the way to the admission of the trust companies on terms which are already in the way of being accepted by a considerable number of those institutions is an event which has far-reaching significence for the financial market of New York. The bringing together of these two groups of financial institutions in an association where they can be mutually helpful cannot but strengthen the banking position here and at the same time add to the respect with which this money market is viewed from the outside. Of great importance, too, is the improved system of examinations in favor of which the Clearing House association voted unanimously yesterday. The advantage of both these moves will be appreciated even more in the future than under the present condition of superabundant banking ease.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, May 9.—Trading in the local market, while light in volume, was well distributed throughout the list, a large part being in odd lots. The tone was strong and the list was generally fractionally higher.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

COPPERS AT A STANDSTILL

Few Issues Show Even the Smallest Changes—Southern Bell 5s and Studebaker Make Small Gains.

Curb trading was sluggish yesterday and price movements were for the most part narrowly confined. Many of the leading mining issues closed unchanged from opening prices, among them Braden, British Columbia, Inspiration, Giroux, and Kerr Lake. Greene-Cananea sold off from 6⅛ to 6 on transactions of 300 shares. La Rose closed ⅛ below the opening, as did Nipissing. Yukon Gold sold, 500 shares, at 3 15-16. Transactions in bonds were small. Southern Bell 5s sold up from 99⅝ to 99⅞, on sales of $30,000. Studebaker preferred sold, 794 shares, between 103 and 103¼, the close being at 103¼.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Tuesday.

The market proved a disappointment to those traders on the Consolidated Stock Exchange who had expected that there would be a further response to the excellent showing made by the monthly Government crop report. Business, while well distributed over a list which included forty-two different stocks, was not heavy in the aggregate—the sales totaling 25,030 shares.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Union Pacific Financing Denied.

The Union Pacific Railroad, according to those in closest touch with its management, has under consideration no financing whatever. Neither an issue of bonds nor an issue of stock, it is stated on this same authority, has as much as been discussed by the road's management or its Directors. The fact is that the Union Pacific is at present amply supplied with funds, and is prepared to go ahead with its improvement programme, as recently announced, without calling upon its stockholders or the money market at this time for additional capital. So far as the improvement programme is concerned, it was said yesterday that it is to be followed to the letter, and that further development of these plans rather than any recession from them is probable.

President Delano's Summary.

F. A. Delano, who guides the destinies of the Wabash, was at the company's New York office yesterday. He says that business is all right on his lines, and promises to be heavier in coming months. Mr. Delano says that the condition of wheat and oats is good throughout the Southwest, and that corn is now going into the ground with the very best prospects for a big yield. Fully half of last year's corn crop has not left the farmer's hands, he thinks. Fruit trees have escaped the not unusual Spring frosts, and the agricultural outlook is generally favorable. He finds that merchants and manufacturers are not laying in larger stocks than they need for current consumption, owing to the possibility of lower prices, which might result from tariff tinkering, but that the business sentiment in Wabash territory is cheerful. President Delano says that his company is not buying equipment or rails except as actually needed, and that it is economizing in every possible way, without depriving itself of necessities. Its operating figures do not suggest this, because much the same state of affairs prevailed a year ago.

Cotton Higher.

Although all of the weather news from the South yesterday was of a highly favorable character, prices on the Cotton Exchange moved up, the new crop options rising in sympathy with though in lesser degree than the near-by months, which the successful bull operators appear to have well in hand. Having already topped the January records, July made a new record shortly after the opening yesterday, and later after a brief reaction the old crop months were all making further high records, May going to 15.53, July to 15.67 and August to 15.12. The new crop months moved up to 12.97 for October and 12.85 for December. Unlike the situation at the time of the bull triumph a year ago, there is no sign so far of cotton being rushed in from the South.

Rubber Men After Government Funds.

The Brazilian rubber merchants who have been buying up the Para product for many months and have been held responsible for the rise earlier in the year, are reported in advices from London to have come to the end of their accommodation by the Bank of Brazil. This shutting down of further accommodations from this source has been given as a reason for the recent break in Para prices, and to bolster their position the Brazilian syndicate is now reported to be seeking Government support from the Governments of Para and Amazonas in much the same way that the coffee growers of Sao Paulo got help several years ago from that State. The Government help asked for is to be dispensed by a new bank financed by the Government, which will advance additional funds on the security of rubber held by the merchants.

After the foreclosure of the International & Great Northern on May 16 the operating management of the two roads will be consolidated.

At the annual election of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company the retiring Directors, together with Morris W. Torrey and John H. Giffin, nominated to fill vacancies, were unanimously elected. The Directors unanimously re-elected Henry B. Stokes, President; Morris W. Torrey and John H. Giffin, Vice Presidents; Louis Linzmeyer, Actuary; Melvin De Mott, Secretary; Frederick Mackel, Assistant Secretary.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

LONDON, May 9.—Money was easily obtainable and discount rates were quiet to-day.

Traders on the Stock Exchange were principally occupied with the carryover, and the markets were dull and irregular. Home rails declined on liquidation, and foreign securities were neglected. Canadian and gilt-edged issues improved in the afternoon. Mexican shares were quiet.

American securities were quiet and steady during the forenoon. Prices made slight gains on covering. In the afternoon Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé and Canadian Pacific led the market on Wall Street buying. The closing was steady, but a fraction below the highest.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2⅛@2 3-16 per cent.; for three months' bills 2⅛@2 3-16 per cent.

Bullion amounting to £129,000 was taken into the Bank of England to-day and £20,000 was withdrawn for shipment to South America.

Gold premium at Madrid, 8.05; at Lisbon, 10.

PARIS, May 9.—Prices opened irregular, but closed firm on the Bourse to-day.

BERLIN, May 9.—Domestic securities were quiet and firm on the Boerse to-day. Canadian Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio were active.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Unchanged or easier prices marked the trend of most of the trading on the local Stock Exchange to-day, with transactions moderate in volume. American Can shares were the strongest feature, and carried their advance further than last night, though the preferred alone held its gain to the end. The common, after advancing a fraction, eased off to 12, a shade under last night, but the preferred rose almost 2 points, to 87½, and closed at 87. There were small recessions in Diamond Match, Commonwealth Edison, and some others, while Sears-Roebuck and Box Board were among the unchanged issues at the end.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Announcement of the suspension of Jamison Brothers & Co. did not cause a ripple on the local market to-day. As a matter of fact the market was prepared for it, the embarrassment of the firm having been generally known in financial circles for some little time. This was about the only important news development, and the dullness of the trading continued unbroken.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Several interesting deals of business and residential property in addition to the auction sale by Joseph P. Day of a portion of the Loyal L. Smith estate in the Washington Heights district contributed to a fairly active day in the realty market yesterday. The Fifth Avenue district in Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh Streets furnished two good transactions, both of which, in view of the quick turning over of the properties, indicates the ever-increasing demand for favorable commercial sites in the popular shopping section.

In addition to the Smith auction offerings, the Hoguet estate disposed of a large plot on Riverside Drive and 140th Street, in a deal of $400,000, or slightly over that amount. James Speyer, the banker, added to his holdings on upper Fifth Avenue, where he contemplates building his new home, by purchasing from Henry Phipps the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Eighty-seventh Street, adjoining the two plots he acquired last season, giving him a Fifth Avenue frontage of 75 feet.

The property just acquired by Judson S. Todd, President of the Holland Holding Company, at 20, 22, and 24 West Thirty-seventh Street has been immediately resold, as announced yesterday, to Julius Sternfeld, a wholesale importer of linens and laces, at 114 East Twenty-third Street.

The consideration was about $350,000. On the plot, which has a frontage of 63.11 feet, Mr. Sternfeld has had plans prepared by the architects, G. & E. Blum, for a twelve-story loft structure, which will be ready for occupancy early next year.

The other deal in the immediate locality involves the property at 52, 54, and 56 West Thirty-sixth Street, recently acquired by Michael Coleman, the houses at 54 and 56 having been bought from Dr. Joseph D. Bryant. It is reported that Mr. Coleman has practically concluded negotiations to turn over the entire plot, having a frontage of 60 feet, to a builder for immediate improvement with a high-class business building. The house at 52 was sold by Mrs. Anna Satterlee through the brokerage firm of L. J. Carpenter.

An Active East Side Market.

Several investment sales in east side property, where there has been marked activity during the past few weeks, were reported yesterday, the most important being a 48-foot plot on East Thirty-fourth Street, directly opposite the site of the new Children's Court. The property, which consists of three old buildings known as 215, 217, and 219 East Thirty-fourth Street, 48 by 100, was sold by L. N. Levy to Moses D. Moss as attorney for William J. Levandee. The buyer paid about $50,000 and will hold the parcel for investment.

Further south Folsom Brothers sold for the estate of John Jay Mathews the four-story house and lot 255 Third Avenue, 18 by 75, to Charles E. Colthup. The building will be altered for his business.

Julius Tishman sold 88 and 90 First Street to an investor. The property is on the lower east side, being a new-law tenement having thirty-five families and one of three houses recently completed.

Denis McGrath has sold 161 East 104th Street, a four-story tenement, on lot 25 by 100.11 near Lexington Avenue.

Resale on West 40th Street.

The Greenwich Investing Company has resold 345, 347, and 349 West Fortieth Street, three three-story buildings, on a plot 82.6 by 98.9, located near Ninth Avenue. The buyer is a client of S. A. Singerman, and it is understood that the old buildings will be demolished and a twelve-story loft building erected. The Henry M. Weill Company negotiated the sale.

Private Dwellings Sold.

H. P. Walker has sold through the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company 120 East Eightieth Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, on a lot 18.4 by 102.2.

Another sale in the same neighborhood was that of 56 East Seventy-ninth Street, a four-story American basement dwelling, 25 by 102.2, which was sold by Louis G. Smith. The buyer will occupy.

Hoguet Estate Sells Corner.

Another important deal in the Washington Heights section was announced yesterday by the Hoguet estate, which sold a plot of nine lots on the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 140th Street.

A well-known operator is reported to be the buyer. The property, which fronts 99.10 on the drive and 225 feet on 140th Street, is part of the old Hoguet homestead, which stretches along Riverside Drive from 140th Street to 142d Street, and which has recently been put on the market.

The plot sold and the adjoining nine lots at the southeast corner of 141st Street and Riverside Drive were held at an aggregate of $425,000.

Smith Estate Sale on West Side.

Six of the fourteen plots advertised for sale by the Loyal S. Smith estate were sold by Joseph P. Day in the Vesey Street salesroom yesterday. The property comprised the block bounded by Fort Washington Avenue, Riverside Drive, and 160th and 161st Streets, but after the sale of six parcels it was announced that the remainder would be offered at a later date, when improvements in 161st Street are completed. For the six parcels a total of $254,000 was realized. The Dayton Realty Company was the buyer, for $48,520, of the northwest corner of Fort Washington Avenue and 160th Street, 102 by 121.7 and irregular. Harold S. Kirby bought the adjoining southwest corner of the avenue and 161st Street, 102 by 100, for $45,000.

The northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 160th Street, 118 by 100 and irregular, went to Charles Griffith Moses & Brother for a client for $79,000. The plot 72 by 100, on the south side of 161st Street, 100 feet west of Fort Washington Avenue, was struck down for $24,500; the adjoining 100 feet on 161st Street for $34,500, and an abutting plot, 67 by 100, on 160th Street for $23,000, these three parcels being taken in the name of Horace L. Kempe.

East 86th Street Apartment Deal.

The Putnam Construction Company, of which Samuel A. Herzog is President, has concluded negotiations for the purchase of the two five-story apartment houses, on a plot 64 by 102.2, at 68 and 70 East Eighty-sixth Street, between Park and Madison Avenues. The respective owners were Wilson Marshall of Bridgeport, Conn., and Louis Rose. The buyers intend to erect on the site a twelve-story high-class appartment house, with two families on a floor. The cost of the land and improvement will aggregate over $400,000. The negotiations were conducted by Leon S. Altmayer on behalf of the Putnam Construction Company, Christian Volzing & Son representing Mr. Marshall and Harry N. Kohn representing Mr. Rose.

Bronx.

H. J. Bauer & Co., Incorporated, have sold for the Reliable Construction Company to a client 904 and 906 Jackson Avenue, the Bronx, two five-story 87.6-foot apartment houses. The same brokers have also sold for Jacob Schneider to a client a two-story dwelling, on lot 50 by 123, on the east side of Union Avenue, near Westchester Avenue.

Kurz & Uren, Incorporated, have sold for the Frame Realty Company the vacant plot of land, 30 by 95, at the southeast corner of Audubon Avenue and 169th Street, to a builder, for immediate improvement.

Bertha Gehle has sold the three-story house at 749 East 179th Street, on lot 24 by 100, to Philip Martin, who has resold it to Regina Kirschstein, Brooklyn.

W. E. & W. I. Brown, Incorporated, have sold for J. Romaine Brown the plot on the east side of Webster Avenue, about 117.88 feet south of East 173d Street, being in size 32 by irregular.

Brooklyn.

E. Sharum has sold for a client 538 Essex Street, Brooklyn, a three-story frame house.

The David P. Leahy Realty Company has bought from the Realty Association a tract comprising 455 lots near Coney Island, bounded by Twenty-seventh Avenue, Harway Avenue, Avenue Z, and Cropsey Avenue.

F. W. Carruthers has sold 3,022 Canarsie Lane, a two-story and cellar two-family brick house, for Rebecca McGovern, for investment; 1,258 New York Avenue, a two-and-one-half-story detached frame house, for A. Worthington to a client for occupancy, and 323 Pacific Street, a three-story double brick apartment, for B. Crowe to a client for investment.

The Jerome Property Corporation has sold for Elizabeth Kahles the two-story and basement two-family brownstone house at 464 Thirteenth Street, on a lot 20 by 100, to a client for occupancy.

Buys 26 Lots in Jersey City.

Twenty-six lots in the Hudson City section of Jersey City have been purchased by Frederick Engelbrecht from the New Jersey Chartered Company. Six of the lots are on the west side of Germania Avenue, near Manhattan Avenue; three on the northeast corner of Manhattan and Terrace Avenues; four in Terrace Avenue, near Manhattan Avenue; four on the northwest corner of Manhattan and Terrace Avenues; four on on the northwest corner of Manhattan and Western Avenues; three on Tonnele Avenue, near Reserve; two on Terrace Avenue, near Manhattan Avenue, and one lot on the southwest corner of Western and Reserve Avenues.

Recent Buyers.

John L. Miller is the purchaser of the dwelling, 64 Riverside Drive, sold recently by the Sterling Realty Company. The purchase was made to protect the light of the Riverdale Apartment adjoining.

Upper Broadway Corner Leased.

G. P. Butterly has leased for James, Schell & Elkus, attorneys for Mabel R. Sherman, the entire property on the southwest corner of Broadway and 131st Street, containing about 50,000 square feet, for a period of 21 years. This property was until recently occupied by the Empire City Woodworking Company, which lately purchased seventy-five lots in the Greenpoint section of Long Island City and removed their entire plant to the new quarters.

Below Fifty-ninth Street.

Bryan L. Kennelly will sell to-day in the Vesey Street Salesroom the valuable holdings of the Albert J. Adams Estate, comprising several choice corner plots below Fifty-ninth Street. Among these are the northwest corner of Seventh Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street, the southeast corner of Third Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street, northeast corner of Eighth Avenue and Forty-first Street, southwest corner of Ninth Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, southeast corner of Third Avenue and Forty-fifth Street, southeast corner of Second Avenue and Forty-seventh Street, and the northeast corner of Eighth Avenue and Fiftieth Street. Among the other properties are the southwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue and Eighty-second Street, northeast corner of Lexington Avenue and 102d Street, and the southwest corner of Second Avenue and 128th Street, all occupied by tenements and stores.

Elks Mortgage 43d Street Clubhouse.

Justice Hendrick of the Supreme Court has granted permission to the Order of Elks to mortgage its new clubhouse on West Forty-third Street for $650,000 in order to pay off a building loan of $450,000 and $190,578 as the cost of completing the building. The Elks will then have their indebtedness on the property, which is valued at $1,200,000, in two mortgages of $650,000 and $250,000.

April Building Shows Decline.

Official reports from forty-seven cities throughout the country, as compiled by The American Contractor, New York, show an aggregate decline in building operations for the month of April of 17 per cent., as compared with April, 1910. Uncertainty in National politics and anticipated labor troubles in large building centres may have caused considerable of this shrinkage. The great majority of the cities listed show a loss varying from 6 to 76 per cent. The principal gains were made as follows: Dallas, 188 per cent.; Detroit, 70; Hartford, 44; Knoxville, 92; Little Rock, 81; Louisville, 77; Manchester, 112; Memphis, 73; Salt Lake City, 89; Toledo, 67; Worcester, 108. Particulars will be found in the following table:

Bronx Taxpayers' Meeting.

A meeting of the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Borough of the Bronx will be held at the headquarters of the alliance, 4,214 Third Avenue, this evening. Many matters of importance will be brought before the meeting, and Mr. Benjamin Clarke Marsh, Executive Secretary of the Committee on Congestion of Population, will address the alliance on the Anti-Congestion bills now pending in the Legislature.

Notes.

W. C. Reeves & Co. took a party of 290 prospective realty buyers to their new development known as Sea Breeze Heights, S. I., Sunday and closed $12,000 worth of contracts.

The Harlem Property Owners will hold a meeting at 147 West 125th Street tomorrow evening.

LONG ISLAND—FOR SALE OR TO LET

$800 and upwards Furnished for the Season at LONG BEACH

Long Beach homes represent the highest achievement in the construction of seashore dwellings. Superb from the standpoint of architecture, they combine also qualities of durableness not commonly associated with Summer homes. Many of them, as a matter of fact, are occupied the year round. They are made to live in and enjoy.

Some of these beautiful, cool, stucco homes—not many—are for rent. They are most attractively furnished and decorated and their interior design and finish further carry out the elegance of their exteriors. A few may be rented at $800 for the season.

Long Beach is reached in 40 minutes from the new Pennsylvania Station, in clean, comfortable electric trains without change of cars. Commutation rate 37 cents a day. The ten-mile beach is superb, the bathing the best, the beach the safest on the Atlantic Coast, with a brisk tonic surf that has been famous for years.

Long Beach, compared with other portions of the Long Island shore, projects outward three miles at sea. Merely to stroll on the great three-mile boardwalk is to experience as bracing and beneficial effects as an ocean voyage gives. There is still-water bathing, too, and motor boating. There is a tennis club with 5 courts; daily concerts; horseback riding; rowing; automobile terminal; one hour from New York.

Government reports show that Long Beach, with the single exception of Block Island, is the coolest resort along the Atlantic Coast this side of Nantucket. Homes and lots for sale here upon easy terms, at attractive prices for those who wish to establish permanent Summer or all-year-round residences.

Come to Long Beach Saturday or Sunday and LET US SHOW YOU, or write

CATSKILL AQUEDUCT.

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Water Supply, at its offices, seventh floor, 165 Broadway, New York, until 11 A. M. on Tuesday, May 16, 1911, for Contract 63, for the construction of a portion of the city tunnel of the Catskill aqueduct, a circular tunnel in rock 15 feet inside diameter, and about 21,260 feet long. From the northerly end of the work in Yonkers, about 200 feet north of the New York City line, between Jerome and Mt. Vernon Avenues, the tunnel line extends in a general southerly direction through the Borough of The Bronx, under Van Cortlandt Park and Jerome Park reservoir, and thence beneath the Old Croton aqueduct and Aqueduct Avenue to Burnside Avenue, near University Heights. Tunnel construction will be carried on through five shafts, spaced from 3,500 to 5,000 feet apart, and varying in depth from 215 to 240 feet.

At the above place and time the bids will be publicly opened and read. Pamphlets containing information for bidders, and pamphlets of contract drawings can be obtained at the above address by depositing the sum of ten dollars ($10) for each pamphlet. REFEREES' NOTICES.

In pursuance of an interlocutory judgment for the partition of real property by the sale thereof, dated May 4, 1911, and duly entered in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York on May 5th, 1911, I, the undersigned, referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the Exchange Sales Rooms, Nos. 14 and 16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City and County of New York, on the first day of June, 1911, at twelve o'clock noon of that day, by Samuel Marx, Auctioneer, the premises, with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, with the building and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at a point on the westerly side of Broad Street, distant thirty-one feet six and one-half inches northerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the northerly side of Water Street with the westerly side of Broad Street, running thence westerly through the centre of a party wall, and on a line making on its southerly side an angle of seventy-nine degrees forty-six minutes thirty seconds (79° 46' 30") with the westerly side of Broad Street seventy-four feet four and one-half inches, more or less, to the premises No. 16 Water Street; thence northerly on a line making on its easterly side an angle of ninety degrees thirty-five minutes (90° 35') with the last-mentioned course, twenty-four feet seven inches, and along the easterly wall of said No. 16 Water Street; thence easterly on a line making on its southerly side an angle of eighty-nine degrees forty-three minutes thirty seconds (89° 43' 30") with the last-mentioned course, four feet six and one-half inches; thence southerly on a line making on its westerly side an angle of eighty-nine degrees eleven minutes (89° 11') with the last-mentioned course, one foot and three-eighths of an inch; thence easterly through the centre of another party wall and on a line making on its northerly side an angle of eighty-nine degrees twenty-three minutes (89° 23') with the last-mentioned course, seventy-four feet four and one-half inches to the westerly side of Broad Street, and thence southerly along the said westerly side of Broad Street, twenty-four feet one and one-quarter inches, to the point or place of beginning.

Said premises above described being known as Number 106 Broad Street, in said Borough and City.

Dated New York, May 8, 1911.

WHY CONTINUE to live in a boarding house, with its limited conveniences, when, at the same cost, you can secure first-class hotel accommodations?

It will interest you and pay you to call at Hotel Information Bureau, Room 1,814, No. 303 Fifth Avenue, Corner Thirty-first Street, and investigate the offerings we present.

$18 per week and up for two people includes elegantly furnished, electric-lighted room with private tiled bathroom and superb hotel meals. $25 and up per week for two people includes elegantly furnished, electric-lighted suite of parlor, bedroom, and private tiled bathroom, private telephone, and deliciously prepared hotel meals. $12 per week and up for room, private bath, and meals. Special rates to families. Southern exposure; billiard room, palm room, smoking room; vacuum cleaned; electric candles on dining room tables give fairyland effect; one block from station; fireproof; not a country hotel, but a first-class metropolitan house open all the year round.

This hotel is not on crowded Manhattan. It is surrounded by green lawns, flowers, trees. You will have fresh air, refreshing sleep, and still be within thirty five minutes of Broadway, within thirty five minutes of the theatre and shopping district, within thirty minutes of the downtown business district. The McAdoo tube brings you to either swiftly and comfortably.

We also have many attractive offers to present in first-class boarding houses and family hotels, in various parts of this city, that do their renting and advertising through us, and can secure you special rates.

Save time and money by calling at our Hotel Information Bureau, Room 1,814, No. 303 Fifth Avenue, corner Thirty-first Street.

SAYS HUSBAND URGED HER TO DIVORCE HIM

BAD TEMPER, HE ANSWERS

Declares Her Nerves Are Affected "by Drugs or Drink"—Employe Also Accuses Her—Allmony Granted.

James P. McDonald, the international railway builder, who owns a large estate at Knoxville, Tenn., and another in Orange County, this State, was ordered yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Bischoff to pay $300 a month alimony to his wife, Edith McDonald, who was the widow of George Delacey Evans, pending the trial of her suit against him for separation. Both Mr. and Mrs. McDonald make serious allegations.

Mrs. McDonald states that she was married to her present husband on Nov. 20, 1902, and has lived at the Hotel Belleclaire and on the Orange County estate. McDonald, she says, has large concessions in Haiti, estimated by some persons to be worth $100,000,000. While he was in Haiti, she says, he ceased to write to her, and she wrote that unless she heard from him she would go to Haiti to find out if he were alive. In reply she received an enigmatical letter in which he stated that he believed persons were writing to him using her name.

On their farm in Orange County, she says, he accused her of trying to poison him and carefully inspected everything he ate or drank. He showed her a solitaire ring, with the remark: "The woman who gave me that really cares for me."

In May, 1910, she says, he brought a Col. Wilson to the Orange County estate, and she complains of their conduct while there. Two hours after Col. Wilson and he had left the estate the cook's little girl went into a clothes closet with a lighted candle and set fire to the house, which was totally destroyed. When she came to New York and arrived at the Belleclaire, she says, Mr. McDonald accused her of having burned the house. He declined to stay in the same apartment with her, and in June assaulted her, severely wounding her arm.

Mrs. McDonald says that her husband advised her to get a divorce. One day she met a veiled woman on the street, who addressed her as follows:

"Yes."

"Have you got your divorce yet?"

"No; what makes you ask me such a question?"

"Well, your husband has promised to marry me as soon as he is rid of you."

Among the railroads which her husband has built Mrs. McDonald names the Jamaica (W. I.) Railroad, the Guayaquil & Quito Railroad over the Andes Mountains, the Tellica Railroad in Tennessee, the Washingtotn County Railroad in Maine, the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad, and the Seaboard Air Line.

He owns, she says, a 200-acre farm near Knoxville, Tenn., on which he maintains his grown daughter Rose, the child of a former marriage. He has, she says, educated the children of his sister and spent $5,000 to get his sister's son appointed to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. He had given $10,000 outright to his sister's family, she says, and presented a four-thousand-dollar silver service to William H. Buckley. He carries $50,000 insurance in favor of his daughter, $25,000 in favor of his father, and did carry $25,000 insurance in her favor, on which he later allowed the premiums to lapse. Among the furnishings of what she characterizes as his "palatial home" in Kentucky, she says, are $20,000 worth of cut glass and bric-à-brac.

McDonald's answer is that all his wife's statements are false. He says she has a bad temper and bad habits and that her nerves have been wrecked either by drink or drugs. He says that his Haitian concessions have so far been nothing but a source of great expense and have yielded no profits, although they may be valuable later if developed. His daughter, Rose, he says, lives with his father, Michael McCabe. The reason he failed to answer his wife's letters to Haiti, he says, was because he considered it discourteous that they should have been typewritten. He says that the story that he accused his wife of wanting to poison him or of having fired the Orange County farmhouse, as well as the story of the diamond ring and the veiled woman, are the products of his wife's imagination and have no basis in fact. He says he gave her $25,000 in cash in 1907, which she still has invested, and declares that he has lived apart from her only because her presence made it impossible for him to work.

Thomas Kimball, McDonald's foreman, put in an affidavit that Mrs. McDonald was intoxicated much of the time on the Orange County farm and that she grew melancholy over the illness of a pet dog. She paid $65 to a veterinarian to have the dog treated, but it grew steadily worse. Its sufferings became too much for him to see, Kimball said, and he chloroformed it. Mrs. McDonald, he says, ran down, kissed the dying dog on its foaming lips, and then carried the dog to her room, where she fell asleep on the bed with her arms about the body of the dead animal. Mrs. McDonald denies the foreman's allegations.

McANENY ANSWERS GAYNOR.

Borough President George McAneny hit back at Mayor Gaynor yesterday for the Mayor's exchange of letters with Commissioner of Records Andrews concerning Mr. McAneny's opposition to the Mayor's veto provided by the Gaynor-Smith Charter. In that correspondence Mayor Gaynor states that the veto requirement is taken from the provisions of the Hammond charter as well as the charter prepared by the Ivins Charter Commission, of which Mr. McAneny was a member.

"I never asked that the Moyor's veto power be enlarged," Mayor Gaynor said in the correspondence referred to. "The draughtsman merely took the things as it had been recommended for years."

Mr. McAneny said: "The Ivins charter provided that resolutions of the Board of Estimate 'authorizing or relating to the expenditure of money' might, if disapproved by the Mayor, be repassed by an aggregate of ten votes—that is, one more than a majority. The charter now at Albany requires ten votes to pass, in the first instance, and then provides that a veto, even of such a vote, shall stand unless overridden by twelve.

City Must Pay Dr. Schultze.

Dr. Otto H. Schultze, a Coroner's Physician, won a verdict of $1,620 against the City of New York yesterday from a Supreme Court jury before Justice Greenbaum. Dr. Schultze sued for special services as an expert in the Patrick and other homicide cases. Controller Prendergast had refused to audit his claim on the ground that a salaried officer, such as a Coroner's Physician, cannot claim extra compensation.

NEGRO'S HAND AT HER THROAT

MORRISTOWN, N. J., May 9.—Fingers clasped about her throat awakened Miss Frances Fisher at 1 o'clock this morning. She was sleeping with her mother, Mrs. E. J. Ketcham, in their home on the Basking Ridge Road. Over the woman stood a negro whom they recognized as Albert Kelly, a former employe in the household.

Mrs. Ketcham screamed, and the negro attempted to stifle her cries. The daughter went to her mother's rescue, and the intruder turned upon her.

Both women fought until the negro became frightened and made his escape by jumping to a porch and thence to the ground.

The women, who were alone in the house, cried out until Charles Jones and Lester Blazier, their neighbors, were aroused. They found the women scratched and terror-stricken.

Several other neighbors were called, among them Herman Childs, who put his auto into service. Armed with revolvers and shotguns, a posse started out in the machine after the negro. They searched the roads and woods without success, and then went to Ira Garrabrant's house, where Kelly was employed. Garrabrant said Kelly had packed his valise and left an overcoat near it, and he thought the negro would return for it. The posse concluded to continue the search, and learned at daylight that Kelly had gone to Garrabrant's place after their departure and got the valise. It is believed now that the negro is hiding in the woods. All day the hunt has continued in the forest about Basking Ridge.

RECALL PANIC DAY.

Ten years ago yesterday was, with the possible exception of the Friday during the panic when the twenty-five-million-dollar loan arranged by J. P. Morgan & Co. stemmed a rising panic, the day of greatest excitement the Stock Exchange has ever seen. The tape record of the course of Northern Pacific that day, when it ran up from 200 to 1,000, is framed in many offices.

In the dull market yesterday some one, remembering the decennial, rigged up a banner emblazoned, "Survivors of the Northern Pacific Panic, May 9, 1901." Fifty brokers, more or less, formed in line and marched around the floor behind the standard bearer, who was a trader famous for having stood to lose that day $85,000 on the execution of a two-dollar order. He had been commissioned to buy 100 Northern Pacific at 150 on Wednesday, the day before the panic, and believed he had filled his order, but its execution was disputed after he had reported to his customer. There was nothing left for him to do but buy the stock in at his own loss on Thursday.

From the opening at 170 the price soared to 700 on the regular transactions, but in the panic, when no one knew who was solvent and who was not, the cash rule was put into effect, and cash sales were made up to 1,000. Yesterday's leader of the survivors closed his contract at that time for something like 320, the price in the late trading, losing about $17,000, according to tradition.

MILLER ESCAPES PRISON.

Sentence Suspended Against Young Young Man Who Pawned Young Women's Valuables Goes Free.

Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions suspended sentence yesterday upon John Townsend Miller, son of John Francis Miller, former Secretary of the Equitable Fire Insurance Company, who pleaded guilty to four indictments, one for grand larceny in the first and three for grand larceny in the second degree.

Miller first pleaded guilty to petty larceny on one of the indictments, charging grand larceny in the second degree in the theft of a watch valued at $50 from Miss Alice Johnson, at 21 West Eleventh Street. The District Attorney then caused three other indictments to be found against him, one of which charged him with stealing a ring, which he pawned for $400, from Miss Dorothy Posner of 301 West Ninety-second Street.

Before suspending sentence Judge Rosalsky was informed that a position would be offered Miller and that he would keep away from the gay life of Broadway.

NEW POLO GROUNDS STAND.

Plans Filed for Fireproof Structure—Seats for 50,000.

Plans were filed yesterday for the new grand stand that will take the place of the one recently destroyed by fire on the Polo Grounds. The new stand will have two tiers of seats. It will be built of reinforced concrete and steel columns, semi-circular in shape, measuring 328 feet on the inner circle and 534 feet on the outer side of the circle. It will have an asbestos roof and will be thoroughly fireproof, there being no wood used in its construction.

The exact seating capacity is not given, but is of such proportions as to make the total seating capacity of the Polo Grounds about 50,000. The property is owned by Harriet G. Coogan. The National Exhibition Company, of which John T. Brush is President, is the lessee of the grounds and owner of the buildings. The Osborn Engineering Company of Cleveland, Ohio, has prepared the plans. The cost has been placed at $100,000.

GARDEN OWNERS CONSENT.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Madison Square Garden Company was held at the company's offices yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of authorizing the sale of the property and of ratifying the action of the Board of Directors and officers of the company.

The meeting was purely formal, and resulted in the authorization of the option on the purchase of the Garden granted to Alwyn Ball, Jr., about ten days ago. No other matters of importance were transacted.

China Importers Unite.

The importers of chinaware in this city have perfected an organization called "The China Importers' Association of New York." Substantially all the city houses in the trade have become members. The notice issued by the Treasury Department to the effect that the rate list between the United States and the Limoges Chamber of Commerce, controlling the dutiable value of French china, would be abrogated on May 1, was the direct cause of the formation of the association, the object of which is to establish equity and equality in valuations. Henry Witte is President and Paul B. Haviland Secretary of the association.

TWO TALES OF $20,000 LOAN TO MRS. SULLY

MONEY FOR LAWYER'S FEES

Peter H. Corr Says Loan Was to Save Furniture; Sully That It Was to Arm Him Against Jerome.

Col. Peter H. Corr's suit against Mrs. Emma F. Sully, wife of Daniel J. Sully, one time manipulator of cotton markets, for $20,000 on a loan made in 1904, went to trial yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Amend and a jury.

Col. Corr told the jury that he had lent Mrs. Sully the money in response to a plea over the long-distance telephone to save her furniture, which was about to be seized on a chattel mortgage.

Sully told the jury that Col. Corr forced the loan on him after scaring him with a story that District Attorney Jerome was about to indict him as a common gambler, and got him to turn the proceeds of the loan over to John R. Dos Passos, whom Corr recommended as counsel.

The loan was made, all the parties to the transaction admit, in the form of two checks payable to Frank K. Potter, who was doing some work under contract in the Sully home. Mrs. Sully not only denies that the loan was made to her, but insists she cannot be held liable even as security.

Sully is back in the jurisdiction of New York State courts again under a writ of protection, which prevents Deputy Sheriffs from serving civil orders of arrest and attachments, and other functionaries from serving any other legal papers upon him. The order was granted by Justice Blanchard at Mrs. Sully's request, on her statement that she needed his testimony, and that she could not bring him here from Washington, D. C., to testify unless sanctuary was given him.

Corr, who lives in Taunton, Mass., gave his version of the transaction first. He said that he was in Philadelphia on March 24, 1904, and Mrs. Sully called him up on the long-distance telephone.

This, according to the testimony, is what she said:

"Please lend me $25,000 at once, to protect my beautiful furniture. You must do it at once. I'm in terrible distress. The men are coming to take it away under a chattel mortgage, and I appeal to you. You know what has happened to the cotton market. I have between $300,000 and $400,000 which Mr. Sully has given to me, and out of which I can reimburse you as soon as I can get rid of the entanglements about my money."

Corr said he made over two checks of $10,000 each, with the explanation that it was all that he could spare. He asked Mrs. Sully for the return of the loan, he said, about two months afterward, and again when she sold the furniture.

"Col. Corr told me he had heard that District Attorney Jerome was preparing to indict me as a common gambler. I wondered at that. But he imbued me with the idea that I ought to have experienced counsel to protect me. He and Junkin then went away, but they returned late in the evening. They told me that my troubles in the event of an indictment would be insurmountable. He said that I had better drop the lawyers I had and retain Dos Passos and Junkin. It would require, he said, $30,000 to retain Dos Passos, who was the leader at the bar. I told him I had given my receivers everything. Mr. Junkin said that was the most foolish thing I ever did. Then Col. Corr spoke up and said:

"'We've been pretty good friends, Dan, all our lives, and I'll advance you $20,000 to get you out of this mess if that'll be of any aid. You can get the other $10,000, I guess, and go ahead.'"

Sully agreed to accept the loan, but suggested that the checks be made out to Potter, as Sully was insolvent. Potter got the cash, turned it over to Sully, who says he gave it to Mr. Dos Passos.
